
Three Receptions to Mark Opening of B.C.'s Top Residence

British Columbia's No. 1 residence, the $1,500,000 new Government House, became a home this week as Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross moved in and today announeed plans for their "housewarming" parties. First will be a reception May 19 for the premier, cabinet members and MLAs and their wives. Next will be May 20 when members of the weekly and daily press, radio and television will be invited to view the mansion and attend a reception. And then on May 24 afternoon there will be a reception for the architects, contractors, sub-contractors and works department officials. Times photographer Bill Halkett's aerial photos taken from a helicopter, show, left, the southern side of the mansion overlooking Juan de Fuca Strait, and right, the northern exposure which is the main entrance. Stone archway incorporated in entrance was all that remained when old Government House burned to the ground in the early morning of April 15, 1957.

FOR MACMILLAN

Monty's Mum On K's Message

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery announced today that Nikita Khrushchev has given him a "friendly message" to deliver to Prime Minister Macmillan.

Montgomery refused to disclose any details of the message and said it was a verbal one. "It's up here," he said, pointing to his head.

He was addressing a press conference a few hours after his second meeting in two days with the Russian premier on his self-appointed mission to Moscow.

BETTER INFORMED NOW

Montgomery said he now has "certainly a much better idea" of Soviet aims.

"I had heard a lot about it before, but now I know it from the horse's mouth," said Montgomery, who personally arranged the meeting with Khrushchev for the purpose, as he described it, of improving East-West relations.

Montgomery said that during their meeting today, lasting just under an hour, Khrushchev had invited him to return to Russia for a holiday but that he had no plans in the foreseeable future to return to Russia. He himself had asked Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Soviet defence minister, to visit him in England.

Asked about future plans, Montgomery said he plans to go to South Africa to visit his wartime chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Sir Francis Guingand. He said he also plans to visit Canada next spring.

Montgomery made a hit with the Kremlin leaders on his first full day in Moscow Wednesday. At the Briton's request, Khrushchev invited him back for another talk this morning. Western diplomats could not recall any other private visitor accorded interviews on successive days.

"There is so much to talk about, so much of interest," said the retired British soldier, who is here "to improve East-West mutual understanding" despite strong disapproval of British newspapers and most politicians.

'TEACH CHINESE IN SCHOOLS'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senior high school students should get lessons in Chinese and Japanese, the Chant Royal Commission was told Wednesday.

The committee on Asian studies from the University of B.C. said in a brief that by any standards—economic, political or cultural—"Japan is as influential a country in the present world as Spain and has more direct links with B.C. than Spain and Spanish America together."

Yet, while Spanish was taught in B.C. schools, Japanese was not.

Chinese should also be taught now so the western world won't be "caught napping a second time" when China, like Russia, emerges as a world power, the brief said.

Bribe Case Judgment Reserved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment in the Sommers-Gray bribery and conspiracy appeal case.

The court gave no indication when it will announce its decision.

However, a court official said there would be no delay in view of the fact that Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray have started to serve five-year prison sentences.

Their appeal was put at the head of the list of cases to be heard at the spring session of the court to expedite a decision.

Sommers, a former British Columbia minister of lands and forests, and Gray, Vancouver timber executive, were convicted and sentenced to five years each—Sommers for having accepted bribes from Gray in 1953-54 and Gray for having bribed Sommers in return for special treatment in obtaining forest management licences.

TV Star Has Tumor Removed

NEW YORK (AP)—Part of Arthur Godfrey's left lung was removed today along with a malignant tumor there.

A statement said of the radio-TV star:

"Mr. Godfrey was operated on this morning for removal of a tumor in his left lung. The upper lobe of the lung was successfully removed with the contained tumor.

"He withstood the operation well. His general condition immediately post-operative is good."

The statement was issued by Alvin J. Binkert, executive vice-president of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, where the operation was performed.

The surgery lasted five hours. Godfrey was then taken to a recovery room. He will remain there until attending physicians feel he has recovered sufficiently to be returned to his own room.

Decision Reserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The president of the Exchequer Court of Canada said today he is "inclined" to allow a damage action by Newfoundland against the federal government to go to trial. Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson said, however, that he would reserve formal decision until June.

GRADUAL PLAN

Civil Defence Role For Canada's Militia

OTTAWA (CP)—The 41,000-member militia will be converted almost exclusively into a Civil Defence force, it was indicated in a defence white paper published today by the government.

"The equipment not needed for survival operations will be withdrawn gradually from the militia as equipment for these Civil Defence operations is introduced," the 51-page white paper said at one point.

Informants said all artillery, tanks and mortars will be taken away from the militia though the reserve army will retain small arms such as rifles and transport and communications.

There are 26 armored units in the militia, including 22 regiments, and 52 artillery units, including 17 field regiments and six medium regiments. They will not be disbanded.

"All the regular and reserve forces in Canada not directly engaged in activities against an aggressor will be available for survival operations," the paper said.

U.S. Lifts Canadian Oil Curbs

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States is lifting its import restrictions on Canadian oil, effective June 1, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today in the Commons.

Removal of the restrictions, subject of several formal protests by the Canadian government, was announced in Washington at the same time.

The exemption from the restrictions is worded so that it can apply only to Canada and Mexico, but Mexico ships virtually no oil into the U.S. The move removes barriers to oil entering the U.S. by pipeline, truck or rail.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the United States decision is "of significance in terms of our general relations with the United States in that it removes a distressing source of irritation, and reflects a degree development of resources which is so necessary for the economic prosperity and mutual defence of our two countries."

The import controls—a form of quota went into effect on a voluntary basis in July, 1957, and since last March 10 have been in the form of mandatory government controls.

SECURITY ANGLE

The United States justified the controls on the grounds of national security and defence.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker repeated the gist of the several protests sent to Washington: That the controls were not consistent with the mutual security interest of the two countries in North American defence.

He expressed the government's "satisfaction" at the move.

Oils Soar

Oils jumped and then tapered off today after President Eisenhower exempted Canadian oil from mandatory restrictions on imports of foreign petroleum products.

In Victoria Home Oil soared to $20 before the president's announcement and then closed at $19 in a burst of profit-taking. Medallion went up to $2.90, closed at $2.85.

U.S. PLANES, TROOPS ON GUARD IN PANAMA

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Planes and troops from the United States and three Latin American nations stood by today to meet the threat of a new landing attempt by invaders from Cuba.

Informed sources said U.S. planes based in the canal zone were expected to start patrolling the Panamanian coast today.

A highly placed source said that at least one more invasion ship was on the way from Cuba.

"We have it spotted," he said. "We are watching."

Big Tanker Ship Planned for Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — A $16,000,000 tanker supply ship will be built for the Canadian Navy, the government disclosed today in a white paper on defence.

Informants said no contract has yet been let on the 22,000-ton vessel.

The tanker will also carry helicopters, giving it a limited anti-submarine role. Naval helicopters carry torpedoes and devices which are lowered into the water to listen for submarines.

The tanker will enable destroyers to remain at sea for greatly extended periods of time. It will be able to refuel three ships at one time and will have a carrying capacity of 12,000 tons of fuel oil, 1,200 tons of diesel fuel, 1,000 tons of aviation fuel, 250 tons of food and stores and torpedoes.

Informants said further tankers may be built and suggested they might be nuclear-powered. Because the tankers could remain at sea almost indefinitely to replenish destroyers, this might obviate the need for building atomic-powered submarines.

Power Parley Opens

MONTREAL (CP) — Joint discussions between Canada and the United States opened here today in an attempt to find a way of sharing the power benefits from the Columbia River.

Ministers End Paris Meeting

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four foreign ministers announced complete agreement today on a package plan they will deliver to the Geneva conference next month. They then unexpectedly ended their session.

The foreign ministers, however, later arranged a brief new informal meeting late today to clear up some unsettled questions of strategy, raising the question whether their claimed unity was in fact complete.

A final communique gave no details of the plan. The foreign ministers opened their meeting Wednesday to unify their positions for the East-West foreign ministers conference at Geneva May 11.

The ministers said they stood four-square behind the West's pledge to hold firm in Berlin and to refuse to abandon the 2,500,000 residents of that city.

Though the communique did not say so, official sources reported the ministers had agreed to negotiate a separate Berlin settlement if the Soviet Union rejects the over-all package deal on Berlin, German unity and European security they plan to propose at Geneva.

This allied agreement on a fall-back position was disclosed before the British, U.S., French and West German foreign ministers began their closing discussion of Britain's project for a zone of limited, controlled arms and armies in central Europe.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan has advocated establishment of such a zone as the first step in a cold war settlement with the Russians.

The four-power meeting, which opened here Wednesday morning with tentative plans for a three-day stand, was adjourned shortly after noon.

U.K. Proposal Fitted Into Scheme

The last snag was cleared away this morning when the British proposal for a central European security zone was modified. The United States, France and West Germany had objected to the original British proposal, fearing the West would be put at a disadvantage militarily.

Officials said the British proposal will be fitted into the allied program for unification of East and West Germany. In other words, its fulfilment would depend on progress toward a German political settlement.

The British idea as originally conceived calls for controls, inspection and limitation of armed forces in a tension-ridden area of Europe roughly embracing the two Germanys, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Critics expressed fear a pullback in that particular area would put the West at a military disadvantage. It was understood that one of the things Britain agreed to was extension of this area. But how far it would run was not disclosed.

Qualified sources gave this outline of the new allied plan of negotiations:

The Western package will cover the Berlin dispute, the reunification of Germany in four phases and a plan-European security system.

If, as expected, the Soviets reject this package, the Western allies have agreed to fall back on a new position that would allow a separate arrangement on threatened Berlin.

'Believe Briggs' Plea Made, Lawyer Mourns 'B.C.'s Loss'

"The province of British Columbia is poorer for not having Lee Briggs as general manager of the B.C. Power Commisson."

With these words, Hugh McGivern, counsel for Briggs, Wednesday completed his summation of the contribution the former PC general manager had made to public power development in B.C.

In a summation which even opposing counsel described as "extremely well done" Mr. McGivern traced Briggs' role before the Shrum Royal Commission. This is the body set up to investigate Power Commission operations.

For four months it has heard evidence from a steady flow of witnesses, and studied 113 exhibits. From now until mid-July, when it will bring down its report, chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum, commissioners William Anderson and John Dunsmuir will pour over a bulky transcript of nearly 1,000,000 words.

Few of the words were more eloquently delivered than those of McGivern. Of Briggs, the man whose outbursts against the proposed refinancing of Power Commission borrowings led to the setting up of the Royal Commission, McGivern said:

"I ask you to believe in his submissions.

"Lee Briggs was motivated by only one thought—to bring in all the facets of the public utility (the PC) before this commission.

"He never wished to make unfair comments. If he made any which were unfair they should be accepted as expressions of opinion."

Mr. McGivern dealt at length with the government's refinancing proposal of government advances to the power body.

As general manager of the commission Briggs attempted "to arrange a solution."

"At no time," said Mr. Mc-

STISTED, Eng.—The 611 residents of this Essex village yield to no one in their love for Britain's wildlife. But they draw the line at woodpeckers.

Last summer the builders put the last cedarwood shingles on the new £500 roof of All Saints' Church and Rev. Joseph Burney emerged from the rectory to admire their handiwork.

He was not alone in his admiration. From the base of the spire came the appreciative rat-tat-tat of a woodpecker with an obvious taste for fresh cedar.

Interrupted only by the shoos of the rector and outraged villagers, the woodpecker has stuck diligently to the job of perforating the roof. The rector called a parish meeting.

"We don't want to shoot the bird," he said. "We just want to save our spire; after all, most of the folk here helped pay for the roof."

The meeting adjourned in glum silence, broken only by a faint rapping sound overhead.

LOS ANGELES—Harry Truman says he's too busy to accept a visiting professorship at the University of California at Los Angeles but would like to deliver a three-part lecture series when he gets time. The ex-president Tuesday sent the school a message turning down a month-long professorship.

PARIS—Brigitte Bardot has blown out the last ember of her once-torrid romance with guitar player Sacha Distel.

In a brief statement Tuesday, her secretary said:

"I have been told by Miss Bardot to inform the press that Miss Bardot has severed all relations with Mr. Sacha Distel."

Brigitte's current flirtation is with Jacques Charrier, co-star in her latest film.

TAIPEI, Formosa—A 30-year-old woman who described herself as a "coffee-room entertainer" has vanished after reporting to police that her jobless husband had bitten off her nose because she wasn't earning enough to support him.

SYDNEY, Australia—A bar owner who bit a customer's finger during a fight was ordered Wednesday to pay $1,680 damages after the customer complained the injury left his finger permanently stiff and interfered with his golf.

RICHMOND, Va.—A woman called police headquarters, reported her husband missing and asked whether officers could find him.

"How long has he been gone?" asked Sgt. W. F. Hall.

"Thirty-four years," replied the unidentified woman. She said she planned to remarry and wanted the new marriage "to be legal."

BETTER THAN A PROF.

Prober's Life Delights Shrum

The Royal Commission "bug" has bitten Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the B.C. Research Council and director of the physics department at at University of B.C.

As the Royal Commission probing B.C. Power Commission operations concluded Wednesday at the Empress Hotel Dr. Shrum observed: "I've got to like it in four months. I think I'd rather do it than be a professor."

This is the first Royal Commission chairman Dr. Shrum has sat on. Commissioners William Anderson and John Dunsmuir were in the same category.

Dr. Shrum paid tribute to the host of Power Commission witnesses for their "able presentations." He also lauded the seven counsel; said he appreciated the coverage of the press — "they have been a little too generous at times but if there was anything unfair it was not the fault of the people at the press table—it occurred at a higher level."

The commission's report won't be handed down until mid-July or the first of August, he said.

"The report will not please everybody. We are not trying to please anybody. We are going to make comments as we see them."

Commissioner Anderson reiterated Dr. Shrum's remarks that the commission had been a "pleasant experience" and said he wouldn't mind doing it again.

Laughingly, he said Dr. Shrum had set the "Royal Commission business back 50 years with his daily 9 to 5 hearings.

"We need a four-hour day," he said.

'Rayner' Sea Cadet Corps Named

The Admiral Rayner Sea Cadet Corps came into being officially Wdnesday night, in a brief ceremony at Rainbow cadet headquarters at the foot of Robert Street.

The former No. One Navy League corps, for boys 12 to 14, received its new name from Mrs. George Dufour, president of the Victoria Branch, Navy League of Canada.

The name honors Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific coast, who was present at the ceremony and unveiled a life ring carrying the new name of the corps.

Wurtele Denies Letter 'Insult'

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt denied today that Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow wrote him a letter deploring Esquimalt's "small contribution" to Victoria's celebration fund.

He added that Ald. Edgelow, as chairman of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, had in conversation with him expressed "regret" that the Esquimalt grant had been reduced from $350 to $200 for 1959.

"But Ald. Edgelow has made no personal criticism of this municipality by letter," Reeve Wurtele said. "In fairness to him, I much regret the unfavorable publicity given to him, which was due to a misunderstanding."

At a meeting of Esquimalt council meeting last Monday, G. K. Sammon referred to a "critical" letter said to have been written to Reeve Wurtele by Ald. Edgelow and commented:

"I think it's about time Ald. Edgelow learned some municipal manners."

Reeve Wurtele said he had asked Ald. Edgelow for a statement of expenditure and budget of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association.

Later he received a letter enclosing the documents and signed by the secretary-treasurer of the association. It did not contain any criticism of Esquimalt.

Givern, "did it concern him whether the bonds would be a direct debt on the province or a contingent liability.

"What concerned him was that he didn't want a new bond issue to be a further burden on the power commission."

BEST FINANCE PLAN

Then Mr. McGivern recalled the original refinancing scheme. At the suggested 4 per cent interest it would have cost the PC $260,000 in interest. An alternative government plan at 3½ per cent would have cost the PC $215,000 interest.

But, he said, the final plan with $17,738,000 of bonds refinanced at 3 per cent and $9,285,000 at 3⅝ per cent "will cost the Power Commission a lot less—$30,000 to $34,000 by my calculations."

"I am firmly convinced," said Mr. McGivern, "had this proposition been made to Briggs he would have accepted it as a reasonable solution to an awkward problem.

"It seems Briggs couldn't reconcile (Dr. J. V.) Fisher's proposal as being good for the Power Commission or the public. And he faced up to it.

"Griffin (former power commissioner H. H. Griffin) when asked why he resigned, said he wasn't satisfied the proposal was in the best interests of the Power Commission and he didn't want to be part of a device. So we have two men having left, as it were, lucrative positions.

"Briggs' action was that of a man of honest integrity . . . with no other alternative to the problem he found himself in."

NOT MISLEADING

The veteran counsel disagreed with the contention of B.C. Electric vice-president Harry Purdy that Briggs made misleading statements in comparing PC and BCE rates.

"At no time was Briggs misleading," said Mr. McGivern.

He produced a chart to show that the 300 kilowatt hour figure Briggs used to compare rates was "representative."

"His statement was no more misleading than the statement of Dr. Purdy when he compared BCE rates before their recent increase with Power Commission rates and present BCE rates with proposed Power Commission rates.

"Comparisons are only valuable when you compare like with like. Dr. Purdy didn't."

Mr. McGivern emphasized the role Briggs played in the development of the power commission which "is and was the fastest growing public utility in the country."

'ESPRIT-DE-CORPS'

The commission grew from 862 to over 1,800 employees from 1955 to 1958 when Briggs made "a desperate effort to create power solvency.

"He built an esprit-de-corps which is borne out by the way power commission people gave data to this royal commission."

Health Minister Eric Martin came under McGivern's fire for his comments on Briggs' outbursts.

"Martin said Briggs was in such a mess he had pulled the whole house of cards down upon him.

"Nothing could be further from the truth. There has never been any evidence that the power commission is in any mess. It has never been in better shape power-wise. It is financially solvent.

"I ask that the royal commission make a finding that there is no mess.

'COMPLETE INTEGRITY'

"I ask that you make a finding that Briggs was a thorough, capable general manager. You have heard Mr. Crosby (T. H. Crosby, former PC chairman) say that at all times he did his work well.

"I ask that you make a finding that as a person H. Lee Briggs was a man of complete integrity."

Said Dr. Shrum: "We appreciate the important contribution Mr. Briggs has made. He has been helpful in our deliberations."

NIXON MAY RELIEVE IKE AT SUMMIT CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower left the way open Wednesday for Vice-President Richard Nixon to sit in part time at a prospective summit conference.

Eisenhower said he has suggested the possibility that he might require a substitute while he comes home on business for a few days at a time. But he said no plans for this have neen made.

Such a show of confidence in the vice-president, should it take place, certainly would do nothing to impair Nixon's prestige or his chances of capturing the Republican presidential nomination next year.

WOMAN DEFIES POLICE

Grenades Hurled Back

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A 60-year-old widow who barricaded herself in her home Wednesday night kept tear gas-throwing policemen at bay more than three hours with blasts from her shotgun while she tossed the smoking grenades back at them.

The woman, Mrs. Catherine Ranonis, who withstood for 50 minutes the tear gas barrage which felled four detectives, finally slumped through a third-floor bedroom window gasping for air and surrendered.

Firemen started to lower the nearly unconscious widow with a rope but the noose came loose. Three men on the ladder managed to grab her as she swung three floors up.

The woman was admitted to hospital and held for "psychiatric observation."

Police were summoned after Mrs. Ranonis threw water on employees of an undertaking establishment across the street where she had gone to complain about funeral cars being parked in front of her home.

Reds Protest Again; U.S. Rejects Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has rejected Russia's newest protest against high altitude flights by American planes in the Berlin air corridor.

The state department brushed aside Russia's complaint less than two hours Wednesday night after Radio Moscow broadcast the text of a formal protest.

The Soviets contended American flights higher than 10,000 feet are "completely devoid of legal foundation."

In reply, a state department spokesman reaffirmed that American planes will fly above 10,000 feet any time they believe it neecssary for efficient operation.

"The position of the United States government has been clearly and emphatically stated in its note of April 13," said Press Officer Joseph Reap.

CNR Chief Criticized By CCF, Tory Members

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — A CCF member of Parliament suggested Wednesday that better staff relations and greater efficiency would follow if Donald Gordon no longer headed the Canadian National Railways.

Frank Howard, Skeena, said he doesn't mean that the government should get rid of Mr. Gordon "in an out-of-hand way." But insofar as the CNR employees were concerned, relations would be more harmonious and greater efficiency would result if the president was a man who knew more about railroading.

He said the 58-year-old Mr. Gordon, CNR president since Jan. 1, 1950, does not inspire his employees with the sort of faith and confidence he should. As long as that was the case, the railway was going to be plagued by inharmonious relations between management and employees.

Mr. Howard said the CNR should "get off its fanny" with regard to development of a north-south railway in the B.C. interior towards the Yukon and Alaska. He suggested the line start north from Hazelton on the present CNR main line into Prince Rupert, B.C., from Prince George.

Mr. Howard said there are vast reserves of untouched timber, mineral and hydro power that could be developed in that area.

Employees Worry About Future

Also critical of Mr. Gordon during consideration of a government resolution to set up the annual railway committee study of the publicly-owned line was R. Hardy Small (PC, Toronto-Danforth).

Mr. Small, who has been critical in the past of the CNR president, said Mr. Gordon was "foolish" not to accept a high-paying job in the United States that was reported to have been offered him some months ago.

Staff morale on the CNR, the continent's biggest railway line, occupied the attention of both Mr. Howard and fellow-socialist Douglas Fisher, Port Arthur.

Mr. Fisher said there is growing uncertainty among CNR employees about their job future and the future of railway communities. He urged that Mr. Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump spell out the future programs of the railways in terms of the effects on the employees and their communities.

The House moved Wednesday towards a joint parliamentary committee study of the Indian Act and Indian administration.

On the motion of Citizenship Minister Fairclough a committee was empowered to study the Indian Act and suggest changes after investigating "Indian administration in general and, in particular, the social and economic status of the Indians".

The Senate was invited to name members to the body, which will have 24 Commons members.

Canada appears to be drifting toward economic union with the United States, Senator Wishart Robertson said Wednesday.

The alternative was economic co-operation with all NATO countries.

Economic union among countries seems to be the "order of the day," the Liberal senator from Nova Scotia said in a Senate speech, deploring the lack of action to make use of NATO as an economic alliance as well as a military one.

Professor Robert Clark's inconclusive report on the U.S. social security system cost the federal government some $27,200, Health Minister Monteith said Wednesday.

Courthouse Plans Halted

The provincial government has paused in preparation of plans for the new Victoria courthouse, to avoid an architectural clash with the city's proposed "eggshell" auditorium.

A public works spokesman said if the $4,245,000 civic building plan is to be adopted, the courthouse plans might be changed to conform. The long-range proposal of the city is for construction of a complete civic centre on Cathedral Hill, adjacent to the courthouse.

For the Bonfire

THE GOVERNMENT OF BRITish Columbia is building roads and other things on a large scale and paying the price out of revenue. But it is building many other things —the PGE, toll bridges, electrical plants, schools — and paying the price out of loans. Whether these loans represent a debt, or not a debt as Mr. Bennett argues, one fact is not in question—any public work financed out of borrowings costs much more than work financed out of revenue. For to the original cost interest charges must be added.

The Winnipeg Free Press recently presented a simple calculation to show how interest piles up on the taxpayers. Suppose, it said, a government spent $1,000,000 on a project and paid the whole sum out of its current revenue. The cost would be exactly $1,000,000. But observe what happens if that money is borrowed.

In today's money market the government or other public authority like the B.C. Power Commission, for example, will be lucky if it can borrow at an interest rate of 5 per cent. If the loan is redeemed in 20 years, a typical period, the interest charges will amount to another $1,000,000.

In the meantime the borrower will lay aside $50,000 a year in sinking funds to repay the debt at maturity. This money will be invested profitably as it accumulates. Under present conditions it should earn 5 per cent, in compound interest.

Reckoning these earnings against the interest charges, the cost of $1,000,000 at the end of 20 years will be $1,604,852. And whether they pay it directly through the government, in the case of direct debt, or indirectly through some government agency, the people must provide this money.

While wiping out the provincial government's direct debt Mr. Bennett is borrowing astronomical sums through the Government's various agencies. These debts have reached about $500 millions according to the latest public figures and are still rising.

Some actuary would find it interesting to calculate how much money these investments are costing the people in interest charges. Perhaps Mr Bennett might inscribe the figure, whatever it is, on the debt certifications which he proposes to burn with ceremonial fire next August. The only trouble is that fire would extinguish only the figure, not the cost.

No CNR Strike

THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOcomotive Firemen and Enginemen have wisely withdrawn from an untenable position and there will be no strike against the Canadian National Railways this week.

The union has faced the fact that other branches of organized labor, not only at large but within the railway field, were not prepared to support the walkout and that the public showed no sympathy. Under the circumstances, the firemen had no more hope of succeeding in a strike against the CNR than they had against the CPR last year.

By previous arrangement, firemen no longer needed on freight and yard diesels will retain employment and seniority, but no new men will be trained for the jobs eliminated by technological development.

And members of the union will enjoy wage increases to which the railway had agreed, with the raises coming earlier than had been originally proposed by the company.

This seems as generous an arrangement as could be made. Once the point had been established that the firemen were no longer required for safety or efficient operation on yard and freight diesels, one issue only seemed to remain. That concerned the provision to avoid undue hardship and distress to men who had learned a trade for which there is no longer a demand.

It seems apparent from the CNR arrangement that non-essential firemen will not remain indefinitely on yard and freight diesels like anachronistic whip-sockets on automobiles.

What immediate savings, if any, will be effected through the Canadian National's decision to follow this policy is a matter for the company's accountants to determine. It is obvious, however, from the last CNR annual report that much more will be required to bring the railways out of the red.

"The task for the future," as the report states, "is to readjust the railway's plant, facilities, and working force to the kind and quality of service which the public, increasingly accustomed to a choice of alternatives in transportation, is prepared to patronize and to pay for."

On the basis of this week's decision by the firemen, some progress is being made in that readjustment.

With Booted Foot In Mouth

FIELD MARSHAL MONTgomery's forthright comments on United States leaders and other topics bearing on U.S. leadership of the Western world appear to have contained little that Washington correspondents have not said many times. The shock to American sensibilities must arise from the source rather than from the content of the remarks.

The field marshal, as on a number of other occasions, is in the position of a child who has remarked audibly to a living-room audience that the guest of honor has a large wart on his nose. There are many facts, even about Viscount Montgomery, which may be quite true but which are bound to cause embarrassment if referred to pointedly in public.

This is especially true of British-American relations at the present time. After months of effort, it has been possible to establish a fairly full measure of agreement between the two allies on the eve of critical negotiations with Russia on the Berlin question. Field Marshal Montgomery has, no doubt unwittingly, ruffled American feelings at the eleventh hour and perhaps undone much that had painstakingly been achieved.

The British press has raised an immediate outcry against his televised statements and leaves no doubt that he spoke as a private individual who specializes in "shocking" comments. Whether this background can be interpreted adequately to the U.S. public remains to be seen. Perhaps a country whose own military leaders, both active and retired, occasionally send shudders throughout diplomatic circles with their pronouncements, will take a sympathetic view of the British phenomenon, unnerving thought it may be.

Reminder to Anti-Amalgamationists

COUNCILLOR STANLEY Murphy of Saanich has placed a useful observation on the record.

"The voting people of Saanich," he says, "killed amalgamation because it would increase taxes. Now all municipalities have increased taxes and have none of the advantages of amalgamation."

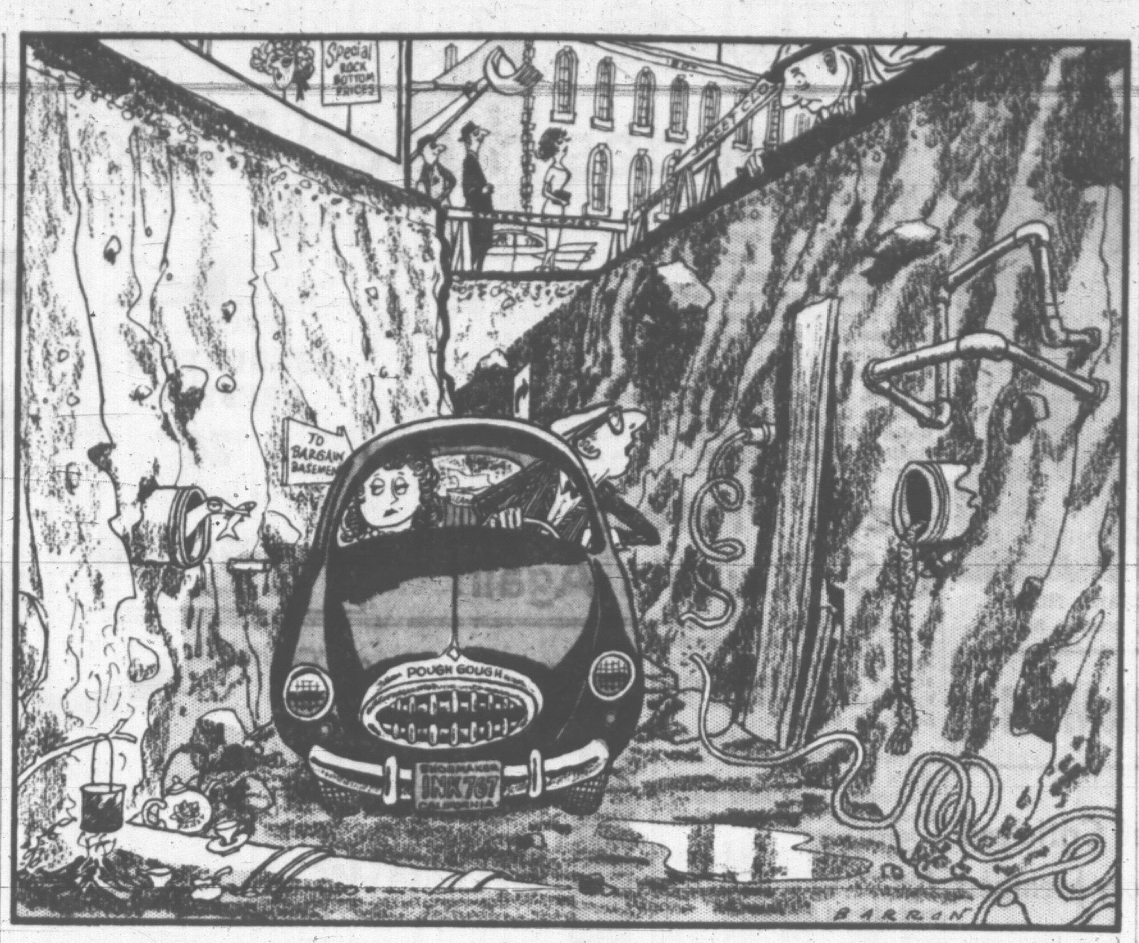
This is not hindsight on the part of the councillor. Those who supported unification with Victoria clearly saw this development when they sought backing at the polls for an integration of services between the city and its largest neighbor.

The councillor's remarks may provide cold comfort to residents who must pay more municipal levies this year. At the same time, it emphasizes a point which should be brought to their attention. When the amalgamation question is raised again they should have no illusions that they can escape higher taxation by retaining smaller administrative units.

Excessive

ANYONE WITH A DROP OF humanitarian blood in his veins will have noted with distress the incident at Praze, western England, in which an 11-year-old boy was pressed into a cricket pitch when a half-ton roller passed over him. And everyone is doubtless delighted that the lad came out of the ground and the accident with no broken bones.

Use of a half-ton roller to flatten a boy into his surroundings—even a bumptious boy—is an excessive experiment in conformity. Surely a quarter-ton roller would have been adequate.



—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

"... I SAID, 'could you direct us to the Roundabout?' ..."

Giga, Nano

"SERMONS in stones," says a correspondent, I remembered from English lessons in school, but they never told me of the strange world to be found in an apparently forbidding British Standard. I have found it now in "British Standard 350: Part 1, 1959, Conversion Factors and Tables."

How else could I have learnt—never having been in India—that a maund is 40 seer. Yet prosaic engineers may take it as equivalent to 37.32kg. To know the maund well you should pursue it further, for a seer is 80 tolas. This improbable sequence comes to earth with the news that the tola is 180 grains.

Who was Gunter, I wondered, to give his name to a chain and a link. An important man—for his chain has become the legally defined unit although an engineer's chain of a hundred feet is also in use.

Archaic old friends are there in force. Do people really still use a rod, pole, or perch; or the derived square measure, a rood? Though we no longer have apothecaries we still have their scruples and drachms (which I can never pronounce).

Having grown accustomed to mega as a prefix to tons in describing H-bomb explosive power, we now proceed to the next higher orders—giga for a thousand million, tera for a billion—but pray not in the same context. At the other end of the scale—breathe it softly—nano interests us. It means a thousand-millionth, and rests just above spritely pico, a billionth.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

Foreign Aid Bill: The Annual Headache

THE U.S. Foreign Aid Bill, which calls for money to be spent in foreign countries, is an annual spring headache for the United States Congress. This year it is more of a headache than ever, what with the deficit which puts the President in the position of wanting to save at home in order to be able to spend abroad. This difficulty is compounded by the fact that the bill, as it comes from the administration, inspires no enthusiasm and little confidence. For the men who have to lead the fight for foreign aid, it is a very poor cause in which to enlist their efforts. For the administration bill, which was shaped not by the department of state but by the Bureau of the Budget, is an inefficient bill.

Lippmann

The way it provides for foreign aid in annual instalments prevents a constructive use of the foreign aid, which requires the long term planning of investment. The amount of aid provided is in the total inadequate, and in the allocation between military and civilian use it is in some part at least misdirected.

Thus in the debate with those who oppose all foreign aid, the supporters of the bill find themselves burdened with a bill about which it can fairly be said that it will not achieve its professed objectives, and that it is in this sense a waste.

It is like a project to build half a bridge at a poor place to cross a river. Or shall we say that it is like that tunnel from the new Senate Office Building to the capitol which, so it is said, just does not arrive at the capitol?

It is necessary, therefore, to amend the President's bill in order to have a measure behind which the believers in foreign aid, who are a multitude, can with a good conscience rally. This is the purpose of the Fulbright amendments, which were introduced on Friday. I think it is fair to say that these amendments take account, which the administration bill does not, of the findings of the Draper Committee which the President himself appointed. They reflect also the views of Secretary Herter and of Under Secretary Dillon.

The Fulbright amendments follow two main principles. One is to provide for a period of five years enough funds to permit development loans at the annual rate of 1.5 billion dollars. This would make possible orderly financing of investment programs which, in countries like India, could bring about a substantial rise in the standard of life.

The other principle of the Fulbright amendments is to de-emphasize without abolishing the military part of foreign aid.

The amendments do not reduce the amount. One of them gives the President the authority to transfer up to 30 per cent rather than, as at present, up to 10 per cent of the military aid to civilian uses.

Another gives the American ambassador greater control over the recommendations for military aid made by the American Military Mission in the country to which he is accredited.

Better Supervision

The amendments dealing with the military side of foreign aid ought to open the door to a better supervision of the aid agreements made by our military men and the local military commanders. In the official propaganda of the administration all of these programs are lumped together under the general notion that they enable military allies to encircle and contain the military power of the Communist states.

No distinction is made between genuine allies, like Britain, Canada, and France, for example, and political clients like, let us say, Pakistan.

It is an unhealthy pretence to plead that we are arming Pakistan in order that Pakistan may defend itself against a Soviet attack or, more far-fetched still, that Pakistan could or would do anything substantial to defend Iran and Turkey if they were attacked.

The principal reason why we give arms to Pakistan is to keep the Pakistani army commanders friendly to the United States rather than to the Russians. What we do is to subsidize the ruling powers who, in so many underdeveloped countries, are the leaders of the army.

The world being what it is I would not say that this is always a wicked or unnecessary thing to do. But Congress is not a good judge of how necessary it is to do it in each of the countries where aid is being furnished. Neither is the Pentagon a good judge.

The judgment should be made by the President and the department of state. It should be a cool political judgment, not a hot and excited judgment. Above all, there should be no self-deluding propaganda that if the United States gives jet planes to a Latin American dictator, it is helping the free world to defend itself against Russia and China.

What it is doing when it gives the jet planes to the dictator is to help the dictator to defend himself against his internal enemies, and that may or not be a good thing to do in the national interests of the United States.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

No Call for Dungeons

Thank you for being kind enough to print my picture together with your comment on a panel discussion before the John Howard Society, of which I was a member.

In view of what actually was said, the heading "Bring Back Dungeons" in my opinion fails to properly reflect what actually took place at the meeting.

"Harsh, Cruel Prisons," as stated in your comment have never existed in B.C. When Oakalla was opened 40 odd years ago, it was described as being the foremost institution of its kind and the only hardship, if it could be so-called, was overcrowding. Along with the greater jail population has come a lesser degree of work required by the prisoners.

This is what I object to, and will continue to object to because it is not fair to the taxpaying public to have to do a day's work to keep offenders in idleness.

BERT PRICE, M.L.A.

Editor's Note: The news story to which Mr. Price refers was supplied to this newspaper by The Canadian Press.

Saskatchewan Example

I am intrigued by the recent Tory statements about the "agony of socialism" which they allege faces B.C. with the coming demise of the present government.

The Tories appear either to have made a masterful misinterpretation of the facts about the CCF, or to have achieved the height of inspired ignorance. Or perhaps they are whistling in the dark.

The poor Saskatchewan voters have suffered since 1944 the "agonies" of low car insurance rates, cheap power, debt reduction, proper hospital insurance, surplus funds from crown industries, fair labor laws, a bill of rights, etc. They must indeed be masochistic.

Although I would not be so rude as to inquire the reasons for the Tory trail of broken promises of the last two years, I do offer Tories, or anyone else interested, a chance to look at the constructive practical CCF program for B.C. as passed by the 1959 CCF convention.

Cold Color

On April 18 Bruce Hutchison takes a fling at certain magazine advertisements for what he infers is an inability to reflect the realities.

How true! We find dismay in pictures so palpably artful that with perfect execution and layout they disdain the common appeal, and mirror the artificial.

I wish we could get reality into our color displays.

The artificial is taking over. We meet now where warmth and reality are dissolved into obvious shadows, perfect in design—and devoid of feeling. 'Tis the maestro outdoing himself, forgetting we are human, that God's Country is not technicolored into reaction. On the contrary, is hidden in the folds of universal acclaim for what is natural and eternal.

Dark Ages

What Silenus says in a recent column "Le Mot de Cambronne," is what any self-thinking person must have been waiting for since a long time.

That a small hypocritical minority is being allowed to keep a divorce law in force, which belongs to the dark ages, puts Canada itself in this respect dark for centuries.

Where marriage is supposed to be based on love of the partners involved, it is only natural to assume that, when that love has disappeared, has been replaced by a feeling of loathing for each other—for whatever reason—it should be possible to dissolve such a partnership in a proper way, as is being done in so many other countries. Even in England the out-dated divorce law has been changed over twenty years ago.

That minor dependents of such a marriage have to be taken care of properly stands to reason: no responsible person will shirk that duty.

CD—Too Much or Too Little

After reading the report of the successful efforts of "500 Civil Defence Workers in Paper Exercise" as reported in the Victoria Times, many of us will agree with a recent editorial in the Financial Post which concludes, "If anybody is serious about civil defence, let the proper authorities estimate the price of a scheme that offers some little hope and present the bill to the public. It will be in the big billions of dollars. Meanwhile, $7 million a year is too much to pay for a phrase, no matter how sedative and soporific."

Human nature being as it is we can not blame those receiving perquisites, privileges or power from Civil Defence exercises from wishing to perpetuate them, but both smaller and larger communities than Victoria have discontinued contributing to the CDF (Civil Defence Force), and I would like to have Victoria do likewise.

Canada and the World

The nonchalant attitude of the Diefenbaker Government in the field of foreign affairs has been noticeable since it assumed office. The very tragic passing of Sidney Smith gives new focus to this attitude.

Why the tardiness in filling the External Affairs' vacancy? Has the Prime Minister ample realization of the importance of this post?

The recent misguided attempt at restricting the inflow of Italians shows that the Government's thinking is somewhat behind in this field. It's doubtful if that unfortunate incident would have occurred had the cabinet been sharp on its foreign commitments and had realized that the pressing need of the hour is building the cohesiveness of NATO. It is conceivable that it was only when this fact was brought to the cabinet's notice by the public that it saw its mistake.

The time has come for all those who understand the need of having a strong Canadian voice exerted in the concourse of the Western Alliance to speak up.

UNEMPLOYED.

Panhandle Corridors

Members of B.C. Government have been advocating a B.C. corridor through the Alaska panhandle.

Why?

Where would you build a corridor to serve B.C.? In such a mountainous coast range five corridors would be necessary, one down each course of the five rivers, which in turn, would need feeder roads in B.C.

Would it not be more sensible to forget this impossible corridor idea and build the feeder roads, all connecting, from Squaw Creek to Carcross south and parallel with the panhandle and connecting all the B.C. villages to the Cassiar-Stewart road now being built, which will terminate at Stewart, Canada's most northern deep-sea port on the Pacific coast?

Who is boosting for a corridor through the panhandle for the benefit of the Americans? The Americans benefit today by having a town at the coast on each of the five rivers. A peculiar fact is that no minerals have been found on the American Panhandle, except around Juneau, all minerals having been found on the B.C. side of the boundary.

During the war a road was built from Haines, Alaska, on the coast, through B.C. and the Yukon to Fairbanks, Alaska. Don't forget Whitehorse and the Yukon are serviced by this road and goods go through in bond.

Along the coast on the Panhandle Americans catch all the salmon, yet the salmon spawned at the head of the rivers in Canada. We get nothing. They have benefited in past by getting Canadian river snag and mail contracts. The airplane is changing this.

The Americans run an oil pipeline from Fairbanks through Canada to Haines, Alaska, to their benefit. Sir John A. McDonald had the CPR built close to the U.S. boundary to keep our country Canadian. We in turn have to build a road parallel to the panhandle for the same reason.

The Spectacle

SOME of my more cultured friends will hardly speak to me these days. You see, I went to Monday night's giant bingo game!

Ruth

"Ruth, you don't go to things like that, do you," said one, looking really startled.

"Of course I do," I said. "I love a little gamble now and then."

"Can't you get out of it?" said another, who wanted me to go to a meeting to improve my mind.

"We have a visitor out from England," I said, hoping to hide my low tastes under a martyr's crown. "Like the Queen, he wants to see Canadians at work and play. So we're taking him to the bingo game."

She looked dubious. "Do you think he'll like it?"

"A hardened old sinner. He'll love it. Besides, it draws a bigger crowd than anything else in town, and we want to show him how Victorians enjoy themselves."

The truth, of course, is that I love an occasional bingo game, and I especially enjoy the giant bingo.

I love the thought of maybe getting something for nothing, or nearly nothing since, in these inflationary days, two dollars can hardly be classed as a fortune.

★ ★ ★

Though I know quite well that I'm not likely to win a prize, I love to dream about what I'd do with the movie camera, or the boat, or the trip, or the brand new car.

But, even more than dreaming about these highly unlikely wins, I enjoy the spectacle of a giant bingo game.

I think it's fascinating to see the cars parked for blocks and blocks, and to watch the crowd going into the arena.

I love to see how the crowd is handled, and how the checkers communicate by flashlight with the people on the central platform. Good organization is always a pleasure to watch.

I frankly enjoy the excitement as the numbers go on and on, and you know that at any moment there'll be a call of bingo, and your particular chance of a prize will be gone.

In the intervals between the games, I like to meditate on crowd psychology, the gambling instinct, and the Puritan trait in the Canadian character. (Why is winning something supposed to be more sinful than buying it with no down payment?)

I enjoy the showmanship, the "Let's all give him a hand, shall we, folks?" the contestants who are too flustered to speak coherently into the mike, the display of prizes, the endlessly tumbling balls, the repeated call for the owner of the two-tone 1957 Ford to remove it from its parking place across a driveway.

★ ★ ★

At Monday's game, I especially enjoyed the moment when the overhead lights were dimmed temporarily, and close to 8,000 people rose to their feet. Clutching their white bingo boards and little red markers, they stood mutely while from somewhere among the central flowers and fancy prizes, an amplified female voice gave out with "O Canada."

"We stand on guard for thee," and "Now let's play bingo."

It's the human spectacle. I can't resist a human spectacle or a chance of observing the social scene.

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Sane or Insane?

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

I just happened to pick up a note I made last year when I read about a man who was in jail for having kidnapped and hurt a little girl of seven. The psychiatrist called in consultation said the man was sane, "because he knew the difference between right and wrong." What an utterly stupid definition of insanity that is! Most psychiatrists would repudiate it. The psychiatrist in this case admitted that the criminal "does not choose to do right." Actually, let us note that the man, during the year, had been in a mental hospital.

Alvarez

On two other occasions he had been in a mental hospital for alcoholism. When the superintendent of the hospital was asked why they promptly let the man out, he said, "We have to keep the hospital beds for those who are actually insane." The record showed that the man had been arrested half a dozen times for stealing autos and for burglary, but sometimes the police hadn't bothered even to lock him up. I imagine the jails, also, were so full that they couldn't spare him a bed!

As I keep asking again and again in this column, "Why can't we, as a nation, learn to take care of people who are so dangerous to society and to themselves that they are constantly getting drunk, constantly stealing, occasionally getting so mixed-up mentally that they have to be put into a mental hospital, and occasionally raping or killing a girl? Why, in this case, did police have to leave this mentally warped criminal at large until he kidnapped and sexually injured a little girl of seven? What comfort is it to the mother of that little girl that a psychiatrist now says that the man is legally and technically sane, but is "beyond the committable range"—whatever that is.

I maintain that it is absolutely stupid for us often to stand arguing as to whether a criminal is sane or insane, while he keeps on raping girls. I still maintain that some day, if legislators would ever do a little thinking about this problem, they would follow my suggestion and build a big colony on some island.

There we could keep all those queer, weak, undisciplined, uninhibited "children in adult bodies" who probably would get along all right so long as they were kept away from alcohol, drugs, and bad company.

Can't we ever get through our heads the idea that we don't have to punish these people, but if we had glimmerings of intelligence, we would protect ourselves from their depredations. On the island the people could earn their support. As they go about loose today they are costing the country much money.

Scattered showers will accompany the disturbance as it moves over the interior and a few lingering showers are likely to occur along the coastal mountains but better weather is on the way. Gradual improvement will bring a return of sunny skies to most regions of the province in the next 24 to 48 hours.

Underground Wiring Over By Mid-May

B.C. Electric's downtown underground wiring program for this year is expected to be completed about May 15.

Rains have caused some delays in the work but the 1959 phase will be ended before the tourist season starts, in accordance with a previously announced plan.

Wiring of the underground ducts by BCE will not occur for at least two years. B.C. Telephone Co. lines already have been put underground in the downtown area except for some small patches, in the Douglas and Fisgard area, which will also be put underground before downtown utility poles disappear in 1962.

HOME GARDEN — By JACK BEASTALL

Leek-Growing Made Easy

The objection many gardeners have to growing leeks is the work involved in producing long, thick stems.

Jack

The stem, that portion between the roots and the leaves, should be about 10 inches long and from one to two inches in diameter throughout its length with no swelling at the bottom.

Such a stem is not produced naturally by the leek when it is planted on the surface. It takes a little encouragement to make a leek stretch its neck.

The oldest practice is to plant the seedlings in a trench some four or five inches deep and fill in the soil as the plants grow.

When the trench has been levelled, additional length of stem is obtained by hilling the soil each side of the row.

Since this method is not practical in all soils and under all conditions, someone thought of placing boards on edge along each side of the row and gradually filling in with compost.

Others have used clay drain tiles, one over each plant. This is useful if you have the tiles on hand, but expensive if they must be purchased.

Possibly the easiest way to encourage long stems is to make holes with a crowbar about eight to ten inches deep and five to six inches in diameter. A seedling is dropped into each hole. It disappears from view, but it grows just the same.

Dribbling a little water from the hose into each hole will flush enough soil around the roots for a start, and more soil is worked into the holes while surface cultivation is being carried out during summer.

BACK HOME after business trip to London and Caribbean vacation, Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood told newsmen in St. John's he was "feeling better than I have for some time". He still declined to tell the purpose of the London visit.

Employees' Pay Held Up —Michigan Treasury Empty

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Governor G. Mennen Williams and his cabinet Wednesday ordered an immediate halt to all payments from Michigan state's general fund, except for $3,500,000 to be distributed to counties for relief of the needy.

The order means that the state will not meet its payrolls until at least May 15. Approximately 28,000 state employees will not be paid as scheduled May 7.

Williams, a Democrat, and the Republican-controlled Senate are stalemated on how to meet an immediate shortage of cash and a growing deficit that may reach $110,000,000 by June 30.

Senate Republicans, who have a 22-12 edge, refused Tuesday night to cash securities in a $50,000,000 veterans trust fund to ease an immediate cash crisis — unless they tack on to the bill a one-cent addition to the state's three-cent sales tax.

INCOME, PROFITS TAX

Williams has opposed any sales tax increase and has proposed instead a graduated personal income tax and a corporation profits tax to wipe out the deficit.

Michigan has been spending more money than it has been taking in for three years running. Williams blames the legislature for failing to levy taxes to support appropriations it makes. Republicans say the mess is all the governor's fault, that he over-estimated anticipated revenues.

Among the first to feel the no-pay pinch will be the 144 legislators themselves. They are among 325 salaried state employees due to be paid today and Friday. Also included are the eight supreme court judges.

The May 7 payroll which Williams and his cabinet ordered skipped totals about $5,000,000. Those who won't get cheques include prison guards, mental hospitals aides and employees of state teacher colleges.

TOO NARROW?

Troubles Plague The New Seaway

(Times News Services)

MONTREAL — The half-billion dollar St. Lawrence Seaway, which won world acclaim when it opened five days ago, started getting its lumps today.

Stevedores in Toronto were asked to go on a six-day instead of a hard-won 40-hour week to catch up on unloading that was rained out there after the first ships docked from overseas.

Traffic slowly started moving again after a grounded ship blocked passage for nearly 15 hours.

A group of nuns claimed damages in court because seaway blasting damaged their convent and school.

And rumbles of discontent came from a few deepsea skippers who complained that the seaway linking the Great Lakes with the Atlantic was built for narrow lake freighters and not for their broader-beamed sisters from salt water.

The lake captains retorted that some of their deepsea counterparts still had a lot to learn about inland navigation.

R. J. Burnside, director of the transport department's canal services branch said in Ottawa Wednesday it is hoped that skippers of ocean ships will become skilled in navigating the seaway as time goes on.

"After all, it's a trade in itself," said Mr. Burnside. "The lake canallers have acquired skills that are rather special."

Capt. Hawley MacDermid of the Grace Line freighter Santa Regina said that, unless the seaway changes its methods of operation, ocean-class ships will have to be redesigned to avoid damaging their hulls and superstructures in the narrow canal and locks.

The 15,000-ton Santa Regina is somewhat the worse for wear after passing through the seaway.

She dented two hull plates, scraped her sides and lost part of her deck railing in negotiating the narrow canals and cement-walled locks. The Santa Regina has a 63-foot beam. The locks are only 80 feet wide.

About a dozen deep-sea ships have called at Toronto since Monday. They caused such a jam that two—the German motorship Wisenburg and Israeli freighter Tamar—were rerouted by their agents to Hamilton, Ont., from where their cargoes will be trucked to Toronto.

Meanwhile a Dutch freighter dropped anchor off Chicago harbor early today to mark the city's birth as a major seaport.

Forty Indians in full dress greeted the Prins Johan Willem Friso, winner of the St. Lawrence Seaway derby.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday:

Frank Robert Carlow, 2607 Selwyn, $35 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.

Charles Douglas Wright, 345 Vancouver, $35 and $3 costs for careless driving.

Gladys Irene Reimer, 2842 Knotty Pine, $25 and $5 costs for driving without a licence.

Lumber Lost In Fire

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Firemen stood by the smouldering remains of 6,000,000 board feet of lumber after a fire Wednesday swept through two yards near this foothills town about 100 miles southwest of Edmonton.

The blaze hit the Edwards Lumber Company yards and the adjoining Atlas Lumber Company yards.

4,000 SEATS BOOKED ON NEW CPA FLIGHTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines said here Wednesday night passengers have reserved more than 4,000 seats on the company's turbo-prop Bristol Britannias which go into trans-Canada service May 4. Flying time of the Britannias between Vancouver and Montreal was estimated at seven hours, 35 minutes.

DISPUTED DOLLARS NEVER WITH DRAWN

Devil Was Around All the Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian banknotes said to bear a likeness of a devil's face in the Queen's hair have never been withdrawn from circulation since they were issued in 1954, authorities said today.

They were commenting on a statement in Victoria by Allan Klenman, a director of the Canadian Numismatic Association, that it is unfortunate that the government now is releasing the banknotes.

Officials said it would not have been economic to destroy the notes for a minor defect and that they have been put into circulation from time to time ever since 1954. The Bank of Canada had announced in 1956, when the defect was discovered after the notes had been in use for two years, that this would be done.

Officals said the defect is so minor that apparently not even the numismatic association had noticed that the notes in question had continued in circulation.

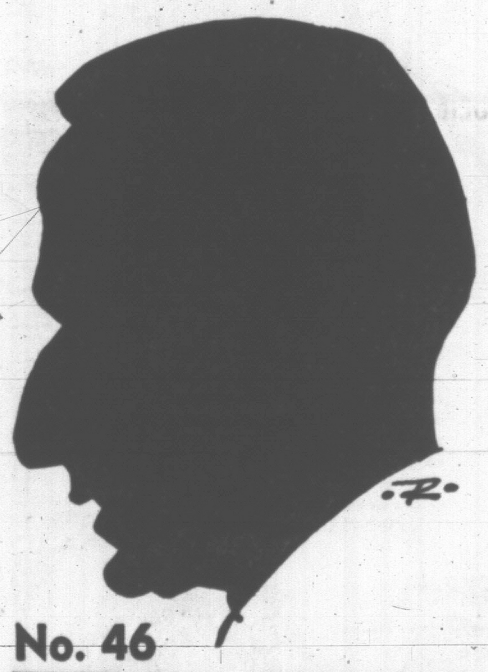
Victoria Daily Times Silhouette Contest



No. 46

Silhouette Contest Rules

1. The Silhouette Contest is simple and easy to work. It consists of 60 silhouette drawings of widely known persons and 120 pictures. All you have to do is identify the silhouettes, not by name but by pairing them with pictures of the people you think are portrayed in the silhouettes. Each person shown in silhouette will be shown by picture but not necessarily on the same day. In addition there will be 60 pictures of other persons who will not be shown in silhouette drawings. Thus you will have 120 pictures from which to make your 60 selections to go with the 60 silhouettes. Keep the 60 left over pictures. They will be needed for the final Silhouette Scramble.

2. The contest starts on Saturday, March 7, 1959. Each day for 60 days one silhouette and two pictures will be printed. After you have paired a silhouette with a picture, paste or in some way fasten the matching pair on a single sheet of paper. All 60 sheets are to be fastened together in order and each sheet should bear your name.

3. The Times will award $750 in cash prizes to the winners. There are no entry fees. The prizes are:
   1. $300
   2. $100
   3. $50
   and four prizes of $25 each.

4. The contest is open to all residents of Vancouver Island with the exception of employees of the Times and Victoria Press Ltd. and members of their families. Not more than one prize will be awarded in any one immediate family.

5. The final silhouette and pictures will appear on Saturday, May 16, and with this set will appear a master score sheet on which you must enter the numbers of your silhouette-picture combinations. Do not send in your entries until all silhouettes and pictures have been published.

6. The contestant getting the greatest number of the 60 regular silhouettes correctly solved is automatically the winner of the first prize. Second highest score gets second prize, and so on.

7. A Silhouette Scramble will be published with Silhouette No. 60. This will consist of a number of silhouettes which are to be identified from the 60 pictures left over from the regular contest. This Silhouette Scramble will be used by the judges ONLY in case of ties. If ties exist in the regular contest, then those contestants making the best scores in the Silhouette Scramble will be declared winners.

8. Address entries to Silhouette Contest, Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria. All entries must be postmarked not later than Monday, May 25. Entries must be sent with first class postage fully paid, since The Times cannot be responsible for entries delayed because of improper address or insufficient postage, or for any other reason not received at The Times in due time.

9. By entering the contest, the participant agrees to accept the decision of the judges as final.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Better Car-Top Loading Devices

Improvements in loading devices make car-top boats more popular than ever before. Using the new handy loaders, one man can quickly and easily load, or unload, car-top boats weighing up to 200 pounds.

One model is provided with a wheel so the boat can be moved from the car to the water, or vice versa, wheel-barrow fashion.

Where loads to be carried by the boat are not too great, a craft that can be carried on a car top is an economical approach to pleasure boating. It eliminates the cost of a trailer, and its annual licence fee and insurance premium. Also, it does away with the trailer parking problem at the waterside and at home. Since a launching ramp is not essential to its use, the cartop boat can be put into, and removed from waters that would be inaccessible to trailer-carried craft.

Cartop boats are made in aluninum, fiberglas, molded plywood, plastron, plywood and wood. Aluminum, because of its light weight, moderate cost, and low maintenance, is the most commonly used material for these small craft. The most popular sizes of car-top boats are 12 and 14 feet. However, smaller sizes from eight to 12 feet are readily available for those not requiring a larger boat.

The 12-foot boats weigh from 67 to 150 pounds, the lightweight boat of special construction being the most expensive. Average weight of a 12-foot boat is about 90 pounds.

In the 14-foot class, weights range from 105 to 150 pounds. Car-top boats of fiberglas construction are usually a bit more expensive than those made of aluminum and average 10 pounds more in weight.

Most car-top boats are designed for use with outboard motors of five to seven and one-half horsepower. Boats less than 12 feet in length are, in many instances, designed for use with motors up to 16 horsepower.

Outboard motors for the car-top boat cost from $195 for a three-horsepower unit, to $400 for one of 16 horsepower. A good average is $250 for a five horsepower engine.

FISTIC FANFARE

Doc Knew Ropes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jack (Doc) Kearns, venerable fight manager who piloted Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight championship of the world, today deplored the decadence of boxing ballyhoo.

Kearns, now a Miami resident, recalled Wednesday how he arranged the Dempsey-Georges Carpentier fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921 and, through subtle exploitation, built it into boxing's first $1,000,000 gate.

He said in an interview that promoters have failed to exploit Brian London in his fight with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Indianapolis Friday night.

Keeping London in hiding briefly followed the pattern of the Dempsey-Carpentier build-up but Kearns says it ends right there.

WASHED UP

"Carpentier was just a washed up middleweight. He had been knocked out half a dozen times, but he had a spectacular war record in the French Air Corps.

"I heard that Carpentier—really a wonderful fellow—and his manager, Descamps, were visiting New York for a show featuring a famous French actress Carpentier was stuck on. This was a good time to hit him about a match.

"When I offered him $200,000 to fight Dempsey, everybody began jabbering in French that I must be crazy, that the fight would never draw. A London promoter, guy named Cochrane, was in the room and he said 'preposterous.' He had Carpentier sort of lined up to fight Becker in London for $40,000.

BETTER NATURE

"I appealed to his better nature, asking him how he could be so base a creature to stand in the way of a nice fellow like Carpentier making $200,000. He broke down sobbing and we had the fight.

"I told Carpentier to slip into the country and go immediately in hiding—not let anybody watch him work out and give no interviews.

"The papers ripped into us, saying we were hiding Carpentier to keep everybody from confirming their well-founded suspicions that Carpentier was an unfit opponent for Dempsey.

"That's what we wanted—all part of the ballyhoo. When we did let them see Carpentier, they saw him knock out two complaint sparring partners. Blasts turned to raves. Of course, Dempsey won by a knockout in the fourth.

"They don't seem to be exploiting this mystery about London for ballyhoo uses."

IT'S COMING OUT!

At Indianapolis, the little ballyhoo supplied sportswriters came from Patterson's trainer, who explained why the champion deserves to rate the 10 to 1 favorite's ranking, and from a minor rhubarb involving the promotion.

The trainer, Dan Florio, reports the "real" champion will be on display Friday.

"Floyd will be 100 per cent better than he was against Roy Harris.

"This is going to be the Patterson you saw knock out Archie Moore," said Florio. "He's in about the same shape as he was for Archie. You're going to see the real Patterson go against London. Not like the guy who fought Harris. He didn't have his zip then. Now he's fast and sharp and can do everything he wants to do."

TELEVISION SQUABBLE

Patterson was not informed by his manager about the rhubarb. This concerned a local television program which was cancelled Wednesday night because Patterson did not show up.

Both Patterson and London were to have been interviewed by an international panel of sports writers. The station cancelled the program when Patterson failed to appear. London was there.

"There was no firm commitment for Floyd's appearance," said manager Gus D'Amato. "Floyd was too tired to go on. He had made a round of appearances at several schools and was kept so late that he missed his limbering exercises and was late for supper."

CREAM OF SHRINE CROP

Rocks Slide Best; Win Shrine Clash

Rookie Line In Spotlight In Victory Over Labatts

Shamrocks 8, Labatts 4

By DOUG PEDEN

Victoria Shamrocks have the Shrine Trophy tucked away on their shelf today, but even coach Norm Baker isn't sure if they earned the bauble through their lacrosse ability or because of their skating talent.

Whichever it was, the Rocks impressed quite a few of the 3,200 fans at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as they slithered to an 8-4 upset victory over Nanaimo Labatts in the second annual Shrine lacrosse clash.

Since floor conditions Wednesday kept many veterans on both clubs worrying more about avoiding injuries than about scoring goals, the Irish will get a more decisive appraisal of their boxla skill when they open the Inter-City Lacrosse League season against Labatts at Nanaimo Saturday night.

Apparently caused by a combination of a cold floor, a warm building and humidity, a film of moisture condensed on the concrete playing surface and made good lacrosse all but out of the question. Although players, including several with gimpy knees, cake-walked gingerly at half speed or less most of the time, spills were numerous and passes took off at odd angles with embarassing regularity.

Footing was most treacherous in the second quarter and an intermission was called almost five minutes before the regulation half-time interval to allow workmen to sweep the floor with sawdust.

The treatment, and a repeat dose after the third quarter, got rid of some moisture but it was a skating match to the end.

Referees Were Quick With Whistles

It was a big night for the Irish all around. The Rocks, of course, picked up the Shrine Trophy with their triumph and Norm Kowalyk, a former Shamrock, received an individual award as the outstanding Nanaimo player, mostly on the strength of a fine first quarter when he collected a goal and an assist to spark Labatts to a 3-2 lead.

Al Gill, who fired two goals and earned one assist, was named the most valuable Victoria player and Ed Longpre, another former Shamrock, won the night's top door prize, an expenses-paid trip to Seattle for two.

While Gill, who also came up with several good defensive plays, was a unanimous choice as the outstanding Shamrock, Tom Collett and the Irish "kid" line also earned a place in the spotlight.

Operating smoothly with rookie linemates Jackie Wilson and Jim McNeill, Collett pumped in three neat goals, including the one that broke a 4-4 deadlock and sent the Rocks ahead for the first time late in the second quarter.

Veteran Bert Bertoia added a pair of tallies for Victoria and Jim McNulty counted once.

Labatts, with playing-coach Don Ashbee keeping himself on the bench and with some of their tested veterans playing in only a small portion of the game, got goals from Kowalyk, Gogi Stewart, Ted Liebiech and Terry Rodway.

As expected, the old Nanaimo-Victoria feud was still simmering and tempers flared briefly on several occasions. Referees Earl McDonald and Wally Henderson acted quickly to break up potential trouble and whistled a total of 37 minutes in penalties, plus a 10-minute misconduct to Nanaimo's Skip McKay.

ROOKIES MOVE UP

Youthful Look In Senior Loop

No matter which way you look, signs of a youth movement are again evident in Victoria's Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Although all four clubs in the circuit will have a younger look, Page the Cleaner last year's Pearce Electric club—has changed only slightly, adding just one recruit from the city's minor baseball ranks.

When Pages trot out on the Royal Athletic Park diamond for the season opener May 9, shortstop Bob Martin, stepping up from the Capital City Colt League, will form a keystone combination with brother Ron.

The other three squads are more liberally sprinkled with new additions of budding baseball talent.

FOUR NEW EAGLES

Eagles plan to start the new campaign with four players who performed in the Colt or Babe Ruth leagues last season: Naval Vets have five rookies in the fold and Wakeman-Trimble has two.

Working with the Wakeham-Trimble squad under coach Frank Carson and manager Lyle Cornett are a pair of Colt League graduates — promising catcher John Pringle and Don Bell.

Gerry Parker, piloting the Naval Vets for another season and hoping for a lot of mileage out of young legs, still hasn't decided on his first-string catcher. Battling for the job are Colt Leaguer Barry Sadler and Mike Woodley. Babe Ruth League all-star last year.

EYE FOR VERSATILITY

Another Babe Ruth all-star, Grant Udy, is slated to see pitching service with the Vets, as is Brent Siddons. Fleet-footed Bill Mundy is expected to nail down an outfield spot.

Manager Art Worth apparently had an eye for versatility when he made his selection from the minor baseball circuits. Working out with Worth's Eagles are Cliff Kilduff, at home either in the outfield or on the mound, and John Balloch, who plays either infield or outfield.

Also slated for action with Eagles are rangy first-baseman Daryl Lorimer and outfielder Dave Rees.

With workout continuing for another week before the clubs get down to playing for keeps, there is still a chance that additional youngsters will push their way into the senior loop.

Eagles will clash with Naval Vets and Wakeman-Trimble tangles with Page Cleaners when the season gets under way with a twin bill Saturday, May 9.

League plans call for a 76-game schedule, with one exhibition doubleheader each month. Single league games are slated Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights and twin bills are carded for Saturdays.

Walker Cuppers Proving Right To Team Berths

FORMBY, England (AP)—The six members of the British Walker Cup team entered in the event reached the round of 16 in the English amateur golf championship Wednesday.

David Marsh had the narrowest escape. He was two down with two to play against Mike Pearson. He squared the match on the 18th hole and sank a 20-foot putt to win the 19th.

In other matches involving members of the Cup team, which will meet the United States at Muirfield, Scotland, May 15-16, M. S. R. Lunt defeated J. R. G. Cobbett, 2 up; Arthur Perowne defeated J. R. Bennet, 4 and 3; defending champion Doug Sewell defeated P. Squire, 4 and 3; Michael Bonallack defeated M. E. Daws, 3 and 2, and Guy Wolstenholme defeated M. J. Fisher, 4 and 3.

Comiskey Bid Set Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Comiskey lost another round Wednesday in his fight to block the sale of controlling interest in Chicago White Sox to Bill Veeck.

Circuit Judge William J. Tuohy dismissed a motion filed by Comiskey which sought to force the sale to him of at least 800 shares of stock held by his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Rigney.

Acquisition of the shares would give Chuck control of the American League club. He already owns 46 per cent of the stock.

In effect, Tuohy's ruling upheld a March action in probate court, granting Mrs. Rigney's request for distribution of her 1,541 shares of stock. She sought the ruling so the stock might be turned over to the syndicate headed by Veeck.

Twin Bills Launch Softball Venture

Victoria's senior men's softball experiment in "togetherness" will get off the ground Sunday with doubleheaders at both Central and Heywood parks.

Weekdays, the 11 teams of the Senior Open Men's Softball League will hold to the same parks their respective leagues have used in past years. Former senior "A" organizations will play at Central Park and teams of the last year's senior "B" loop will use Heywood Avenue.

They will get together each Sunday for interlocking doubleheaders at both parks with games starting at 1.30 and 6 p.m.

START SUNDAY

First of the get-together ventures will take place Sunday.

Last season's senior "A" league-champion Gorge Hotel team meets Duncan's Mayo-Lumber, 1958 Island champion, at Central Park. In the Heywood opener, Navy tangles with McNutt's.

The second game at Central Park will match last year's senior "B" champion Fletchers, now Morrison Motors, against Farmer Construction, formerly Arrow Furniture. In the Heywood nightcap, Tudor House tackles Maycock Optical.

EXHIBITION GAMES

The three other teams in the league are Dickinson and Dunn, Half Way House and Six Mile House.

Weekday games are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Exhibition games against U.S. and mainland teams are either already scheduled or anticipated. A series against popular Seattle Federals is on the slate.

Mounties Continue Long Drop

By The Canadian Press

Phoenix Giants tamped Vancouver Mounties even deeper into the Pacific Coast League cellar by piling up seven runs in the first three innings Wednesday night and dumping the Mounties 7-3.

In other action, manager Bob Elliott of Sacramento dipped down into his pitching roster for rookie Chuck Hickman and found the Solons with a 7-1 victory over Portland Beavers on Hickman's four-hit pitching.

San Diego Padres kept within striking distance of the first-place Solons by belting Seattle Rainiers 3-2 while Salt Lake City traded shutouts with Spokane, the Bees winning the doubleheader opener 4-0 and the Indians taking the nightcap 1-0.

At Phoenix, the Giants piled up two runs in the first frame, one in the second and four in the third, three of the latter runs on Johnny Orsino's home run.

The Mounties attempted to get back into contention, aided by solo homers by Ron Hansen and Joe Taylor, but Eddie Fisher and reliever Marcelino Solis limited the visitors to eight hits for the nine innings.

It's Hard to Belt Ball From Bench!

By UP International

Fred Haney offers two guys a seat and they promptly thank him with some stand-up slugging that puts Milwaukee back in first place.

Johnny Logan and Wes Covington were the men Haney wanted to sit down.

Logan and Covington showed their "appreciation" by belting two-run homers Wednesday night in a 9-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals that moved the Braves back atop the National League after a three-day lapse.

Haney announced he was going to bench both players when the Braves came back home from a losing road trip Sunday night. When two games were rained out this week, however, he changed his mind and let them stay in the lineup.

Strategy, hunch or whatever you call it, Haney saw the move pay off as Logan's two-run homer highlighted a three-run rally in the second inning and Covington came through with his two-run smash in the third.

For good measure, Hank Aaron also contributed his fifth home run of the season along with three singles that boosted his league-leading average to .326, and Bill Bruton also homered. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Lew Burdette breezed to his fourth straight victory although he was clipped for 11 hits, including homers by Gino Cimoli and Bill White.

Victory moved Milwaukee into first place by percentage points over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who were beaten by the Phillies, 5-4. Pittsburgh Pirates nipped San Francisco Giants, 3-2, and Cincinnati Reds crushed Chicago Cubs, 18-8.

In the American League, New York Yankees opened their western invasion with a 5-2 victory over Chicago White Sox; Detroit Tigers ended a six-game losing streak with a 7-1 win over Baltimore Orioles in a game called at the end of five innings because of rain, and Kansas City Athletics outlasted Washington Senators, 7-6.

The other Saanich goal was scored by Gary Druce.

PUCK TOUR STARTS

Torrid Bruin Rally Failed to Warm Fans

LONDON (UPI) — Boston Bruins and New York Rangers probably are wondering today what they have to do to whip up some enthusiasm among apathetic British hockey fans.

The two clubs staged the type of game Wednesday that would have had American and Canadian spectators standing on their seats when Boston scored six straight goals to whip the Rangers, 7-5, in the first big-time pro hockey game played here since pre-war days.

SAT ON HANDS

Instead, some 1,500 fans at Wembley's Empire Pool sat on their hands for most of the game and play suffered from lack of atmosphere and appreciation.

Another 8,500 boycotted the contest because admission prices for the first of 23 games the two teams will play on the continent were doubled.

The Rangers, reinforced by three "borrowed" Chicago Black Hawks, Ed Litzenberger, Eric Nesterenko and Bobby Hull, were soaring along on a 5-1 lead when their nemesis from Boston suddenly awoke to the task at hand.

Bronco Horvath, Jim Morrison, Jean-Guy Gendron and Larry Leach scored Boston goals within a seven-minute stretch to pull the game out of the fire. Johnny Bucyk, Leo Labine and Dutch Reibel connected for Bruins' other markers while Dean Prentice and Les Colwill, with two each, and Hull were New York marksmen.

TORRES SELLS TICKETS

BRINGS OWN ROOTERS

Jose is Self-Supporting Fighter

NEW YORK (NEA)—Jose Torres is an old-fashioned neighborhood fighter—with all New York his neighborhood.

Torres, 22-year-old Puerto Rican, helps promote his fights. He sells his own tickets, brings his own rooting section. He spreads showcards around — in grocery stores, bars and barber shops. Ringworms know when he's fighting.

A lot of people have laughed at Torres' fighting style, but in 11 professional outings the middleweight has had the last chuckle. He knocked out nine opponents, employing what he calls "a defence combined with an offence."

Torres, a stablemate of Floyd Patterson, learned his ring technique from Cus D'Amato.

Sitting on a rubbing table covered with imitation red leather in manager D'Amato's Gramercy Park gymnasium was trainer Joe Fariello.

"It took Cus 20 years to perfect this style," he said. "All his fighters use it. Jose holds his gloves flush against his cheekbones. His elbows are held near the body. In this position he's not only able to block a punch, but he's ready to throw one, too.

"People ridicule things they don't understand. That's why they laugh at Jose. Charley Goldman calls it 'the peekaboo style. But do you know what the old trainer said? He said he didn't like his fighters to spar with mine. Said it was discouraging. I said, 'That's a compliment, Charley.' He said 'I know it.' Charley must be the only honest guy in Stillman's gymn.

"Things got so bad at Stillman's that I brought the boys down here to Cus' gym to train. Nobody would spar with them at Stillman's."

The door opened and in walked Torres. Wearing a lightweight grey suit, he ambled across the scarred wooden floor, past three punching dummies and sat on the rubbing table.

The first words to pass under his moustache were, "I am ready to fight for the title now. I sparred with Robinson twice. He not impress me. He beet me with hook and say, 'I hurt you?' I say, 'No.' Floyd (Patterson) tell me when I beet him I should say, 'hurt you, Ray?' But I didn't say it."

Torres took up boxing at 18 while in the Army. Representing the United States in the 1956 Olympic Games, he reached the final of the light-middleweight class where he dropped a decision to Laszlo Papp of Hungary. When he was discharged from the Army, Torres returned to Puerto Rico, where D'Amato got in touch with him. D'Amato sent plane fare for Jose and his father.

"His father had been offered $2,000 or $3,000 by some guys who wanted to take over his boy," said Trainer Fariello, "but he thought they were bad men. After talking to Cus for a couple of days he decided he was the kind of man he wanted to manage his son.

"Jose is smart, too. He's a natural fighter. But I did have to warn him about dropping his right hand when he hooked. I haven't had to remind him since the night he was dropped in Boston — he learned quick after that."

To the Puerto Ricans in New York, Torres is an idol. When he fights they pack the arena and scream for their countryman.

Not one to pass up a good thing, a brewery hired Torres as a good will ambassador.

"I work a few hours a week," says Torres. "They pay me $100. Sometimes I go around with salesmen. We go to bars and stores and I talk in Spanish to owners."

Torres is single but hopes to marry his sweetheart, Ramona Ortiz, this year.

"She doesn't like me to fight," says Jose Torres. "She not afraid I get hurt. She not afraid I hurt somebody. All she worry about is that I get to meet too many pretty girls. She shouldn't worry about that."

FISTIC FANFARE

Doc Knew Ropes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jack (Doc) Kearns, venerable fight manager who piloted Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight championship of the world, today deplored the decadence of boxing ballyhoo.

Kearns, now a Miami resident, recalled Wednesday how he arranged the Dempsey-Georges Carpentier fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921 and, through subtle exploitation, built it into boxing's first $1,000,000 gate.

He said in an interview that promoters have failed to exploit Brian London in his fight with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Indianapolis Friday night.

Keeping London in hiding briefly followed the pattern of the Dempsey-Carpentier build-up but Kearns says it ends right there.

WASHED UP

"Carpentier was just a washed up middleweight. He had been knocked out half a dozen times, but he had a spectacular war record in the French Air Corps.

"I heard that Carpentier—really a wonderful fellow—and his manager, Descamps, were visiting New York for a show featuring a famous French actress Carpentier was stuck on. This was a good time to hit him about a match.

"When I offered him $200,000 to fight Dempsey, everybody began jabbering in French that I must be crazy, that the fight would never draw. A London promoter, guy named Cochrane, was in the room and he said 'preposterous.' He had Carpentier sort of lined up to fight Becker in London for $40,000.

BETTER NATURE

"I appealed to his better nature, asking him how he could be so base a creature to stand in the way of a nice fellow like Carpentier making $200,000. He broke down sobbing and we had the fight.

"I told Carpentier to slip into the country and go immediately in hiding—not let anybody watch him work out and give no interviews.

"The papers ripped into us, saying we were hiding Carpentier to keep everybody from confirming their well-founded suspicions that Carpentier was an unfit opponent for Dempsey.

"That's what we wanted—all part of the ballyhoo. When we did let them see Carpentier, they saw him knock out two complaint sparring partners. Blasts turned to raves. Of course, Dempsey won by a knockout in the fourth.

"They don't seem to be exploiting this mystery about London for ballyhoo uses."

IT'S COMING OUT!

At Indianapolis, the little ballyhoo supplied sportswriters came from Patterson's trainer, who explained why the champion deserves to rate the 10 to 1 favorite's ranking, and from a minor rhubarb involving the promotion.

The trainer, Dan Florio, reports the "real" champion will be on display Friday.

"Floyd will be 100 per cent better than he was against Roy Harris.

"This is going to be the Patterson you saw knock out Archie Moore," said Florio. "He's in about the same shape as he was for Archie. You're going to see the real Patterson go against London. Not like the guy who fought Harris. He didn't have his zip then. Now he's fast and sharp and can do everything he wants to do."

TELEVISION SQUABBLE

Patterson was not informed by his manager about the rhubarb. This concerned a local television program which was cancelled Wednesday night because Patterson did not show up.

Both Patterson and London were to have been interviewed by an international panel of sports writers. The station cancelled the program when Patterson failed to appear. London was there.

"There was no firm commitment for Floyd's appearance," said manager Gus D'Amato. "Floyd was too tired to go on. He had made a round of appearances at several schools and was kept so late that he missed his limbering exercises and was late for supper."

Sproule Sparkles In Losing Cause

Dale Sproule stole the show, firing three goals for Saanich in an exhibition peewee lacrosse game at Stevenson Park, but still Victoria came up with the victory.

Bill Banwell's last period gave Victoria the 3-4 win. Cliff Thorburn scored twice and Paul Tucker and Steve Majorki once each to account for the other Victoria markers.

CREAM OF SHRINE CROP

Performances in second annual Shrine Trophy lacrosse game at Memorial Arena Wednesday night earned individual awards for Nanaimo's Norm Kowalyk (left) and Al Gill of Victoria Shamrocks (right), who were voted most valuable players for their respective teams. Rocks Slide Best; Win Shrine Clash

Rookie Line In Spotlight In Victory Over Labatts

Shamrocks 8, Labatts 4

By DOUG PEDEN

Victoria Shamrocks have the Shrine Trophy tucked away on their shelf today, but even coach Norm Baker isn't sure if they earned the bauble through their lacrosse ability or because of their skating talent.

Whichever it was, the Rocks impressed quite a few of the 3,200 fans at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as they slithered to an 8-4 upset victory over Nanaimo Labatts in the second annual Shrine lacrosse clash.

Since floor conditions Wednesday kept many veterans on both clubs worrying more about avoiding injuries than about scoring goals, the Irish will get a more decisive appraisal of their boxla skill when they open the Inter-City Lacrosse League season against Labatts at Nanaimo Saturday night.

Apparently caused by a combination of a cold floor, a warm building and humidity, a film of moisture condensed on the concrete playing surface and made good lacrosse all but out of the question. Although players, including several with gimpy knees, cake-walked gingerly at half speed or less most of the time, spills were numerous and passes took off at odd angles with embarassing regularity.

Footing was most treacherous in the second quarter and an intermission was called almost five minutes before the regulation half-time interval to allow workmen to sweep the floor with sawdust.

The treatment, and a repeat dose after the third quarter, got rid of some moisture but it was a skating match to the end.

Referees Were Quick With Whistles

It was a big night for the Irish all around. The Rocks, of course, picked up the Shrine Trophy with their triumph and Norm Kowalyk, a former Shamrock, received an individual award as the outstanding Nanaimo player, mostly on the strength of a fine first quarter when he collected a goal and an assist to spark Labatts to a 3-2 lead.

Al Gill, who fired two goals and earned one assist, was named the most valuable Victoria player and Ed Longpre, another former Shamrock, won the night's top door prize, an expenses-paid trip to Seattle for two.

While Gill, who also came up with several good defensive plays, was a unanimous choice as the outstanding Shamrock, Tom Collett and the Irish "kid" line also earned a place in the spotlight.

Operating smoothly with rookie linemates Jackie Wilson and Jim McNeill, Collett pumped in three neat goals, including the one that broke a 4-4 deadlock and sent the Rocks ahead for the first time late in the second quarter.

Veteran Bert Bertoia added a pair of tallies for Victoria and Jim McNulty counted once.

Labatts, with playing-coach Don Ashbee keeping himself on the bench and with some of their tested veterans playing in only a small portion of the game, got goals from Kowalyk, Gogi Stewart, Ted Liebiech and Terry Rodway.

As expected, the old Nanaimo-Victoria feud was still simmering and tempers flared briefly on several occasions. Referees Earl McDonald and Wally Henderson acted quickly to break up potential trouble and whistled a total of 37 minutes in penalties, plus a 10-minute misconduct to Nanaimo's Skip McKay.

It's Hard to Belt Ball From Bench!

By UP International

Fred Haney offers two guys a seat and they promptly thank him with some stand-up slugging that puts Milwaukee back in first place.

Johnny Logan and Wes Covington were the men Haney wanted to sit down.

Logan and Covington showed their "appreciation" by belting two-run homers Wednesday night in a 9-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals that moved the Braves back atop the National League after a three-day lapse.

Haney announced he was going to bench both players when the Braves came back home from a losing road trip Sunday night. When two games were rained out this week, however, he changed his mind and let them stay in the lineup.

Strategy, hunch or whatever you call it, Haney saw the move pay off as Logan's two-run homer highlighted a three-run rally in the second inning and Covington came through with his two-run smash in the third.

For good measure, Hank Aaron also contributed his fifth home run of the season along with three singles that boosted his league-leading average to .526, and Bill Bruton also homered. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Lew Burdette breezed to his fourth straight victory although he was clipped for 11 hits, including homers by Gino Cimoli and Bill White.

Victory moved Milwaukee into first place by percentage points over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who were beaten by the Phillies, 5-4. Pittsburgh Pirates nipped San Francisco Giants, 3-2, and Cincinnati Reds crushed Chicago Cubs, 18-8.

In the American League, New York Yankees opened their western invasion with a 5-2 victory over Chicago White Sox; Detroit Tigers ended a six-game losing streak with a 7-1 win over Baltimore Orioles in a game called at the end of five innings because of rain, and Kansas City Athletics outlasted Washington Senators, 7-6.

ROOKIES MOVE UP

Youthful Look In Senior Loop

No matter which way you look, signs of a youth movement are again evident in Victoria's Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Although all four clubs in the circuit will have a younger look, Page the Cleaner—last year's Pearce Electric club—has changed only slightly, adding just one recruit from the city's minor baseball ranks.

When Pages trot out on the Royal Athletic Park diamond for the season opener May 9, shortstop Bob Martin, stepping up from the Capital City Colt League, will form a keystone combination with brother Ron.

The other three squads are more liberally sprinkled with new additions of budding baseball talent.

FOUR NEW EAGLES

Eagles plan to start the new campaign with four players who performed in the Colt or Babe Ruth leagues last season. Naval Vets have five rookies in the fold and Wakeman-Trimble has two.

Working with the Wakeham-Trimble squad under coach Frank Carson and manager Lyle Cornett are a pair of Colt League graduates — promising catcher John Pringle and Don Bell.

Gerry Parker, piloting the Naval Vets for another season and hoping for a lot of mileage out of young legs, still hasn't decided on his first-string catcher. Battling for the job are Colt Leaguer Barry Sadler and Mike Woodley. Babe Ruth League all-star last year.

EYE FOR VERSATILITY

Another Babe Ruth all-star, Grant Udy, is slated to see pitching service with the Vets, as is Brent Siddons. Fleet-footed Bill Mundy is expected to nail down an outfield spot.

Manager Art Worth apparently had an eye for versatility when he made his selection from the minor baseball circuits. Working out with Worth's Eagles are Cliff Kilduff, at home either in the outfield or on the mound, and John Balloch, who plays either infield or outfield.

Also slated for action with Eagles are rangy first-baseman Daryl Lorimer and outfielder Dave Rees.

With workout continuing for another week before the clubs get down to playing for keeps, there is still a chance that additional youngsters will push their way into the senior loop.

Eagles will clash with Naval Vets and Wakeman-Trimble tangles with Page Cleaners when the season gets under way with a twin bill Saturday, May 9.

League plans call for a 76-game schedule, with one exhibition doubleheader each month. Single league games are slated Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights and twin bills are carded for Saturdays.

Walker Cuppers Proving Right To Team Berths

FORMBY, England (AP)—The six members of the British Walker Cup team entered in the event reached the round of 16 in the English amateur golf championship Wednesday.

David Marsh had the narrowest escape. He was two down with two to play against Mike Pearson. He squared the match on the 18th hole and sank a 20-foot putt to win the 19th.

In other matches involving members of the Cup team, which will meet the United States at Muirfield, Scotland, May 15-16, M. S. R. Lunt defeated J. R. G. Cobbett, 2 up; Arthur Perowne defeated J. R. Bennet, 4 and 3; defending champion Doug Sewell defeated P. Squire, 4 and 3; Michael Bonallack defeated M. E. Daws, 3 and 2, and Guy Wolstenholme defeated M. J. Fisher, 4 and 3.

Comiskey Bid Set Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Comiskey lost another round Wednesday in his fight to block the sale of controlling interest in Chicago White Sox to Bill Veeck.

Circuit Judge William J. Tuohy dismissed a motion filed by Comiskey which sought to force the sale to him of at least 800 shares of stock held by his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Rigney.

Acquisition of the shares would give Chuck control of the American League club. He already owns 46 per cent of the stock.

In effect, Tuohy's ruling upheld a March action in probate court, granting Mrs. Rigney's request for distribution of her 1,541 shares of stock. She sought the ruling so the stock might be turned over to the syndicate headed by Veeck.

Twin Bills Launch Softball Venture

Victoria's senior men's softball experiment in "togetherness" will get off the ground Sunday with doubleheaders at both Central and Heywood parks.

Weekdays, the 11 teams of the Senior Open Men's Softball League will hold to the same parks their respective leagues have used in past years. Former senior "A" organizations will play at Central Park and teams of the last year's senior "B" loop will use Heywood Avenue.

They will get together each Sunday for interlocking doubleheaders at both parks with games starting at 1.30 and 6 p.m.

START SUNDAY

First of the get-together ventures will take place Sunday.

Last season's senior "A" league-champion Gorge Hotel team meets Duncan's Mayo Lumber, 1958 Island champion, at Central Park. In the Heywood opener, Navy tangles with McNutt's.

The second game at Central Park will match last year's senior "B" champion Fletchers, now Morrison Motors, against Farmer Construction, formerly Arrow Furniture. In the Heywood nightcap, Tudor House tackles Maycock Optical.

EXHIBITION GAMES

The three other teams in the league are Dickinson and Dunn, Half Way House and Six Mile House.

Weekday games are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Exhibition games against U.S. and mainland teams are either already scheduled or anticipated. A series against popular Seattle Federals is on the slate.

Mounties Continue Long Drop

By The Canadian Press

Phoenix Giants tamped Vancouver Mounties even deeper into the Pacific Coast League cellar by piling up seven runs in the first three innings Wednesday night and dumping the Mounties 7-3.

In other action, manager Bob Elliott of Sacramento dipped down into his pitching roster for rookie Chuck Hickman and found the Solons with a 7-1 victory over Portland Beavers on Hickman's four-hit pitching.

San Diego Padres kept within striking distance of the first-place Solons by belting Seattle Rainiers 3-2 while Salt Lake City traded shutouts with Spokane, the Bees winning the doubleheader opener 4-0 and the Indians taking the nightcap 1-0.

At Phoenix, the Giants piled up two runs in the first frame, one in the second and four in the third, three of the latter runs on Johnny Orsino's home run.

The Mounties attempted to get back into contention, aided by solo homers by Ron Hansen and Joe Taylor, but Eddie Fisher and reliever Marcelino Solis limited the visitors to eight hits for the nine innings.

PUCK TOUR STARTS

Torrid Bruin Rally Failed to Warm Fans

LONDON (UPI) — Boston Bruins and New York Rangers probably are wondering today what they have to do to whip up some enthusiasm among apathetic British hockey fans.

The two clubs staged the type of game Wednesday that would have had American and Canadian spectators standing on their seats when Boston scored six straight goals to whip the Rangers, 7-5, in the first big-time pro hockey game played here since pre-war days.

SAT ON HANDS

Instead, some 1,500 fans at Wembley's Empire Pool sat on their hands for most of the game and play suffered from lack of atmosphere and appreciation.

Another 8,500 boycotted the contest because admission prices for the first of 23 games the two teams will play on the continent were doubled.

The Rangers, reinforced by three "borrowed" Chicago Black Hawks, Ed Litzenberger, Eric Nesterenko and Bobby Hull, were soaring along on a 5-1 lead when their nemesis from Boston suddenly awoke to the task at hand.

Bronco Horvath, Jim Morrison, Jean Guy Gendron and Larry Leach scored Boston goals within a seven-minute stretch to pull the game out of the fire. Johnny Bucyk, Leo Labine and Dutch Reibel connected for Bruins' other markers while Dean Prentice and Les Colwill, with two each, and Hull were New York marksmen.

TORRES SELLS TICKETS

BRINGS OWN ROOTERS

Jose is Self-Supporting Fighter

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jose Torres is an old-fashioned neighborhood fighter—with all New York his neighborhood.

Torres, 22-year-old Puerto Rican, helps promote his fights. He sells his own tickets, brings his own rooting section. He spreads showcards around — in grocery stores, bars and barber shops. Ringworms know when he's fighting.

A lot of people have laughed at Torres' fighting style, but in 11 professional outings the middleweight has had the last chuckle. He knocked out nine opponents, employing what he calls "a defence combined with an offence."

Torres, a stablemate of Floyd Patterson, learned his ring technique from Cus D'Amato.

Sitting on a rubbing table covered with imitation red leather in manager D'Amato's Gramercy Park gymnasium was trainer Joe Fariello.

"It took Cus 20 years to perfect this style," he said. "All his fighters use it. Jose holds his gloves flush against his cheekbones. His elbows are held near the body. In this position he's not only able to block a punch, but he's ready to throw one, too.

"People ridicule things they don't understand. That's why they laugh at Jose. Charley Goldman calls it the peekaboo style. But do you know what the old trainer said? He said he didn't like his fighters to spar with mine. Said it was discouraging. I said, 'That's a compliment, Charley.' He said 'I know it.' Charley must be the only honest guy in Stillman's gymn.

"Things got so bad at Stillman's that I brought the boys down here to Cus' gym to train. Nobody would spar with them at Stillman's."

The door opened and in walked Torres. Wearing a lightweight grey suit, he ambled across the scarred wooden floor, past three punching dummies and sat on the rubbing table.

The first words to pass under his moustache were, "I am ready to fight for the title now. I sparred with Robinson twice. He not impress me. He beet me with hook and say, 'I hurt you?' I say, 'No.' Floyd (Patterson) tell me when I beet him I should say, 'I hurt you, Ray?' But I didn't say it."

Torres took up boxing at 18 while in the Army. Representing the United States in the 1956 Olympic Games, he reached the final of the light-middleweight class where he dropped a decision to Laszlo Papp of Hungary. When he was discharged from the Army, Torres returned to Puerto Rico, where D'Amato got in touch with him. D'Amato sent plane fare for Jose and his father.

"His father had been offered $2,000 or $3,000 by some guys who wanted to take over his boy," said Trainer Fariello, "but he thought they were bad men. After talking to Cus for a couple of days he decided he was the kind of man he wanted to manage his son.

"Jose is smart, too. He's a natural fighter. But I did have to warn him about dropping his right hand when he hooked. I haven't had to remind him since the night he was dropped in Boston — he learned quick after that."

To the Puerto Ricans in New York, Torres is an idol. When he fights they pack the arena and scream for their countryman.

Not one to pass up a good thing, a brewery hired Torres as a good will ambassador.

"I work a few hours a week," says Torres. "They pay me $100. Sometimes I go around with salesmen. We go to bars and stores and I talk in Spanish to owners."

Torres is single but hopes to marry his sweetheart, Ramona Ortiz, this year.

"She doesn't like me to fight," says Jose Torres. "She not afraid I get hurt. She not afraid I hurt somebody. All she worry about is that I get to meet too many pretty girls. She shouldn't worry about that."

Sproule Sparkles In Losing Cause

Dale Sproule stole the show, firing three goals for Saanich in an exhibition peewee lacrosse game at Stevenson Park, but still Victoria came up with the victory.

Bill Banwell's last period gave Victoria the 3-4 win. Cliff Thorburn scored twice and Paul Tucker and Steve Majorki once each to account for the other Victoria markers.

The other Saanich goal was scored by Gary Druce.

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Knock Down the Favorite Club sits today and if the other touts in the back of the room will come to order we'll tell you why an outsider named Our Dad will win Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

The favorites, of course, will be a sassy filly named Silver Spoon and a class colt called First Landing. Which is fine for the chalk eaters along with such well-liked Hay Burners as Tomy Lee, Sword Dancer, Finnegan and the entry of Open View and Atoll.

Which means that Our Dad should pay box car figures.

That is, of course, unless he runs into a blind switch—again— and doesn't get a chance to push his frustrated muzzle in front. But given a chance, this late running hard luck colt ought to be somewhere in the picture when they finish that long dash down the Churchill Downs' straightaway.

Old Fearless, it must be admitted, is a setup for late-running outsiders in America's top hoss race. And, it also must be acknowledged, the chosen beasts don't always cooperate to the fullest extent.

And One Kept Getting Fourteenther

I'd like to be able to assure the doubters that my long-shots are money in the bank. But then some crass individual whips out a record book and reminds me of past selections such as Cold Command and Burning Dream, which finished ninth in other derbies; Dark Jungle and Countermand, a pair of placid 12th-place finishers, and something called Diavolaw which ran a slick 14th and kept getting fourteenther.

But hope springs annually as well as eternal, and I've got enough figures at hand to show unquestionably that Our Dad will run down another outsider named John Bruce in the stretch to collect the blanket of American Beauty roses. First Landing I'll put third just to placate the chalk players.

Figures on the late running ability of your nag, as the three-year-old crop goes a mile and a quarter for the first time, are a necessity for anyone who pretends to stand forth as a horse expert. And show me a sportswriter who, at this stage of the gallop, isn't an expert and I'll show you a man who should be working—and more profitably, probably—on the Wall Street beat.

Our Dad sold me on his abilities in the Wood Memorial even though he ran a penned-in third. Manassa Mauler, which took the race but isn't eligible for the derby, and First Landing had pappy pinned against the rail and he couldn't get racing room even though little Pete Anderson screamed that Our Dad could have "run for eight days."

If Someone Will Leave Door Open

It seemed in the Derby Trial on Tuesday that Our Dad would need about that long to catch the leaders. Trainer Hirsch Jacobs told Anderson to lay off the pace.

—"But not that far," Jacobs screamed despairingly as Anderson was 13 lengths behind at the half-mile mark.

Pappy finally began to run at the quarter pole, even though he was dead last by six and one-half lengths at the top of the stretch, and finished fourth a mere three and one-half lengths back. Another quarter of a mile and there is a suspicion here that he would have collared the winning First Landing.

All of which remains to be seen, because John Bruce was running at the leader, too. He moved from fifth place to finish second, but Our Dad made up three lengths on him in the stretch.

Anderson, of course, will have to give Pappy a better ride in what shapes up as a 17-horse cavalry charge. But in this race no holds are barred and Our Dad will only need the door left open a crack.

I think.

GOOD COMBINATION

Expected to be favorite choice of bettors at Saturday's Kentucky Derby is combination of First Landing, winner of 13 of 17 races, and veteran jockey Eddie Arcaro, who has ridden five previous winners in America's most famous turf classic.

ON-AND-ON IN DERBY

Calumet Trainer Drops in Surprise

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Trainer Jimmy Jones of Calumet Farm pulled a surprise at Churchill Downs today when he entered On-And-On in the Kentucky Derby, bringing the field for Saturday's running of the $125,000 added classic to 18.

Only Wednesday Jones said On-And-On "was not seasoned enough" for America's greatest horse race, but only 15 minutes before the entry box closed he sent Dee Brooks, his stable agent, to the secretary's office to put On-And-On back in the race.

Since Jones had released jockey Steve Brooks, who will ride Claiborne Farm's Dunce in the 85th running of the Rose Run, no jockey was named for On-And-On. The colt also was entered in Saturday's sixth race and thus his status as a starter in the derby can remain up in the air until 45 minutes before post time for the derby, the latest anyone can withdraw a horse without paying the $1,250 starting fee.

TWO MORE DAYS

Today's action cost Calumet Farm $250, the price for entering. But if bought Jones another two days time in which to get On-And-On into tip-top condition.

The other entries and their riders are:

Meadow Stable's First Landing (Eddie Arcaro); Fred Turner Jr's Tomy Lee (Willie Shoemaker); Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer (Bill Boland); Elkcam Stable's Open View (Karl Korte) and his stablemate, Atoll (Sam Boulmetis); C. V. Whitney's Silver Spoon (Ray York); Nell S. McCarthy's Finnegan (Johnny Longdon); Spring Hill Farm's Easy Spur (Willie Hartack); Bayard Sharp's Troilus (Chris Rogers); Miss Patrice Jacobs' Our Dad (Pete Anderson); Mrs. Jacques Braunstein's Royal Orbit (Willie Harmatz); Mrs. S. Helene Sadacca's The Chosen One (Jim Combest); Kenneth G. Marshall's John Bruce (Kenny Church); Briardale Farm's Rico Tesio (Manny Yeager); C. B. Fischbach's Festival King (Willie Carstens); and Jacnot Stable's Die Hard (Johnny Sellers).

With 18 starters, the Derby will be worth a total of $165,000 with a net purse of $120,900 going to the winner.

The field is the largest since Count Turf won in a field of 20 in 1951.

In a large field, post positions play an important part. First Landing, the favorite, drew No. 3 and in the background trainer Casey Hayes could be heard to say, "Thank you". Second choice Tomy Lee was placed in about the middle, in the ninth stall, while Sword Dancer, the third choice, fared poorly, getting No. 15.

Our Dad got the inside post position, followed by Rico Tesio, First Landing, Silver Spoon, Atoll, Easy Spur, Dunce, Finnigan, Tomy Lee, Troilus, John Bruce, On-And-On, Die Hard, Open View, Sword Dancer, Festival King, The Chosen One and Royal Orbit.

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union have announced the signing of two Canadians, tackle Lorne Reid and quarterback Bill Stevenson.

All Good Golfers Like a Good Match

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If Bill McColl had his choice, he would sooner play golf than watch it, on a normal day.

Owner of several impressive tee triumphs, the Colwood ace has his choice Sunday but nevertheless intends to take his usual Sunday stroll down the fairways in the unaccustomed role of a spectator.

The former B.C. Closed and Vancouver Island Open titleholder feels a 36-hole meeting of Ron MacLeod and Laurie Kerr at Oak Bay Sunday "will be rather interesting."

And McColl's interest in the match, a battle to determine a finalist in the 10th annual Times-sponsored Vancouver Island Open tournament, would seem to back up the belief that even fairway stars appreciate good golf every day.

TWO 18-HOLE ROUNDS

The other semifinal, between Gorge Vale clubmates Bill Wakeham and Johnny Merriman, will lead the parade to the first tee for 18-hole rounds at 9.30 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. The Kerr-MacLeod match and semifinalists in the handicap section will follow at five-minute intervals.

Sandy Mitchell meets Jack Meadley in one handicap semifinal, while the other half brings together Dr. Roger Ross and Art Blackmore. All four are Gorge Vale members.

Unless the talk around the locker rooms is misleading, the match creating the greatest amount of interest is the clash between Kerr, the city amateur and B.C. Closed titleholder who is shooting to become the first two-time winner of the Times tourney, and MacLeod, professional at Jasper Park Lodge, who was runner-up in the Island event in 1951.

IT'S A PUZZLE

"If I had to bet on that one," reported McColl, "I honestly don't know which way I'd turn.

"I've played MacLeod twice this winter at Oak Bay and I've been on the receiving end of a 64 and a 67. And Kerr has been playing very well this year. In fact, anyone playing Laurie at Colwood has found it's like sticking your head in a hornet's nest. Laurie's been eating them up on his home course."

It will, as Mr. McColl suggests, probably be quite a match.

TIMES OPEN DRAW

Nelson Discounts Pools Ban Report

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Byron Nelson said Wednesday he doesn't think the U.S. Golf Association will ban from the U.S. National Open players who compete in tournaments with Calcutta pools.

He referred to a statement Tuesday by Joe Dey, executive director of the USGA.

Dey said some persons have suggested that such a ban apply to players who compete in tournaments with big pools, such as the Tournament of Champions last weekend at La. Vegas.

"I doubt that the USGA will go so far," Nelson, who is here for the Colonial Open, said.

"The suggested rule might be a good one for amateurs, but not for PGA members," he said. "There has never been any taint attached to professionals where there were Calcutta pools."

The shadow of "the Hawk" hung over a field of 48 starters in the $27,300 Colonial tournament.

It was Ben Hogan, who used to haunt them all when in his prime and capable now of throwing a scare into the best. He did just that Wednesday when he shot a seven-under-par 63 over the rugged 7,011-yard Colonial Country Club course.

While it was only a tuneup round, it was the lowest score ever posted at Colonial and was two strokes under the competitive course record 65 Hogan shot in 1946 in winning the first tournament. He took three more Colonial titles after that, the last in 1953.

Mike Souchak and Cary Middlecoff were favored in the odds 7 to 1 to take first money of $5,000 in the 72-hole event. Gene Littler and Ken Venturi were next at 10 to 1.

Chairman of the new Inter-club League is Uplands captain Gordon Pellow. Orville Fox of the Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association is secretary.

The main purpose of the competition is to foster keener competition among local golfers.

DOW TALKS GOLF—NO. 5

Combination Effort

This is the fifth of an instructional golf series, written for NEA Service and The Daily Times by Dow Finsterwald, PGA champion.

By DOW FINSTERWALD

The start of the backswing is a combination effort of the left shoulder and arm and the hands, all moving together.

As I stress in my edition of the Golferama series, the first time the hands make a discernable movement by themselves is when wrist-cocking commences at the hip-high stage. From there to the finish of the backswing the cocking action of the wrists takes place. Be sure it starts no sooner.

Don't count your way through the swing, consciously break it into component parts.

I play the ball just inside the left heel, hands even with the ball. The left arm is firm but not rigid, remains so from the start of the swing to club-head impact with the ball.

It is the guide throughout the swing.

AT PIMLICO TRACK

Old Sentiment Stays With New Finish Line

BALTIMORE (AP)—There will be a new finish line at Pimlico race track next Monday. The ashes of an inveterate horse follower and a jockey will be moved symbolically with it.

Old Pimlico is being rebuilt into a new Pimlico. But sentiment and tradition are still preserved.

The finish line is being moved 220 yards down the stretch to fit in with a proposed new clubhouse. The question arose about the ashes scattered at the finish line of 88 years.

Charles Johnson, Pimlico publicist, said today the old turf followers will go where they longed to be, at the Pimlico finish line.

Roland M. Long, 71-year-old Pimlico faithful himself, will carry one shovel of earth from the old line to the new. It will represent jockey Willie Doyle, who rode Effendi to victory in the Preakness at Pimlico in 1909.

Louis Pondfield, executive director of Pimlico, will carry another shovel in memoriam to Percy Longstreet Barry, who might have been a famous pianist if the horses' hooves hadn't sounded sweeter.

Barry's ashes were sifted on the Pimlico finish line in 1944, according to his last wishes, said his widow.

"My husband made his piano debut in Carnegie Hall at eight," she once said. "If he had only followed that art I am certain he would have been an artist of renown. But horses were his life."

The ashes of a third lover of horse races, trainer Dillon Grey, also are buried at Pimlico. But they will remain where they were placed, at the flagpole in the infield.

VILLA RELEGATED

Tie Not Enough To Prevent Fall

LONDON (Reuters)—Aston Villa, the club with one of the proudest records in English soccer, were relegated Wednesday night to the second division of the English league for only the second time in their long career in the soccer league.

A 1-1 tie against West Brom which Albion at Birmingham was not enough to save Villa.

The other team threatened with relegation, Manchester City, won a home game 3-1 against Leicester City and finished its league program with 31 points—one more than Villa.

SHORT STAY

Villa, whose seven wins in the Football Association Cup is a record, was last relegated to the second division in 1936, but came back again in 1938.

Another relegation problem was solved in the second division.

Barnsley, whose chairman Joe Richards is president of the Football League, was beaten 3-1 at home to Leyton Orient and toppled into the third division. Grimsby Town had already gone down from the second division.

At Chesiea, the English first division soccer team defeated Belgrade 1-0 in the first leg of a quarter-finals match for the European inter-city Fairs Cup.

Matches are decided on aggregate goals after home and away matches.

Pep Talk Ignited 'Peg Fire

WINNIPEG (CP) — Only Winnipeg Braves know what coach Bill Allum said after the second period, but it paid off with a come-from-behind 5-3 victory over Peterborough Petes in the fourth game of the Memorial Cup final Wednesday night.

Braves swept from behind a 3-2 second-period count to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. Winnipeg could take home the cup and the Canadian junior hockey crown with a win in Brandon Friday night.

Petes outshot the Braves 25 to 18 before 8,375 fans.

Al Baty scored the winning goal at the 15-minute mark of the final period. Captain Wayne Larkin clinched the victory three minutes later with his second goal of the night. Centre Bobby Leiter also scored twice.

Petes' scorers were Jim Roberts, Bob Rivard and George Montague.

Peterborough Coach Scotty Bowman was bitter about the work of referee Len Corriveau of Quebec City. "He called only the glaring trips, never the hooking or boarding."

Bowman said he would ask that another referee be named for the fifth game.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Ottawa Rough Riders have announced the signing of North Carolina State end Bob Pepe for the 1959 Big Four football season.

Swing Through Europe Reward for Dunlops?

TORONTO (CP) — Whitby Dunlops, a history-making hockey team, celebrated a second Allan Cup triumph today that made them almost sure bets to represent Canada on a European exhibition tour next fall.

Whitby won the national senior championship Wednesday night for the second time in three years by smothering Vernon Canadians 9-3 to take the best-of-seven series 4-1.

Dunlops, with a perfect record in two Allan Cup appearances, also became the first team to win the cup the year after capturing the world amateur hockey championship.

CONSISTENT WINNERS

Whitby's triumph was the 27th Allan Cup for the East since the series blossomed into an East-West affair 43 years ago. The West won 15 times, the last being Vernon in 1956. There was no final in 1945.

The game was a swan song to hockey for Whitby playing-coach Sid Smith and his counterpart with Vernon, George Agar. Both said they were hanging up their skates.

Smith, who hardly looked ready for retirement after scoring three goals Wednesday night, seemed definite about his decision.

"I'm real glad we won because I'll be going out with a winner," Sid said. "This is my last game as a player. I'm 34 now and hockey is becoming too much of a strain. Besides I have my family and job to think of," added the ex-pro with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Agar, who will be 40 this Sunday, had the same feeling.

"I'm definitely through playing," the veteran forward said. I don't know what my plans will be, but after 21 years I may get away from hockey altogether."

Whitby manager Wren Blair, between gulps of champagne in the dressing room, said: "Definitely we'll go to Europe. There may be some league problems such as scheduling, but they can be worked out."

A crowd of only 1,955 watched while Smith with linemates Bobby Attersley and George Samolenko wrecked Vernon's comeback hopes.

Smith with three goals, including the tie-breaker in the second period, and Attersley and Samolenko scoring twice each, gave the Dunnies more than they needed. Tom O'Connor and Sandy Air were the other Whitby marksmen.

Art Hart, Jim Moro and Russ Kowalchuk, an addition from Kelowna Packers, scored for Canadians, who won the fourth game 3-0 and played strongly for half of Wednesday night's contest.

After each team scored once in the first period, Whitby scored three times in the second and added five more goals in the third when Vernon got its last two tallies.

Canadians missed a great chance to take the lead at the 14-minute mark of the second period when Odie Lowe got a breakaway, but missed the net after drawing out Whitby goaltender John Henderson.

To Agar, that was the turning point. "If Odie had scored we'd have been ahead 2-1," he said, "then Dunnies came back with two fast goals and that was the game."

Netminder Hal Gordon, Vernon's star in the series received little protection from his defence but still made 35 stops compared with 19 for Henderson.

The series drew only 12,703 fans.

TENSIONS NOTHING NEW

Live With Your Nerves

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Emeritus Member, Division of Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

PART 9

Hundreds of writers are complaining of the tensions that go with modern civilization. They seem to think that these tensions are something new and are caused by the tempo of life lived alongside of jangling telephones, deadlines and 5 o'clock commuters' trains.

I suspect these writers are, to some extent, wrong in assuming that tensions and anxiety are special curses of our modern life. One need only read ancient history to see how insecure life used to be even then. As Montaigne wrote in the 16th century, there was hardly a night when some robber might not come and murder him in his bed.

Many of the modern writers tell us we should learn to work without tension, and this, of course, is a pleasant thought. The trouble is that it is not easy to do tense work without getting tense.

May Be Helpful

A certain amount of tension may be normal and even helpful to us. For instance, tensions can play a part in our enjoyment of sports, as when, at a World Series game, with the bases loaded and the score tied, we watch a famous pinch-hitter come to bat. Without some tension, we would get little pleasure in the suspense of the moment.

We might be like the well-dressed middle-aged woman who, one day years ago, sat in the stands at Yankee Stadium, unmoved and uninterested while all the fans around her jumped up and down and yelled themselves hoarse. Finally, when the howling wild man next to her had quieted down, she said, "Excuse me, but when Mr. Ruth hits a home run will you tell me?"

"Gracious," said the man, "he just did—didn't you see it?"

"Oh," said the woman, "is that all there is to it?" And she got up and left!

Too Many Tranquilizers

I was amused when a prominent physician said that he thought this tranquilizer fad was going too far. When he looks at a lot of slow, lazy, inattentive and inefficient people, he wishes he could give them, not a tranquilizer, but some drug that would make them tense, wide-awake, and full of the energy and courage with which to tackle life more vigorously.

My old teacher, Dr. Walter B. Cannon, had the idea that when a deer sees a cougar racing toward him, he instantly gets an injection of adrenal hormones into his blood—hormones which cause his muscles to become tense and to contract better and more efficiently so that he may outrun his enemy.

Dr. Cannon felt that when we humans are alarmed we, also, get an injection of these stimulating hormones; but because we do not have to run or fight, we do not use up the chemicals quickly enough, and so they stay for a while in our blood to make us tense and trembling and sick.

'Shot' of Cortisone

Today, we suspect that, under great stress, we can get a "shot" into our blood of cortisone or some similar drug. One reason for believing this is that people will for a few hours be freed from the symptoms of some chronic illness during an emotional crisis, just as they might be freed if given an injection of adrenalin or cortisone.

Sir Arthur Hurst, one of England's' great physicians and a bad asthmatic, once told me of a day when in his car, on a steep hill, his brakes failed. For the next few seconds his life hung in the balance as he struggled to keep his car from going over an embankment at the foot of the hill. When he succeeded in bringing his car to a stop without hitting anyone, he found that, for the first time in weeks, he was entirely free of his asthma—just as if he had taken a big dose of adrenalin.

Many persons, after an argument, reacted badly to the outpouring into their blood of adrenalin, much as many women do to the adrenalin they get when their dentist gives them this drug combined with novocaine. Some persons who react well to adrenalin or cortisone say they feel wonderful for some hours after a bawling-out match with someone.

What is sad is that many of us get distressingly tense from performing some task, just as I am getting tense as I write this chapter, or a woman gets tense making a dress. Many of us are constantly getting tense over little jobs, little conflicts and little fears, and it is very difficult for us to avoid doing this.

When I feel I am getting tense, I often remind myself of the good lesson I learned in my youth from the late Steward Edward White who, one day, as he was building a cabin in the mountains, was sawing at a log as fast as he could go. The old hillbilly who used to sit and watch him said, "You are like all them city fellers. When they saw they can't wait to get the log cut in two. Now, when I saw, I just saws!"

To me, ever since, this thought has been a most helpful one—one that has often kept me from getting tense and hurried as it is my nature to be. When I get back from a two-weeks' trip to find my desk piled high with mail, I say to my secretary, "We won't worry about it; we'll just saw."

(From the book, LIVE AT PEACE WITH YOUR NERVES, copyright, 1958, by Dr Walter C. Alvarez, and published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.)

FRIDAY—Dr. Alvarez gives two important rules to follow in reducing tension and tells how to avoid situations that can build up tension and the emotional distress which follows.

Manure Spilled Along Highway Brings $20 Fine

Berry farmer Nels I. Granewall, 5630 Alderley, couldn't think of anyone who would like a load of pungent chicken manure, so he drove on letting it fall from his insecure truck along four miles of highway.

In Saanich police court Tuesday Granewall pleaded guilty to a charge of depositing filth on a highway and was fined $20.

He said a wooden wedge securing the load broke, and when he discovered the droppings were dropping on the road he kept driving home.

"I couldn't think of anyone who would let me dump it on their property."

"No, there aren't many people who would. All the more reason you should have stopped," Magistrate William Ostler said.

Arrow Jet Attempt For Speed Record Suggested by MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Completion of a still-unfinished Arrow jet interceptor so that it can try for a world speed record was suggested in the Commons Tuesday by Paul Hellyer, former associate defence minister.

However, Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave a non-committal reply to the Liberal member's direct request that the aircraft not be destroyed as planned.

These are the children who benefited from The Times Milk for Hungry Children Fund.

USC Director Thanks Victorians

"I bless the Victoria Times," says Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee who recently watched distribution of government donated Canadian milk powder in the Royapuram slum area of Madras, India.

She was referring to the "Milk for Hungry Children Fund," a Christmas campaign that collected $8,196 from Victoria Times readers. This money paid shipping costs of the milk to India, Korea and Hong Kong.

"There were more than 500 people waiting at the milk distribution centre," Dr. Hitschmanova wrote USC headquarters in Ottawa.

"Each person was given three cups of cold liquid milk. This is the largest milk distribution in Madras and it takes place five mornings of the week."

The milk goes to people who work as coolies, to orphan children and to the destitute who live on the pavement or in the railway stations.

"Everywhere I heard nothing but praise and gratitude for the Canadians who have made the milk shipments possible," the director said.

More than a quarter-million pounds of milk powder has been shipped to Asia by the USC.

Members to Meet CS Strike Costs

A voluntary collection of $1 per member is underway among B.C. Government Employees' Association members to defray extra expenditure associated with the province-wide strike March 13. The fund was started by the Vancouver-New Westminster branch, and copies of the resolution have been forwarded to all other branches of the 11,000-member association. Latest issue of the Provincial, BCGEA magazine, devotes itself entirely to discussion of the strike.

GRUBER AT THE WHEEL

Gruber

There are quiet a number of specific makes of car to be covered yet in this space, both domestic and especially the growing number of highly-interesting imported ones. But one or two questions on points of general interest have come up recently, and so we shall for the next week or two deal with these.

A disquieting, and growing, volume of sound of complaining nature has come into evidence from south of the border; "letters to the editor" columns in American motor magazines are filled with individual owners' expressions of dissatisfaction with quality of assembly and workmanship of U.S.-made cars. So vocal has this minority become that the matter has reached the floor of the U.S. Congress, where some movement is afoot to control the manufacturers' product in respect of safety by legislation.

Not All Perfect

Well, mildly put, nothing much is likely to come of that. The word "minority" above is used advisedly; we must keep sufficient sense of proportion to realize that "Detroit" mass-produces motor cars at a rate of some six millions of units annually. Some of these, undoubtedly, do not turn out blue-print perfect. But human nature being what it is, only those of us who may have cause for dissatisfaction become vocal; how many people, however, will think of registering audibly their satisfaction with a manufactured product? That vast army is, generally, silent, but that it is in the vast majority needs only a moment's calm analysis to determine.

The chief point, however, I wish to make, is in respect of visually identical cars, but manufactured in Canada. I cannot really say how justified may be the complaints concerning the alleged poor quality of U.S.-made cars, but I have sufficient first-hand experience and other reliable evidence to show that this simply does not apply in anywhere near the same measure to Canadian-made, though basically U.S.-designed cars.

Unknown Factors

Whether the relatively low rate of production at Oshawa, Windsor, Hamilton, Oakville, Toronto, vis-a-vis Detroit, South Bend, Kenosha, etc., enables each workman in the Canadian plants to spend more time on a given operation in the course of assembly, whether the Canadian workman as a type is more conscientious than his American colleague, whether the unseen specifications in respect of metallurgy or time allowed per operation of assembly are higher in the Canadian plants—this I do not know.

There is, to be sure, some evidence, if inconclusive, to show that in some of the above respects higher standards may, in fact, prevail in Canadian factories. For instance, I recall having it pointed out to me by an American service station attendant who had hoisted up my ex-1950 Studebaker car, made in Hamilton, Ont., that within the front suspension assembly there were incorporated some strengthening bits and pieces of metal not found, at the time, on the American-made twin to that model car.

Long Run

That car, incidentally — and to get down to specific cases — ran for seven years and 103,000 miles with unfailing reliability and a virtual complete freedom from the need for repairs.

My recollection is that, in contrast to the expendable components of a car, such as spark plugs, brake linings, tires, etc., the only fixed component of this requiring replacement in all that time was the water pump, at 94,000 miles, at a total cost of $8.40.

Within my immediate family there also lives a 1956 Pontiac V-8 with automatic Powerglide transmission, born in Oshawa, Ontario, which, after 60,000 merciless miles, continues to function literally as new.

Now here in Canada you may substitute the word Pontiac for Chevrolet, for these two makes of car bear a far closer resemblance to one another under the skin than holds true for the American-made versions of these two makes, and also unlike the "Americans," these two cars are produced under the same roof and largely along a common production line.

I happened to have had extensive personal experience also with a product of Ford of Canada—the erstwhile "small" Mercury, which has since become the Meteor, and which, in Canada, is made to the same standards, if not to identical mechanical specifications, as the Ford itself, the Edsel, the large Mercury and the Monarch—they are all built at the fabulous Oakville plant which encompasses 32 acres under one roof.

Good Reputation

That "small" Mercury gave no less satisfactory service than the Studebaker and Pontiac referred to above. Chrysler products, particularly those made in Windsor, Ont., have long since enjoyed a rather legendary reputation for toughness; and as for the Rambler, made in East Toronto — well, independent consumer analysts have declared that make of car to be second to none in quality of workmanship and materials, and certainly even a short drive in these endearing Ramblers conveys an unmistakable impression of robustness.

U.S. SENATORS PROPOSE MEMORIAL TO 'FRIENDSHIP BORDER'

Pig-on-a-Pedestal Peace Shrine Backed for San Juan Island

Victoria historians are all in favor of establishing a monument on San Juan Island to commemmorate the "pig war" of June 15, 1859—one of the lesser border disputes between Canada and the United States.

They re-acted enthusiastically today to a report from Washington that Senators Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson had proposed such a momument in congress.

The two senators, both Democrats from Washington State, suggested the monument include land on San Juan Island which was made famous when a British-owned pig became entangled in the disputed Canada-U.S. border and died at the hands of an angered American rifleman.

Although troops of both countries marched into the area, no further shooting developed.

"The joint occupation of San Juan Island by British and U.S. troops is certainly worth commemmorating," Provincial Archivist Wiliard Ireland said.

"The pig story is just an incident. What really matters is the fact that this confined area was occupied by two opposing armies for 12 years without any major armed clash.

"And the peaceful settlement of the quarrel set an example which has been followed in Canadian-American relations ever since."

Mr. Ireland suggested the monument should take the form of an international park on San Juan Island to include the English cemetery at the north end and the American cemetery at the south.

C. T. W. Hyslop, president of Victoria Historical Society, said it would be an excellent idea if the English cemetery, now part of a private property, could be purchased for use as a memorial.

"It could be made into international monument similar to the Peace Arch at White Rock," he said.

Eight or nine marines, who died from illness or accident during the 12-year occupation, are buried in this cemetery.

Mrs. James H. Hamilton, former B.C. assistant archivist, said she visited San Juan Island a few years ago, and suggested the English cemetery, on top of a hill, should be purchased as a memorial.

"The Washington State Historical Society has already erected several monuments in the American cemetery at the south end.

"I think we in B.C. should do something about the English cemetery," she said. "It would certainly attract tourists to the island, and the 1,500-odd San Juan Islanders would welcome it.

A spokesman for the B.C. parks branch said it had been suggested the provincial government should contribute to a memorial on the island, but the matter would have to be raised in the legislature.

In Washington Senator Magnuson said the amicable settlement of the controversy both by area residents and the 1871 Treaty of Washington, which established the boundary, "stands as a milestone in peaceful Canada-U.S. relations and should be commemorated."

PORTRAIT OF VICTORIA GIFT FOR CITY HALL

The City of Victoria is to be presented with a specially-commissioned portrait of the monarch for whom it was named.

Major H. C. Holmes commissioned the British artist Bernard Dunstan to make a copy of the famous portrait of Queen Victoria by Winterhalter.

The painting arrived here this week, and will be on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria from Tuesday until May 24.

It will then be presented to the city, and hung in the council chamber at City Hall.

. . . HERE AND THERE . . .

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Something new in the line of softball is in store this summer when Premier Bennett and his cabinet take on a team of scribes from the legislative press gallery.

After saying he wanted to encourage "genuine amateur sport," the premier readily accepted a challenge from the boys who regularly invade his sanctum with pads and pencils.

When asked if he minded the gallery recruiting extra players from their offices to make up a team, the premier replied:

"Not at all—we shall probably raid the civil service for ours."

This gives him a pretty wide choice since there are approximately 14,000 civil serants in B.C.!

Most people you meet say they would order their lives very differently if they had them over again.

Glorious exception is W. A. (Bill) McAdam, our former agent general in the United Kingdom. Genial Mr. Mac says he wouldn't change anything.

Born in Manchester, he came to B.C. in 1910 and spent 14 years here as bank clerk, commissioner of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and civil servant. Then he returned to England as assistant to the then agent general.

Now he is back in Victoria—for good!

DEWDNEY FLATS ON SOOKE ROAD WERE AWASH Wednesday as result of five days incessant rain. In three places flood waters crept across road, reminiscent of old days prior to drainage when road sometimes had to be closed because of flooding. Also getting feet wet Wednesday were cabins at Otter Point fishing camp, where waters from Kemp Stream covered land.—(Robin Clarke photo.)

Rain Over, Record Set For April

Clearing-Up Forecast After Five-Day Deluge

The deluge is over, and a new April rain record has been set.

Weatherman William Mackie said the series of storms which gave rain here for five continuous days is ended, and that sunny skies can be expected once more.

There will be some clearing tonight, then some cloud again Friday morning, but it will break up to give a "mostly sunny" day.

"The outlook for Saturday is good, too," he said.

Up to last Saturday, only .34 inches of rain had fallen here during April. From then on there was rain daily as follows for a total of 2.70 inches: Saturday, .14; Sunday, .03; Monday, .60; Tuesday, .76; Wednesday, 1.17.

SOME FLOODING

"Actually, 2.70 inches isn't much—only a good half-day's rain for a place like Tofino—but it was enough to push our total for the month to 3.04 inches," Mr. Mackie said. "The previous Victoria record was 3.01 inches, set in April, 1901."

It also was enough to cause flooding on Sooke Road at Dewdney Flats, west of Luxton, and to swell all the creeks along the West Coast Road to flood levels.

The flooding will delay work on the big Dewdney Flats market garden, and other truck gardeners will have to wait for their ground to dry before working it over.

GARDEN WOES

A good many amateur gardeners who had their seeds in early now have neat rows of green shoots, while latecomers who complained last Friday that the ground was "too dry" now bemoan the fact that the ground is "too wet."

Temperatures will range between 42 and 56 degrees tonight and Friday, Mr. Mackie said. Wind will diminish overnight, but will be up to southwesterly at 20 miles per hour by Friday afternoon.

Welfare Aid Fraud Brings Jail Sentence

A young man on crutches was sentenced in city police court today to six months in jail for defrauding the city of Victoria of $45 in welfare cheques.

Douglas M. Shipley, no fixed address, told Magistrate William Ostler he knew he would have to account for his actions "some day" and "still didn't know what to say." He acknowledge his record was bad and said he had been destitute most of the winter.

"The assistance you received was spent on alcohol instead of any attempt to rehabilitate yourself," the magistrate told Shipley.

He said the accused obviously suffered malnutrition and hadn't cared properly for his leg, which had been broken.

Shipley asked the magistrate to consider his leg by not sending him to jail.

"I think the very best thing you can do is go to jail and straighten yourself up," Magistrate Ostler told the man.

The charge was laid when it was discovered Shipley was already in receipt of other welfare funds.

UNDER-STREET 'CAVERN TRAP' FINALLY CATCHES SOMETHING

It finally happened . . .

One of the fleet of trucks being used in the excavation of Victoria's business district for placement of electrical wiring underground experienced the inevitable at View and Douglas at 12 noon today.

It tipped into one of the "caverns" of the beautification project.

Workmen immediately started the task of getting it out of the pitfall.

'Bobbie Hat' Vital For Local Color

The tall English-style policeman's helmet is as synonymous with Victoria's history as the Mountie's uniform, Sam Lane, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group, said today.

"It was worn here until about 11 years ago and it is neither ridiculous nor out of place," he declared.

Mr. Lane was replying to a statement by Lorne Shandley, president of Victoria City Policemen's Union, who said local policemen would "dress up and act like damn fools" in bobbies' helmets if members of the tourist trade group walked the streets in "three-cornered hats, knee-breeks and wigs."

Mr. Shandley made this statement when advised that the group may ask the police commission to put the men back in bobbies' helmets.

ONLY ON BEAT

Mr. Lane said there was no suggestion that motorcycle or police car patrolmen should wear the tall helmet.

"We are concerned only with the policeman on the beat. If necessary, we could compromise by having the tall helmet worn only in historical areas, such as the Legislative Buildings and the Inner Harbor."

He believed the tall helmet would help counter criticism that Victoria is losing its individuality and becoming "just another American city."

"I have had many letters to this effect from both Victorians and American tourists," Mr. Lane said. "And just recently there was an article in a Bellingham newspaper saying that our city is losing its distinctive character.

LOSE TOURISTS

"If we don't stop this trend, our American tourists will stay away. They don't come up here to see a replica of what they have at home."

Police Commissioner William J. Hamilton said he had no objection to the tall helmet "if it is a decent helmet, but we aren't going to push it down anyone's throat."

He said policemen might be willing to wear the helmet on the streets if they were given some additional honorarium.

"But no one has offered to pay them and we certainly cannot afford to."

Mr. Lane, who recently revisited his native England, said the tall helmet there is worn only by the policeman on the beat—not by motorcycle or car police.

"Another point," he said, "is that commissionaires and postmen are often mistaken for policemen in Victoria. The tall helmet would prevent this confusion."

ALL CITY BLOCK

Brothers Buy Grandpa's Handiwork

The third generation of a pioneer Victoria family today acquired four downtown buildings built with bricks made here nearly 75 years ago by the grandfather.

Humber Brothers Furniture Ltd. has purchased buildings at 1102, 1106, 1112 and 1118 Langley. Together with its present building at 531 Bastion, the company now owns all the property in the block between Fort and Langley, through to Bastion Street.

Maurice Humber, operator of the firm with brothers Bruce and Barley, says the properties were acquired to give the company badly needed display and warehouse space.

The building at 1102 and 1106 Langley was built with bricks made and stamped by his grandfather, Maurice Humber, the third generation Maurice Humber said.

The building housed the first steam electric plant serving Victoria. Later it was occupied by doctors, lawyers and an auctioneer. Sold to British interests some years ago it has been rented by Humber Brothers.

Amount of the sale was not disclosed.

B.C. Land and Investments Ltd. handled the deal.

RCN GUNNERS ORDER TOTEM FOR 'EXPORT'

B.C.'s famed totem carver Chief Mungo Martin has been commissioned to do another totem pole for "export."

Graduates of the Royal Navy Gunnery school at Whale Island, England, now serving with the Pacific Command, have arranged for Mungo to carve a pole for their "alma mater."

All RCN gunnery specialists were trained at HMS Excellent, Whale Island, and the pole is intended for the gunnery school there.

Work will start Friday at the Thunderbird Park carving shed. First cut will be made by Capt. E. T. Madgwick, Pacific Command chief of staff, who is the senior officer here among those who trained at HMS Excellent.

$700,000 Plan For 'Bachelor' Apartment Block

Proposed construction of a $700,000 apartment block in the James Bay area was disclosed by Mayor Percy Scurrah at a city finance committee meeting today.

He did not give the site.

The apartment would consist of about 100 bachelor suites, he said.

"It's an apartment designed for bachelors or young married couples," he said.

The mayor said the proposed project would require an amendment to the zoning by-law calling for off-street parking for each suite.

He suggested that apartments be required to provide parking space for 65 per cent of suites instead of 100 per cent.

The committee agreed, to recommend the mayor's proposal to council.

'EVERYONE' IN AREA SHOULD BACK IT

Arboretum Championed By 150-Member Society

The 150-member Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society has thrown its support behind a movement to establish a national arboretum in the Greater Victoria area.

A. V. Ahier, president, said the society has joined "en bloc" the Victoria Arboretum Society which is seeking to establish a large botanical garden to feature trees and shrubs from all parts of the world.

Everyone, regardless of whether he lives in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay or Colwood, should support this project," he said. An arboretum would not only enhance the prestige of this area but would attract nation-wide attention.

To prove his point, the 59-year-old gardener noted that in a recent issue of the New York Times Victoria was described as a North American "plant mecca."

The article described Victoria gardens as "outstanding and some unequalled on this continent."

The gardens of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edgell and Mr. Ahier were singled out as examples where some of the world's most unusual shrubs and plants can be found growing.

2,000 SPECIES

Mr. Ahier has more than 2,000 species and varieties of plants growing in his 100x420-foot garden.

"I don't believe Victorians realize yet how many people come to Victoria just to see our gardens and plants," said Mr. Ahier. "I know several Americans who plan to retire here because of our gardens."

A national arboretum would assure Victoria's position for all time as the plant mecca of this continent," he added.

On Etiquette

BUTTER DISH:

Among our silver anniversary presents is a lovely Sheffield silver butter dish in the form of a clam shell. I love it, but I have been brought up to think that butter should be served in pats on individual butter plates. Will you kindly striaghten me out on this?

Louise Davis Answers:

Your dish can be used for other things, such as jelly, nuts, candy. For an informal dinner, a hostess might wish to have an extra supply of butter on the table for those who would like second servings. In this case, the dish could contain butter made into pats, balls or molds.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Put Your Shoes on, Lucy— It's Dangerous Without 'Em

We always think of home as a safe place to be, but actually it is one of the most dangerous spots. Also, judging by reports, there must be more barefooted gals in homes than in the mountains.

Doctor Herman Sonderling, dean of the Maurice J. Hewi College of Podiatry in New York City, warns against both bare feet and the habit of padding about the house in soft slippers or old "beat up" shoes.

First, the barefooted or poorly shod woman is more accident prone than the one who is well heeled. As Doctor Sonderling points out, she exposes herself to accidents from climbing on kitchen ladders, stools and chairs. Her bare feet are exposed to splinters, bruised arches; her stance is unsteady when reaching and there is always the chance that she may drop a can on her foot.

Also there is danger of slipping on waxed or wet floors. A busy housewife has hundreds of opportunities to stub her toes, chip or split her nails, causing deformities or thickening of the nails. The chances of infection are legion. Tacks, nails, splinters, sharp-edged toys or tools, can start an infection.

Of course from the esthetic standpoint the woman in the home is much more attractive in shoes. I myself never have seen but two pairs of pretty feet in my life.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Take Care of Your Feet" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

You Have a Long Life Ahead!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl 19 years old and I have a very good paying job. I manage to save a little something out of my pay cheque every payday. I go steady with a guy who is 20. He hasn't had a steady job in a year. I love him very much and want some day to be his wife. But I am sick of paying both ways everywhere we go. He says "money isn't everything" but, Abby, it is making me lose my respect for him. Have you any advice? J.M.

DEAR J.M.: Your boy friend should not permit you to pay both ways, and if you continue to do so, you are making a sad mistake. Girls who let men lean on them encourage weakness and dependence. Don't give this fellow your hand unless you want his outstretched (palm up) for the rest of your life.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I understand how "OVERCOME" feels because I have the same problem with my husband. He not only refuses to take a bath, but won't shampoo his hair or cut his fingernails or toenails unless I start a real battle royal. His argument is he has to build up an immunity to germs. (What germs would live on him?) Is this a sensible argument or am I crazy?

ALSO OVERCOME

DEAR ALSO: Cleanliness (in addition to being next to Godliness) is essential to good health. His argument doesn't hold water—but he should try some.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have an idea for OVERCOME whose hubby wouldn't bathe. Take him fishing and dump him overboard (accidentally, of course). That's the way I solved my problem. I only had to do this once. SYMPATHETIC

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Before I got married I went with a girl and you might say we were practically engaged although I never gave her a ring. She gave me a gold wrist watch, which I wore all the time. Nothing was said about this watch until two years after I got married to another girl. My wife and I were driving along (we were on a trip) when all of a sudden she said to me, "I won't believe that you love me unless you take off that watch and throw it in the lake." So I took off the watch and threw it in the lake. Was my wife right or wrong in asking me to do this?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: She shouldn't have asked you to throw it in the lake. (You're lucky she let you take it off first.)

Diseases of Aged VON Problem

MONTREAL (CP) — A longer-lived population creates problems for the Victorian Order of Nurses, Christine Livingstone, the order's director in chief, said Tuesday.

"The problems associated with illness in an aging population are still with us, and this trend is bound to continue," she said in her report to the annual meeting.

"More people are living into the middle and later years of life" Miss Livingstone said.

"Heart ailment, strokes, fractures, cancer, arthritis and rheumatism have increased strikingly." These were ailments primarily striking the elderly.

"The miracles of modern science have given longer life and better health to countless Canadians. At the same time they have created new problems."

"To the Victorian Order this means . . . that the major portion of our service is given to patients who have chronic illness."

Canada's maternal mortality rate is still too high, she said.

"In 1956 an average of 21 mothers died every month during child birth. Too many babies, too have been dying at birth or in their first year of life. Many of these deaths might have been prevented with prenatal and post-natal education."

WOMEN RAPIDLY GATHERING MUCH OF NATION'S WEALTH

MONTREAL (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, said recently women are gaining control of a large share of the country's wealth.

Mr. Gordon told a meeting of managers of the Bank of Nova Scotia that "one of these days women are going to wake up to the fact that they own a large proportion of the nation's wealth."

". . . Men, in making their wills and leaving their estates, almost invariably provide for their women-folk as their chief concern. Moreover, women live longer than men. . . . It seems likely that actual ownership and control of large enterprises have passed or are passing to women.

"I think women should be educated about their economic power so that they will take their responsibilities seriously."

FOR BUILDING FUND

DeMolay, Job's Daughters Plan Joint Bazaar Saturday

A bazaar will be held on Saturday in K of P Hall, Cormorant Street, under auspices of Victoria chapters of the Order of DeMolay and the International Order of Job's Daughters.

At the bazaar there will be stalls of home cooking, sewing, woodwork, plants, white elephants, and other articles.

Tea will be served from 12 noon to 5 p.m. by the mothers' circles of these boys and girls' groups. In the evening bingo will be played for attractive prizes. A $50 grocery hamper and a transitor radio will be raffled.

Order of DeMolay and International Order of Job's Daughters are youth groups for teenagers. Chapters of these organizations have existed in the Greater Victoria area for over five years. They are a part of a province-wide group comprising 25 chapters of each order. Aims and objectives are to teach citizenship and leadership to young men and women.

"IT WAS A GREAT BLESSING," writes a lady from St. Boniface, Manitoba, "when a friend recommended TEMPLETON'S TRC's for my rheumatic and arthritic pain. I had been in great misery for some time — but have now found quick and satisfactory relief." This is the theme running through scores of heartfelt tributes to TRC's. Some of the most touching letters come from older men and women who had reconciled themselves to recurring rheumatic and arthritic pain — but who now know renewed joy in living. TRC's have been proven helpful for rheumatic, arthritic and sciatic pains. So remember them!

Newlyweds Honeymoon in States

On a wedding trip in Washington State and Oregon are newlyweds of Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Ernest Marchand who were married in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Dr. J. L. W. McLean conducted the service for the former Miss Margaret Joan Oldnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Oldnall of Hereward Road, and her groom from Port Colborne, Ont.

Miss Barbara Oldnall sang "Wedding Prayer." Organist was C. C. Warren.

Entering the church, the dark-haired bride was charming wearing a gown of Chantilly lace. Jacket was buttoned from neckline to waist and had lily point sleeves. Full skirt was in waltz length. Her finger-tip length veil misted from a sequin and pearl tiara and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Only bridesmaid, Miss Marrion Oldnall, wore a flocked organza gown in orchid shade. It had a matching satin sash. Her bandeau was of white feathers and she carried a small colonial bouquet of feathered carnations, narcissi and roses.

Charles McFarlane was best man and ushers were Don Buie and Rene Reinhardt.

Bride's parents, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Oldnall, who acted for the groom's deceased parents, received guests at the reception held in Flamingo Room, Crystal Garden.

An ornament from the bride's grandparent's golden wedding anniversary cake topped the wedding cake which centred the bridal table. It was surrounded by pink tulle and flanked by white candles.

W. P. Trace, uncle of the bride, proposed the wedding toast.

For the wedding trip, the new Mrs. Marchand donned a Cardinal red two-piece suit with navy and white accessories.

Say Wives 'Cramp Style'

TORONTO (CP) — Women may be barred from celebrating Toronto's 125th anniversary at a $6-a-plate dinner this fall because they might "cramp the style of their service club husbands."

The mammoth dinner, to be attended by 1,500 members of 95 service clubs throughout the city was proposed by Controller Donald Summerville as one of the functions to celebrate the city's birthday.

Recently heads of the service clubs planning the banquet put it on record they don't want their wives to go along with them.

"We are not accustomed to having our wives attend at service club functions," Gordon Foster, president of the Downtown Optimists Club, said.

But J. Philip, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Club, said:

"If you don't ask the ladies you won't get enough people to attend."

Quiet Wedding Unites Couple

Recently married in Centennial United Church by Rev. Douglas Carr were Miss Barbara Joan Shick and Mr. Kirrie Fraser Grant Lalonde.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Shick and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil T. Lalonde, all of Victoria. Only immediate relatives attended the quiet wedding.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Cummins of Seattle, uncle and aunt of the groom.

Standard baskets of white stocks, pink carnations, and pink tulips decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony.

The charming, dark-haired bride chose a model suit in parchment gold with harmonizing accessories and a mauve Cattleya orchid. Her attendant, Miss Edith Perrin, wore a costume suit in orchid pink with matching accessories and corsage of gold roses.

Mr. Robert McMath was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. James Cormack and Mr. Robert Starkey.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cormack, the bride's brother-in-law and sister.

CLC Threatens To Suspend SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — The turbulent Seafarers' International Union has been threatened with suspension from the Canadian Labor Congress unless it meets a 60-day deadline on halting membership raids on another CLC union, it was learned today.

An informant said the ultimatum might be delivered to the union today following a decision to this effect reached by the CLC's executive council at a closed meeting here Wednesday. The 22-man council has suspension powers.

While congress officers maintained official secrecy on the move, it was learned the council was to inform the SIU that:

1. It has been ordered to return to the National Association of Marine Engineers, another CLC affiliate, between 700 and 800 members it has raided from that organization.

2. Unless this demand is complied with in 60 days after receiving the notice, the 10,000-member Seafarers will be dropped from the 1,000,000-member congress.

A council suspension would be subject to review at the next biennial convention of the congress.

The executive council is the governing body of the CLC between conventions. It has been warning the SIU against raids on the engineers, and last fall issued a formal "cease and desist" order to the union, which has paid no attention.

LUIS MOYA
... hired killer

Third Death Sentence In Slaying

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—A jury decreed Wednesday night that Luis Moya, the last member of a trio convicted of killing Canadian-born Olga Duncan, must die in the gas chamber for his part in the hired slaying.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated nearly seven hours.

Neither Moya nor members of his family showed any emotion at the verdict.

Moya and Augustine Baldonado were hired for the slaying by the nurse's jealous mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan.

Baldonado and Mrs. Duncan are awaiting automatic review of their death sentences.

Nut Machine Franchises 'Sold' Twice, Trial Told

Vancouver nut-vending machine salesman Reginald Simpson Everett "granted" customers territory rights which he had already given to other persons, the Crown charged in Assize Court.

Assistant Crown counsel Louis Lindholm was summing up the prosecution's case against Everett, accused of fraud totalling $8,000 involving nut machines.

Mr. Lindholm said Everett also tried to "saturate" the Victoria area with 100 machines when his own testimony indicated he knew 50 machines "was the most the traffic would take" and offered "contracts he knew were impossible of performance."

"Is this the conduct of an honest salesman?" the assistant prosecutor asked. "I suggest rather it is the chicanery of a crook."

EVIDENCE ON TAPE

Mr. Lindholm added that the accused also told his victims the machines were worth $106 each, "when the catalogue price per unit is $18."

Most of the evidence gathered by the Crown against Everett stemmed from three tape recordings made by Saanich detectives hiding in an alleged victim's home, the first time in B.C. that tape evidence has been admitted into court record.

The prosecution said Everett "told many falsehoods, and obviously intended to deceive" the persons who replied to his newspaper advertisements for nut machine "managers."

Evidence showed Everett was the agent for a Winnipeg company that, Mr. Lindholm alleged, intended to "pull out of B.C. as soon as they had made enough money by this get-rich-quick scheme."

Mr. Lindholm read from alleged company instructions to Everett, containing the statement, "This is a tricky contract and we can wind up paying out more than we've taken in."

'MAKE SOME MONEY'

The alleged instructions, detailing how Everett should proceed to sell nut machines and "grant" exclusive territory rights to persons replying to the advertisement, ended with the statement by "The Management":

"I know you've always had a suspicion that I was a real dirty b——. Now that I've confirmed it maybe we can both make some money."

Mr. Lindholm's summing up before Supreme Court Justice Thomas Brown ended the Crown's case. Defence counsel Robert Harvey was to argue the case today.

'LITTLE RICHARD' FREED FROM TRAP SET BY COON

OWASSO, Okla. (AP)—Little Richard, the spirited hound dog freed Wednesday from a rocky tomb six days after being lured there by a smart 'coon, today is under the care of Dr. John Collins, a veterinarian in nearby Tulsa. Collins said he expects the dog can be released "in a few days, at most."

Dynamite charges and jack-hammers were used to widen the crevice inch by inch. An air hammer removed the last boulder and Little Richard crawled feebly into his master's arms, whining affectionately.

Warning—Dry Woods Ahead

New Signs Warn Motorists Of Day-to-Day Fire Hazard

Throughout British Columbia this summer, motorists will be reminded of the dangers of forest fires by new, brightly colored forest fire hazard rating signs currently being erected at some 60 ranger stations in the province.

The indicator on the sign will be adjusted as required by the ranger staffs as a method of impressing passing motorists with the existing hazard in the woods and the need for care with fire.

The 1959 fire season officially opens Friday, after which permits are required for any fires within one-half mile of a wooded area. Last year there were 4,120 forest fires in B.C., costing the forest service $7,600,000 to control. More than 2,000,000 acres were burned over. Human carelessness accounted for 2,400 fires last year.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dale Wagner, aged 17, of Monroe, Iowa, for his question:

Why Does the Mississippi Have a Delta?

The great Mississippi River begins as a little stream flowing from Lake Itasca in northwestern Minnesota. It is a clear, rippling river, growing bigger with each stream that joins it until it joins with the mighty Missouri. The Missouri is a torrent of red muddy water, full of silt it has gathered as it carved its way through soft soil and farmlands. A little later, the swishing Ohio empties in a muddy torrent often greater than the combined Mississippi-Missouri river.

Altogether some 250 tributaries and their branches add their streams to the Mississippi. Most of them pour in a heavy quota of mud and silt. As the great river nears the sea, it is estimated that its dark waters carry more than a million tons of soil every day. This amounts to about 400 million tons of dirt in a year.

Triangle Shape Gives Name

So, when at last it reaches the sea, the great Mississippi is forced to give up the silt and soil it has stolen away from the land. In one year it dumps enough silt to cover the state of Rhode Island with three inches of good topsoil.

The mud dumping area forms a rough triangle, some 12,000 square miles in area. We call it a delta because the Greek letter Delta was also shaped like a triangle. The Nile, the Amazon, the Colorado and most of the world's great rivers form deltas of this sort and for the same reason.

Having dumped its piles of mud, the river now has another problem. It has to find a way through the mud to the sea. Usually it divides into a number of smaller channels. The Mississippi divides into four main channels and countless small streams in order to flow through its delta to the sea.

It is sad to think of all the silt and soil stripped from the land by a great river system. But actually the rich soil is merely transplanted. A delta grows, forming rich new land. Ages ago, the mouth of the Mississippi was near Cairo, Illinois, now 600 miles from the gulf. All that rich plain was built by delta mud.

Where is the home of the agouti?

Agoutis are the bunnies of South America. However, they have no long floppy ears and no tails at all. They stand high on spindly legs and are fast runners. Some of them wear rows of light spots along their sleek, furry sides.

The largest agoutis, some 30 inches long, range from Mexico to Paraguay. The smaller varieties, measuring no more than 20 inches, roam the tropics of Central and South America and the West Indies.

All agoutis are shy, burrowing animals. They come out only at night, their diet is vegetation, and all of them are very, very fond of fruit.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The slim, neat, sensitive, middle-aged Englishman who has been called the world's greatest actor sat eating his chop in a 12th Street restaurant with a broad-shouldered, open-shirted American director half his age who puzzles actors at rehearsals by shadowing them.

Sir John Gielgud was sagely silent when director John Frankenheimer half laughingly said, "I find it good to get right on top of the actor."

"Actors usually say it's a relief when the camera is on them instead of me."

Gielgud had come from London to do "The Browning Version" and be bossed by this 29-year-old husky who likes to stick his face up in actors' faces at rehearsals to see if they're emoting properly. And though he had won a reputation as a director himself, Sir John had divined that the young brute had a point—and they were seeing eye to eye.

"One thing John won't tell you about is the responsibility of being called the greatest actor in the world," the other John said.

Sir John removed a Greek cigaret from a slim case.

"One expects to have an easier time as one gets older." His voice was a little weary. "But when you get older you're always having to top your average.

"I'm so surprised," he continued, "that American people ask you how you get to have a reputation as an actor.

"In the first place" — he spoke quietly and politely — "I don't know myself, and if I did know I would want to keep it as a trade secret. I do know this—I don't like acting as much as I used to."

This from the W.G.A. was news! "I prefer directing," he said.

"But why?

"You don't have to do it every night for one thing."

Still, he saw little chance of giving up acting to direct. "Directing is my hobby—that is why I like it more," he decided.

Sir John made his British TV debut a few weeks ago and they are still talking about it. When he did "The Browning Version" on CBS Du Pont "Show of the Month" opposite Margaret Leighton, he was as trembly as an amateur—it was his second performance on American live TV.

"You can destroy your reputation so quickly," he said, "and they only see it one night.

"You're keyed up—you can't tell how it's going . . . you just know it's gone forever and you can't do it again. . . ."

SUNDAY CLOSURE URGED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Lord's Day Alliance has asked British Columbia's pulp and paper industry to close its multi-million-dollar operation Sundays so workers can attend church.

Rev. H. T. Allen, alliance secretary, said the request has been sent to officials of every pulp and paper company and the unions in the industry.

Mr. Allen said the alliance made its request because over the years many workers and people connected with the pulp and paper industry had asked it to do so.

Tots-to-Teens Prove It's Easy

By AUDREY JOHNSON

How and when to be nonchalant was demonstrated charmingly Wednesday night at Central Junior High School when tiny choristers took the stage in a Victoria Musical Festival competition.

Ranging in age from tots of two or three to boys and girls in the early teens, four children's choirs sang happily and unselfconsciously, delighting both audience and adjudicators.

All the conductors were congratulated on the excellent work and fine patience they had shown in training these young singers.

For sheer beauty of performance, First United Church Junior Choir gained the top marking of 179. The Wee Folks Glee Club came second with 173. St. Paul's Anglican Church Junior Choir—which boasted the youngest and most uninhibited members—and St. Aidan's Junior Choir were the other two competitors.

IMPRESSIVE PIANIST

On the same program, Judith Andrews scored a total of 254 marks for her performance of a concert group which included a Liszt Etude, Chopin and Gershwin Preludes and Bartok's Rumanian Folk Dances.

The young pianist has impressed adjudicator Nellie Tholen with her musical sensitivity and control and had earlier gained 88 marks in the concerto class and award of the Henry Birks & Sons watch.

Most promising material for senior piano classes of future festivals was revealed in the honor performances of three junior pianists, Jacqueline Court, Charlotte Hick and Kathryn Curran.

Violin soloist for the evening was Jacqueline's older sister, Barbara-Anne Court, who had averaged 84 marks in three violin classes earlier in the week.

Marjorie Sturgeon, the evening's guest artist and 1955 rose bowl winner, won an ovation for her performance of a group of songs. She has a lovely mezzo-soprano voice and sings with warmth and expressively.

Award of the book prize presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Ingram Smith for highest marks in operatic classes, was made during the afternoon to Terry French.

Miss French sang a Mozart aria and took top place with 86 marks in a class of six entrants. Runners-up were Sonia Tesluk and Agirdas Kynas, each of whom scored 84, the latter, a fine basso, being only entrant in the male section.

Miss Tesluk took first place in the class for female oratorio solo. Her mark was 85 and she was closely followed by Shirley Main with an 84 and Terry French with 82. Miss Main, in her turn, was winner in the Bach sacred solo class, with 83 marks, one higher than Miss French, who came second.

PROF. TONY EMERY

Jazz Society To Hear Poem By Ginsberg

The "Beat Generation's" most celebrated poem will highlight a poetry to jazz reading by Victoria College Professor Tony Emery at Jazz a la Carte, Friday at Club Tango.

Victoria Jazz Society presents Prof. Emery with the backing of the Bill Heybroek quartet as one portion of a two-part cabaret program starting at 9 p.m.

Exerpts of Alan Ginsberg's famous poem, "Howl," which states the theme of the so-called Beat Generation, will be read by Prof. Emery, as well as works by E. E. Cummings, the American poet of earlier fame.

'REMARKABLE'

Prof. Emery said "Howl" has been referred to as the most remarkable poem written by a young man since the Second World War.

The readings will be the first of their kind offered to a public audience in Victoria.

Also on the program will be jazz vocalist Pat LaCroix and a trio led by Don Partridge at the piano.

'Didn't Mean to Kill Him'

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — A 19-year-old girl testified Wednesday in Assize Court here that her boy friend told her a companion had killed a storekeeper during a 1956 robbery.

Joan Hartshorne of Toronto, formerly of Burnaby, was testifying in the trial of Arnold Nofield, 20, charged with the beating murder of Chinese storekeeper Low Gum Chew, 60, Nov. 30, 1956.

Miss Hartshorne testified Nofield told her, "It was a lousy thing to do for a few measly dollars."

Jocelyn Asselstine, 19, a school friend of Miss Hartshorne, testified Nofield had said: "'We didn't mean to kill him, but I guess we hit him too hard'."

COURT HOUSE COMBED

VERNON — RCMP combed the court house here Wednesday to ward off any attempt to plant bombs in washrooms and offices during the bomb conspiracy trial of Sam Konkin, 28. Similar precautions will be taken throughout his trial.

Konkin faces five charges arising from a rash of bombings and attempted bombings in the Okanagan Valley last June. Last fall a jury failed to reach an agreement in his case.

RAINS ABATING

VANCOUVER—Heavy rains which brought the threat of serious floods to the Fraser Valley and Lower Mainland were expected to give way to periodic showers today.

The lessening rain is expected to ease flood threats in all areas.

Already the rains have caused highway slides, cut service on both transcontinental railway tracks, washed out two bridges and forced evacuation of several Fraser Valley homes.

Ditches and culverts in the Vancouver area overflowed causing minor flooding and knocking out telephone service in parts of the city.

WARDEN RETIRES

NEW WESTMINSTER — Deputy warden Gordon Foulkes, 65, retired Wednesday after 27 years of service at the British Columbia Penitentiary here. He joined the penitentiary staff in 1932 as a guard. He was promoted to physical training instructor in 1935. In 1947 he became keeper at the penitentiary, was made principal keeper in 1953 and chief keeper two years later. He was appointed deputy warden three years ago.

Travelling Gavel Ceremony Planned At Legion Meet

CHEMAINUS — Legion members were advised at their monthly branch meeting that a travelling gavel ceremony will be held at Salt Spring Island May 9.

Those wishing transportation to the Crofton ferry are asked to leave their names at the Legion. Special ferries will leave Crofton at 7 and 8 p.m. The return trip will leave Salt Spring at 1 a.m. The branch of the Legion will host patients from the DVA Hospital in Victoria this summer.

William Rice and James Reid were chosen as delegates to the provincial convention at Prince George.

(BB) "TEMPEST" (Royal)—Even the magnificent color photography and spine-tingling mob scenes can't fill the empty heart of "Tempest," a two-hour Paramount adaptation of a novel by Alexander Pushkin.

In spite of its cast of competent actors, numbering Silvana Mangano, Van Heflin, Viveca Lindfors, Oscar Homolka, Agnes Moorehead, Helmut Dantine and Vittorio Gassman, there persists almost throughout the entire play, the feeling that it is all nothing more than make-believe — sure death for any drama.

As the plot unfolds to tell how Russia's Czarina Catherine II (Lindfors) moves to put down strife and uprisings in the hinterland of her empire the overall effect is sound enough but there are the little things that keep one from becoming lost in it. There are the mixture of voices, foreign, pidgin English, others that might have come from Dartmouth or the Bronx. And if his name wasn't on the credits one would never know competent actor Heflin who is completely hidden by a beard that would have done credit to a sideshow Rasputin.

★ ★ ★

HORNE, SON OF A GENERAL, displeases Catherine and she shoots him off to a foreign outpost as a disciplinary measure. There he meets Miss Mangano and their love is much warmer than the weather outside. In fact, after many escapades they manage to wed, but hardly on "and they lived happily ever after" basis.

Heflin, a pretender to the throne, and his hordes, eventually attack the outpost and hang all those who won't swear allegiance to him and his cause. By a quirk of fate he saves Horne's life and thereafter the plot becomes saturated in contrived intrigue and unlikely situations.

In summary, the film has its moments, especially in the color photography of the Italian and Yugoslavian landscapes on which the picture was made, also in its mob scenes, such as the storming of the fortress.

But, in the end, "The Tempest" was of the kind that might easily have been contained in the proverbial teapot.

The producers of Bells of St. Trinians and Wee Geordie have now come up with another British howler. Barry Sullivan Stars in "Dark December" at 9.30 on 7 and 12

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

FUN IN THE WILDERNESS—I would imagine that viewers will be sharply divided in their opinions on Hallmark Hall of Fame's 90-minute adaptation of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness." They found it either false and tedious or thoroughly charming.

I must confess that I am in the latter category, enjoying it immensely even while I couldn't quite believe it. But such were the capabilities of the stars, even down to the minor roles, that I didn't mind being hoodwinked and any sophistication that I might possess being submerged by their art.

As the father and mother of an assorted and wondrous tribe, Helen Hayes, and Lloyd Nolan were excellent. But young Lee Kinsolving as the adolescent son and Burgess Meredith as Sid Davis fairly stole the show, providing both its gentle humor and its reason for being. A special bow also to Abigail Kellogg as the wistful Muriel.

But the compelling warmth of the vehicle can be laid to the excellent direction of Bob Mulligan who kept things moving at a fancy clip so that the play's major weakness—simplicity to the point of fatuity—was nicely submerged. His task was made easier by Robert Hartung's expert adaptation.

Individual scenes that rang with the true ring of good theatre were woven through the whole by what might be termed "little things." There was the understanding of Sid for everything that was warm and good in spite of his own weakness for liquor; the love of Betty Field's Lily for Sid in spite of the fact she could never marry him; Kinsolving's scene with Dolores Sutton's Belle and, above all, Nolan's bumbling attempts to explain the facts of life to his son.

No, in my opinion, "Ah, Wilderness," was most worthwhile and Hallmark and all those concerned should be congratulated.

THE MONTGOMERY INTERVIEW—For one horrible moment that comes to blokes like me every now and then I thought I had missed listing the interview of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery by Edward R. Murrow, Tuesday night. The channels hadn't listed it but I did remember hearing a couple of blurbs that CBS-TV was carrying it.

However a telephone call to the Seattle stations Wednesday morning revealed that they had not picked it up for local consumption. (Why, they didn't say). But KVOS-TV's Channel 12 expects to carry it Sunday, May 10, from 6 to 7 p.m.

★ ★ ★

ARTHUR GODFREY'S program from his beautiful ranch appealed to me, Tuesday night. It so happens that the man touches me, for what reason I don't exactly know. Maybe it is for his easy-to-take commercials that, unlike most, don't jar my nerves or make me wish I had any other job but this.

May he return quickly and in restored health.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Your intuitive faculties are most insistent right now so give them greater expression than ordinarily. You will be on the right track and able to set up fine plans far into the future. P.M. lend a helping hand where most needed.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—A day for real expansion with true friends and earnest admirers. Be out and about with them and accept the backing they are willing and happy to give you. There is no need to be unhappy or without real abundance. Be human and kind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—The ideal day to approach powerful bigwig for the support you should have and need, whether of a personal or business nature. Heed his or her advice where money is concerned. Have a happy p.m. with romantic attachment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Step out of dull-doldrum existence you have dwelt in for so long and go after those outlets and pleasures which are more suited to your own particular personality. Life is what you make it. There is far greater truth than fiction in this.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—All your creative ideas must now be brought down to a workable level in order that you may commercialize on them quickly. Also, see to it that all your bills are paid first, security, insurance and government matters all in order.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Conversing at length with associates clarifies any existing misunderstandings and solves problems easily, sensibly. Do not procrastinate in getting into all fundamental matters, though you may have to work late into the night.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Fine time to employ that fine sense of neatness and artistry to all you do today, whether in business or home spheres. P.M. support those who are loyal to you. Be kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—There is promise of a very delightful day for you now. Get an early start and see those persons who can help you career-wise. Later, dress appropriately and go out to the special sports or amusements that please you most. Be cheerful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—A day for being most practical, whether in business or home affairs. Get all important matters in order efficiently. P.M. be sure you give your home the cleaning or other touches it needs. Retire early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Get out of the house early today and attend to all business or personal calls of importance, get shopping done, bring in the groceries, etc. P.M. is excellent for a tete-a-tete with wise comrade regarding pressing problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Impress others now with your financial and business acumen. Make some new investment show an immediate profit. P.M. assist those who look to you for help. Set up a more practical budget, however, for your own personal satisfaction.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Excellent day to step out and find a far more lucrative outlet that will be of long duration. Later you can get together with new acquaintances of good character and let them see that you want to add them to your list of friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

The intelligent child born Friday is the type who will not only comprehend matters of very large scope and promise, but will have the ability to whittle them down to practical and workable size. And this fine child will not be satisfied until he or she has a fine education in spiritual, ethical as well as practical matters of life. Excellent chart for real success in large concerns, enterprises.

Rare Volcanic Shale Find To Be Developed at Alberni

PORT ALBERNI — A rare volcanic shale called pozzolan, which gives cement and concrete lasting qualities, has been uncovered in the vicinity of Rogers Creek, and will be developed by a British Columbia company.

As an additive, pozzolan increases the workability of cement and concrete, makes them more watertight, prevents leaching of lime with its subsequent weakening and discoloration, resists attack by sewage and seawater and reduces heat generated by setting concrete.

In the last 15 years 90 per cent of the major hydroelectric and reclamation projects in the United States have used pozzolan. Very little has been used in British Columbia because of its high cost.

It has been known for centuries. Egyptians and Romans used it and it is credited with having given their roads, bridges and buildings the lasting qualities for which they are famous.

BEST GRADE

The local deposit, discovered when a water supply was being sought for an Alberni cemetery, is in seams of from 35 to 100 feet thick, and is estimated at 100,000,000 tons.

It has been tested in Vancouver and at the University of Washington, and is found to be equal and even superior to pozzolan found at El Paso, Texas, considered the best grade available in the United States.

Holdfast Natural Resources Ltd. has been set up to develop the deposit, build a plant at the site, and manufacture and market the product. The manufacturing process involves open-pit quarrying, crushing, and heating in a kiln.

IMPROVES ALL JOBS

Engineers say pozzolan is "absolutely necessary" in about 10 per cent of jobs, useful in 90 per cent, and desirable in about 75 per cent.

It should be used in all concrete to be near soil and water, all exposed block or concrete pipe, in certain exterior facings, and in all sections of concrete two or more feet thick, according to engineers.

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times THURS., APRIL 30, 1959 31

BUILDING START SOON

Two New Schools Set for Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—Construction will be started as soon as possible on two new two-room elementary schools in School District 67 (Ladysmith).

One will be on Davis Road, south of Ladysmith, and the other south of Chemainus. Sites for the two schools have already been purchased by the school board.

This decision was made by the school board after a report was received on a survey of pupil distribution through the district. The report was prepared by a committee of three district principals.

In deciding to build two new schools, the board acted in accordance with a policy set out by the department of education which favors construction of new schools rather than increasing transportation.

Ratepayers of the district authorized the construction of the two new schools in a referendum bylaw passed last year. It is understood that both will be designed in such a way that they can be enlarged at a later date if enrolments warrant.

Cecil Nicholl, OBE Winner, Dies Here

Funeral service for Cecil Nicholl, OBE, 1993 Hatley Road, who died in Vancouver Wednesday will be held from Chaplin's funeral home at 1.30 p.m. Saturday with burial at Royal Oak.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Mr. Nicholl served with the Fort Garry Horse and the Royal Flying Corps during the First World War and won the OBE in the Second World War while with the RAF Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

He came to Victoria in 1944 and commuted from here to his chartered accountancy business in Vancouver.

He was a founder of the Manitoba Flying Club and served as president of the Winnipeg Flying Club for several terms.

He is survived by the widow at home; four daughters, Mrs. William Christensen, Whittier, Calif.; Mrs. William Abbott, 3200 Richmond; Mrs. James Booth, Christie Way, and Cynthia Nicholl, at home; a son, Gerald, in Calgary; one brother and two sisters.

Fir Seedlings Being Replanted 5,000 Per Hour

DUNCAN—Culled fir seedlings from B.C. Forest Service nurseries at Campbell River, New Westminster and Cranbrook are being replanted here in order to meet demand for trees for reforestation in 1960.

The 28-acre nursery here ordinarily is used for the growing of trees from seed.

Under normal conditions the weak, small trees would have been destroyed. They are being planted at the rate of up to 5,000 per hour.

Beer-Swizzling Minor Fined $20

DUNCAN — Louie Wilson, 18, charged with being a minor in a beer parlor, was fined $20 and costs in police court here Wednesday.

Police told the court Wilson would dash into a local beer parlor and drink down glasses of beer from any table within reach. They said he had been ejected from the Tzouhalem Hotel several times before they were called.

SOUTH-WEST ISLAND PLANS FLOP

Fair 'Merger' Abandoned

LUXTON — Directors of the annual Luxton Fair have abandoned plans for formation of a Southwest Vancouver Island Agricultural Society to stage a two-day Class C fair this year.

The society was formed in the hope that Sooke, Colwood, Langford, and Metchosin would join forces to hold an expanded two-day fair here. It was dissolved by unanimous vote when Stan Hiscock, chairman, announced there were not sufficient members present to make the new society practical.

Luxton fair directors and their duties are as follows: R. Proudfoot, fair manager; T. Money and John Williams, construction; William McDowell, refreshments; W. Robertson, advertising; Mrs. W. Christy, entry secretary; Mrs. A. Lacroix, and F. Staverman, exhibits; Mrs. P. Colclough, secretary; Douglas Price, public relations.

Sponsor of the fair is Metchosin Farmers' Institute.

$4.7 MILLION PLAN FOR NANAIMO

New Hospital Vote Underway

NANAIMO — Ratepayers here are voting today on a money bylaw for the proposed $4,700,000 Nanaimo Regional General Hospital.

Voting in the city of Nanaimo is at the Plaza Hotel. Numerous polls are open in the hospital improvement district, which includes the area between Cassidy and Little Qualicum, with the exception of the city.

Polls opened at 8 a.m., and will close at 8 p.m.

The city of Nanaimo will provide 14.75 per cent of the total cost, and federal and provincial grants will provide 53.75 per cent.

The balance of 31.5 per cent will come from the district, which includes such communities as Cassidy, South Wellington, Cedar, Harmac, Chase River, Extension, Harewood, Departure Bay, Northfield, Wellington, Lantzville, Nanoose, Parksville, Errington, Coombs, Hilliers, Qualicum Beach, and Gabriola Island.

Plan is for a 200-bed hospital, to be built north of the city.

A 60-per-cent majority is required in the city for adoption of the bylaw, and a 66⅔-per-cent majority in the improvement district.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1959

$1,000,000 Month Local Target

Real Estate Sales Head for Record

Profession 'Polices' Agents, Salesmen

A new record in real estate sales may be established in 1959, according to Col. B. Russell Ker, president of the Real Estate Board of Victoria.

There are a lot of new subdivisions springing up and both lots and houses are selling readily, he said.

Last month, the Multiple Listings Bureau of the board accumulated $975,000 worth of real estate deals and is now aiming at $1,000,000 in one month.

And Col. Ker confidently expects that mark to be reached this spring.

"March was the biggest month we have ever had," he said. He had no idea how much business had been done by real estate firms outside the multiple listings bureau, but he estimated it would reach several million dollars in March.

As president of the Real Estate Board in Victoria, Col. Ker is responsible for both assisting and policing some 53 agents and 407 real estate salesmen in Victoria.

Unscrupulous real estate operators find the pickings lean in Victoria, thanks to the policing action of this association of realtors.

BROAD AIMS

Broadly speaking, the board aims at eliminating the unscrupulous, checking the incompetent and removing the part-time exploiter.

But it makes no attempt to remove competition — just unscrupulous competition.

Usually, the biggest purchase ever made in the average person's lifetime is a piece of land with a house on it.

That is why it is important to have the best advice when the decision to buy has been made.

Col. Ker and his fellow members believe the best way to be sure is to discuss the matter with a member of the Real Estate Board of Victoria.

"Our members adhere to a strict code of ethics which assures protection to the public and loyalty to fellow agents," Col. Ker says

TWO ASSOCIATIONS

Through their part in the Victoria board, members are associated with the B.C. Association of Real Estate Boards and the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

Col. Ker expresses pride that through the efforts of the B.C. board a chair of real estate has been established at University of B.C. under Prof. Philip White. It is now possible to major in real estate under the bachelor of commerce course and the real estate board has guaranteed $50,000 over five years to ensure the chair.

KEEN DEMAND

Establishment of the course was the result of many years of hard endeavor by the Board, which had a sincere concern with filling a keen demand for well-trained salesmen whose work will be honest and careful.

Realtors feel strongly that there is no place in real estate for the do-it-yourselfer or the incompetent dealer.

The buying of a house—the investment of what to most families amounts to the total of several years' income — is something to be approached with a good many things in mind.

The house itself must be right, the price must be right, the financing arrangements must be right and if the deal is to be made smoothly and with complete satisfaction, the agent must know his business inside and out.

He must know what homes are on the market and their value. He must know the hidden factors in choosing a home and help the buyer understand them, offering thoughtful guidance when necessary.

He must above all be a man of integrity.

FIRST SEEN

As far back as 1907, responsible real estate men of Victoria saw the need of some organization to regulate the business from within, setting up standards of competence and ethics to protect the public, and in the long view their own profession.

The Victoria Real Estate Board was formed Feb. 21, 1907, under the name Real Estate Exchange Ltd. The name was changed in 1921.

There were about 20 members at the formation and later, during hard times, membership dropped to 16 at one period.

Helping Col. Ker to guide operations of the board now are William Bailey as first vice-president, Philip Holmes as second vice-president, W. S. Kirkpatrick, L. E. Kirk, Louis M. Corke, F. M. Cabeldu and Don Harvey as directors, Mrs. Catherine Godfrey as secretary and A. H. Reed as past president.

There are important safeguards any home-owner or home-buyer can take to be certain of competence.

Most important is that everyone who is going to purchase a house should obtain a solicitor's services in carrying out the transaction. Average cost for the service is $15 to $25, excellent insurance that the buyer will get what he buys.

COL. B. RUSSELL KER
... proud of ethics.

Climate of Victoria One 'of World's Best

Victoria has one of the best climates in the world. Figures prove it. In spring the average temperature is 53.3 maximum and 42.3 minimum; summer, 67 maximum and 51.2 minimum; fall, 56.7 and 45.6 and in winter 44.4 and 36.6.

Average date of first killing frost is Dec. 4 and last March 4, which makes it an ideal city for gardeners. Average rainfall annually is 27.15 inches.

Dinner's Ready!

More and more people are turning to outdoor living on Vancouver Island, where the temperate climate provides a longer period to enjoy the fresh air style of life. Here Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hamilton, 530 Lotbiniere Avenue, Victoria, prepare an outdoor steak dinner on the barbecue they have fashioned from an old stove.

20th Century Progress Eases Modern Living

Some of the technical progress of the last 60 years has reached the home level. Engineered central heating systems have replaced the traditional fireplaces; and engineered kitchens, bathrooms and laundries are now commonplace. Engineered lighting can be found everywhere but in the home.

We can make homes as safe, convenient and comfortable every day as they are occasionally by natural light alone on good days. This includes those critical areas outside the home such as steps, entrances, walkways and driveways that are so important for safety, convenience, comfort and protection against intruders.

The problems of visibility, efficiency and comfort can be successfully solved in the modern home by applying the lighting principles and practices which have been developed in the fields of office, school, industrial and street lighting. This concept involves the separate consideration of the functional lighting, which is a matter of engineering and planning, and the environmental lighting, which is a matter of taste and is determined largely by the occupant of the house.

The latter is most simply met by the judicious use of portable lamps and decorative fixtures; the former, by planning the lighting at the same time the other mechanical services are decided upon.

Planned, Orderly Informality Supplies Keynote

Several interesting modern architectural ideas are combined here in the designing of the house and newly-planted garden of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. R. Brown, 3045 Beach Drive.

At the home of Miss A. M. Woodroffe, 3150 Tarn Place, pictured with her Welsh Corgi Midge, the orderly informality of heather in variety and spreading junipers with sweeps of lawn form a colorful contrast against the blue waters of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Spring Festival Time

Sights to be Seen

Area Gardens Open to Public

Specially Arranged Tours Delight Eye and Heart

★ ★ ★

No matter where one looks Victoria's gardens are overflowing with spring flowers.

It is little wonder the Chamber of Commerce has adopted the slogan "Spring Comes First to Victoria," for this city and the district surrounding it leads all Canada in its bountiful displays of spring color and beauty.

Through Victoria's door spring enters Canada.

This is a gardener's delight and from early March Victoria's boulevards, parks and gardens sprout greenery and color which win acclaim from garden lovers all over the world.

GATES OPEN

Each spring owners of the beautiful and varied gardens of Victoria throw open their gates to the public so everyone may enjoy, admire and photograph the magnificent blending of spring blooms, shrubs, rare conifers, fine lawns and stately native trees.

This year the Spring Garden Festival of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held May 7, 8 and 9 and will feature a new tour of Saanich Peninsula gardens as well as the many old favorites which have been visited in past years.

HEADQUARTERS

Festival headquarters again this year will be at the C & C Taxi, 906 Government Street, and will be open at 9 a.m. daily, starting May 4, for registration and assistance of guests.

Visiting hours are 1 to 5 p.m for the specified gardens of May 7, 8 and 9.

Registration and transportation fee, which covers admission and bus transportation to the listed gardens, is $1.75 a day or 75c a day for those using their own transportation.

Buses leave festival headquarters at 1 p.m. and return about 5.30 p.m.

There will be tea and rest stops in mid-afternoon.

Here is a brief description of some of the gardens that will be open to the public during this year's Spring Garden Festival:

At 1964 Fairfield, Mr. and Mrs. N. Abkhazi have a large area of glacial rock formation dominating the scene. Reflected in the pools are flowering shrubs and trailing plants in all their colorful spring glory. Featured are a large variety of hybrid brooms introducing many new colors and species, and hybrid rhododendrons and many azaleas including standard mollis. Two exceptionally fine specimens of the rarely-seen weeping blue spruce should be noted by visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Ahier, 1233 Palmer Road, have a garden which is definitely for the connoisseurs in rock gardening. Rock and alpine plants, flowering shrubs, rhododendrons and azaleas are seen in natural settings. The Ahier garden is an example of a garden planned for owner maintenance and includes fruit trees, vegetables and a greenhouse.

Several interesting modern architectural ideas are combined in the designing of the house and newly planted garden of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. R. Brown, 3045 Beach Drive. This garden will be of special interest to those redesigning an existing garden or planting a new one.

A new garden on display for the festival this year is that of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Blair, The Latch on All Bay Road. Much patience and training has been needed to espalier the many fruit trees which border the long driveway. Across the expansive lawn is a border of herbaceous perennials, 12 feet wide by 150 feet long, which provides a wealth of bloom through all seasons. From a private beach in front of the house may be seen lofty mountains towering over many small islands and the blue water of the bay.

The garden of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Diminyatez, 617 St. Charles, is on an average-size city lot and is an example of how varied and interesting planting can give year-round delight. Standard wisterias, brooms and forsythias are featured.

Another new garden on display this year is that of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Dowman, 4021 Shelbourne, which features spacious lawns, formal landscaping in the modern manner and is interplanted to ensure a wealth of bloom all year round.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edgell, Little Lane, 3230 Beach Drive, have a garden of delight for all. It has been artistically planned using natural rock formations pools, trees, shubs, rock and alpine and woodland areas. The colorful foliage of cut-leaf silver birches, copper beeches and native oaks gives a background to the flowering cherry and crabapple trees. The woodland garden is gay with spring bulbs, carpets of anemone and lilies-of-the-valley. Near a pool on the front lawn with overhanging Japanese maples is a 75-year-old specimen in a Suchow tub.

Another lovely garden reclaimed from bushland is that of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Firth, Colbac, 2676 Queenswood Drive. The natural contours are used to advantage with rock pools as the keynote. Featured is an excellent collection of flowering shrubs and some unusual alpines covering the rocks.

On display for the first time this year is the garden of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hammill, 8337 Patricia Bay Highway. The natural beauty of this coastal property has been skilfully developed by the addition of magnificent flowering shrubs. Near the house a rock wall provides a home for many alpine treasures.

The adjoining gardens of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McCubben and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Watson, 5050 and 5060 Cordova Bay Road, highlight a natural spring and pools which provide a paradise for water fowl among flowering trees and shrubs. In the surrounding district are some of the finest specimens of native dogwoods and arbutus.

Rocky promontories jutting out into the waters of Saanich Arm and small bays give an irregular line to the interesting garden of Mr. and Mrs. George Paulin, Chalet Road. Cosy and secluded and with a definite charm, this garden, which is on display for the first time, is worthy of special notice because of its alpine section where many small treasures make it a delight to the observer.

Spencer Wood, Ardmore Road, the garden of Mr. and Mrs. N. Pavelic, is another new garden on display. Here on the shore of Saanich Inlet mature trees and fine borders frame wide lawns sweeping down to the sea.

Miss A. M. Woodroffe, 3150 Tarn Place, has a garden in which the orderly informality of heather in variety and spreading junipers with sweeps of lawn form a colorful contrast against the blue water of Juan de Fuca Strait and the distant Olympic Mountains.

The home of Mrs. H. L. Sayward-Wilson is a Tudor-style house standing in a perfect setting of native trees underplanted with woodland flowers. The open garden is landscaped to the shoreline and features dwarf conifers and rock plants and a herbaceous border.

Mortgage Insurance Sound Investment

Mortgage insurance is a good investment in these days when few young families can afford to pay cash for a home.

Insurance companies offer various plans of mortgage insurance, but they all have one thing in common: widow is left with clear title to the home and will not have to continue to make mortgage payments while trying to raise and educate children; or sell the home quickly at a disadvantage with perhaps only a small equity.

Humans Love But Pests Detest Versatile Western Red Cedar

The giant Western red cedar is undoubtedly the most versatile wood nature has provided for interior or exterior construction.

Its resistance to weather, natural insulation qualities and real wood cannot be duplicated.

Western red cedar is free from pitch, resin, and will not warp, twist nor check and if paint or stain is desired it will take either readily. The wood has a very low shrinkage factor and its inherent qualities discourage wood destroying fungi. Its fresh aroma, though pleasant to humans, has proven to be a repellant to insects, vermin and destructive animals such as porcupines.

The millions of microscopic cells in Western red cedar retard heat transmission—three inches of cedar has insulating qualities equal to 21 inches of masonry.

Neighbors, by co-operating in local improvement plans, encouraged by all four municipalities, are helping to increase home values in Greater Victoria.

Each municipality varies slightly in its approach to local improvements, but principle is the same; if most residents of a block want curbs and gutters, a sidewalk, or the road paved, municipality will do the work and residents can share cost on an easy-payment plan.

In the recently decorated living room of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Champion, Cedar Hill Road, imported Danish tables of solid teak have been combined with a delicately scaled chesterfield of Canadian design. Notice how the soft sculptured lines of the Danish chair and table are echoed in the chesterfield.

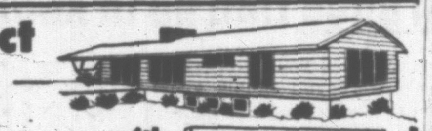
protect and beautify your home with "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING



"FOREST CEDAR SIDING"

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½-inch Stock, 8, 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" Siding is a new type of Siding obtained from specially selected Cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" Siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" Siding ensures a tight weather seal of the lap which, together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the insulation standpoint.

"FOREST" Siding represents an economy to home-builders. Costing less than most other types of Siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

The 'Sculptured Look'

New Furniture Exciting

One of Victoria's leading authorities on furniture styling, interior decorator Rowland Brown, reports on the sculptured look.

By ROWLAND BROWN

A new and exciting change is taking place in furniture styling!

Those of you who have browsed through Victoria's furniture stores in recent months will, I am sure, have sensed a distinct transformation in the appearance of much furniture now being featured.

Not so long ago, furniture manufacturers in Canada were using the 'veneer' production method very extensively. While much fine furniture was developed, the very nature of this manufacturing process seemed to dictate that designs be straight-lined, angular, simple.

CREATION LIMITED

This put certain limitations on the creativeness of our furniture designers.

It became obvious to many of our leading stylists that if there were to be a new and fresh approach in furniture design, then certainly some change in the method of production would be necessary. So changes were made and by far the most influential of these has been the return to the use of solid woods.

DELICACY OF FORM

There is no doubt that the introduction of Danish furniture to the Canadian market further stimulated this thinking. People were quick to recognize the delicacy of form being achieved by gifted Danish designers and craftsmen when working with solid woods — teak, oak and beech-wood. In short, Canadians were being exposed to "the sculptured look"—and they reacted excitedly to it.

So, to those of you looking for furniture which is distinctively new in design and which expresses up-to-the-minute good taste, I suggest that you eye carefully the work of our most talented Canadian designers.

Many of them are now working with solid woods—walnut, birch, elm, maple, cherry—blending clean sculptured lines with perfectly balanced proportions.

If you are a lover of traditional styles, then keep in mind that several of today's best designers, seeking a pleasing balance between modern needs and the charm of truly antique types of furniture, are producing stylings where these two requirements are sensitively blended.

Remember, wood properly used in its natural solid form adapts perfectly to any mood, modern or old world.

HUMBER'S

PIERS ISLAND

Everyone Shares Paradise

Work has now started on the subdivision of 240-acre Piers Island into a 100-home holiday island for people in the middle income brackets.

Every one of the 100 lots which will soon be offered for sale will have waterfrontage on the fascinating little island just off the tip of Saanich Peninsula, near Swartz Bay.

Now under construction is a 66-foot gravel access road which will circle the island, touching the landward sides of all the half-acre to 1½-acre lots on the Island.

The subdividers, Gulf Resorts Ltd., hope to introduce a practical method which will enable lot purchasers around the perimeter of the island to control under their own administration the large central portion of the island which contains about 160 acres.

One way suggested is to form a separate company to own the central area, with each owner holding one voting share.

Other methods suggested include formation of an improvement district administered by trustees selected from property owners, an organization under the Societies Act, or a co-operative organization.

This is the kind of building site which will be offered on Piers Island with its virgin forests and attractive arbutus and dogwood trees. Picture shows Harry Point and a portion of one of the island's 17 shell beaches.

View from site of one of 100 lots on Piers Island shows attractive beach area and already-installed jetty.

Golf, Playgrounds

Suggested projects include formation of a water district and distribution system; an electric power and distribution system; construction of a sheltered boat basin, construction of a small golf course; a warm salt water swimming pool; children's playgrounds.

Reginald Fraser Biscoe, whose company is agent for the subdivision, says lots will be priced for "the middle income brackets and will sell in the range of $2,500, with easy terms available."

Mr. Biscoe said that 23 lots are now being laid out for sale this year and these are on the part of the island opposite Swartz Bay. In this area two 50-foot floats have already been installed in South Bay, where there is ample water for mooring boats up to 40 feet, even at low water.

A gradual development is planned through limited lot sales and in this way it is anticipated that early occupants will encourage their friends to participate, which in time would produce a group of strongly community-minded occupants.

"The whole scheme is being patterned on the principle of summer camp sites," Mr. Biscoe said.

Butterfield, Hughes and Mawle of Victoria are now surveying the lots, and Skelly Construction Co., of Vancouver, has bulldozers and gravel trucks on the island building the road.

Mr. Biscoe explained that the natural beauty and open park-like atmosphere of the island is being considered in the road-building program and that all stumps and debris are being grubbed and burned.

Miles of Waterfront

The island has three miles of beautiful waterfront, most of which is easily accessible from low banks.

There are 17 individual beaches on the island and the plan calls for some beach areas to be set aside for community use.

Fresh water is no problem. There are seven active deep wells and several shallow wells on the island and during the 1930s when the island was used as a Doukhobor prison more than 600 persons obtained their water supply from the wells.

Subdividers plan two restrictive covenants in all deeds. One is that no land parcel less than 1½ acres may be subdivided, and also that only one-family dwellings with garage may be constructed on any lot.

But regulations will provide that small guest sleeping quarters could be constructed.

Piers Island, in Satellite Channel just north of Swartz Bay, was sold last year to Gulf Resorts Ltd. by Mrs. Margaret Harvey of Victoria, whose late husband's family had owned the island for the past 50 years.

Principals of the purchasing company are Vancouver businessman Jack Bell and Vancouver contractor John W. G. MacKenzie. Victoria realtor Fraser Biscoe is agent for the project.

Subdivision plans have allowed for construction of a ferry wharf at some future date. It is thought island residents may seek to have the Salt Spring Island ferry from Swartz Bay call in at the island during summer months.

Sheltered Boat Basin

In the westerly portion of the island there is a large cleared area which is approximately at the level of high tide water. At nominal cost an area could be excavated to provide a sheltered boat basin. Similarly, at a nominal cost, a further excavation could be made for a salt water swimming pool.

The developers are making every effort to keep the costs of the lots down. That is the reason they plan to turn the central part of the island over to an owners' group rather than develop it themselves. To carry out an all-embracing program would price the lots completely out of range of the very people it is hoped to see benefit by the development.

However, over the years, by competent management of the company controlling the central portion, it is believed all proposals suggested could be carried out on a progressive basis which would suit the property owners.

The B.C. Electric has tentatively indicated it is prepared to carry out an installation provided about $3,000 can be guaranteed annually. This would mean about $30 a lot annually.

The whole project will enable an average wage earner to live like a millionaire on an island of his own among the beautiful and fascinating Gulf of Georgia islands, many of which are owned by millionaires.

"We feel that with the high prices asked for most seafront lots, a large number of Vancouver and Victoria families are denied their own seafront summer homes," Mr. MacKenzie said.

Piers Island is within two miles of Princess Margaret Island, which last year was given by the province of British Columbia to Princess Margaret and then designated as a marine park.

The island is believed to have been named after Henry Piers, surgeon of the naval vessel HMS Satellite, under command of Capt. Prevost, which cruised those waters in the 1850s.

It is briefly recorded that Indians lived there many years and paddled across to Knapp Island, a long rifle shot away, to trade with the Hudson's Bay station serviced by the old Beaver.

About the turn of the century Piers Island appeared in the news when Sir Edward Clive Oldnall Long Phillips-Wolley, who had visited this coast previously, bought the island with its white shell beaches, lovely groves of arbutus and dogwood, and lofty virgin forests.

He proceeded to build an esate on the island—a beautiful home, gardens, orchards and farm buildings.

He moved to Victoria in 1908 and sold the island to Lt.-Col. J. S. Harvey of Victoria, who with his family moved to the island and lived there until 1912.

The island was leased to various parties, mostly for sheep-raising, during the next 20 years.

Then came the mass arrests of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Federal authorities took over the island as a penal colony and there were 546 convicted Doukhobors and their 365 children to be taken care of by the government. The children were placed in various institutions, but the parents were hustled into hastily-built barracks on the island. Fourteen-foot-high fences separated males from females during their three-year terms.

A few years ago the barracks and other deserted buildings were sold and removed from Piers Island and today little remains to show that a penitentiary ever existed there.

Use Logic In Siting The Utilities

Why not be logical about the placement of utilities?

There is no need to be hampered by tradition and place washers and dryers in the kitchen.

Bedroom linen, bathroom linen and the clothes that are changed in that area of the house make up the great bulk of the laundry, so why not have the facilities in the hall near the bedrooms or in the bathroom itself?

Handsome fir plywood cabinets with folding doors may be set into cavernous old bathrooms or wide corridors to make a central location

Huge Building Program Set

Millions Earmarked

More than 1,500 single dwelling homes, apartment houses and semi-detached homes costing more than $10,000,000 will be built in the Greater Victoria metropolitan area this year and about 60 per cent of these will be financed under the National Housing Act.

That is the prediction of C. J. Dowling, Victoria manager of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation which administers the NHA.

He expects that 1959 will be as big a year as 1958, which was a record home-building year in this area.

CMHC figures disclose there were 1,542 homes started under construction in 1958 in the Victoria metropolitan area compared to 1,053 in 1957.

Saanich was far ahead in home building starts last year with 788 homes under construction. Victoria had 268, Oak Bay 230, Esquimalt 118, Sidney 31, and N. Saanich 39.

Mr. Dowling, who has managed the Victoria office which supervises all Vancouver Island for three years, says about 60 per cent of all houses are financed under NHA and the percentage is climbing every year.

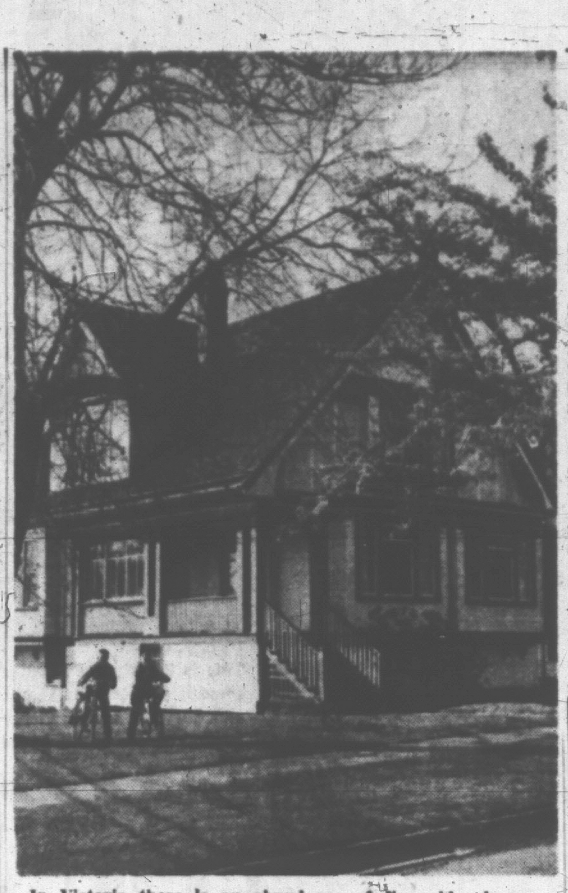
The NHA makes it possible for Mr. Average Wage Earner to own his own home and these include detached houses, semi-detached dwellings and duplexes. In fact, the greater part of the building industry revolves around the act.

The easiest way to own one's own home over a period of years is through NHA.

The advantages are many and include a loan equal to a proportion of the value of the home, a moderate rate of interest (6 per cent maximum), a repayment plan over 25 or 30 years, and convenient monthly payments.

Under the provisions of NHA certain recognized lenders, including chartered banks, insurance companies, trust and loan companies, are authorized to lend money to builders, or to individuals planning to build homes for themselves or to hire such work done.

Basically to qualify for an NHA loan one must have the plans of a house that meet NHA specifications, a sufficient down payment to give a certain equity in the home, and the income considered adequate to meet loan obligations. (Mortgage charges for principal and interest plus taxes should not exceed 27 per cent of the applicant's annual income.)



In Victoria there is an abundance of fine older homes which are bargains for home seekers. This one at 510 Trutch Street was built during an era where labor was cheaper and nothing was spared to make it a quality home. National Housing Act home improvement loans provide ready cash to renovate these older homes.

Quality Workmanship

Older Houses Fine Bargains

Some of the best bargains in real estate today are the older homes which are usually in established neighborhoods where property values are sure to remain stable.

One of the big advantages of older homes is that they were usually built during a lower cost era and this shows up in the larger rooms and quality construction.

These grand old homes were mostly designed for large families, and today the large family is again becoming the vogue.

Chair rails, high baseboards, wainscotting and dark wood of the older homes are all features that withstand wear and family use, and anyone who is satisfied with the old style can usually buy a better-quality older home.

EASY CHANGE

Today insulation of older homes is no problem and the quality construction and larger rooms make for easy renovation and redesign.

And, under the National Housing Act home improvement loan plan administered by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, almost anyone can afford to remodel with its already landscaped garden.

The authority may guarantee through a bank or other authorized installment lender a loan of up to $4,000 on a one-family dwelling to cover the cost of remodelling.

These NHA home improvement loans cover the cost of labor, materials and equipment for alterations, repairs or additions which are intended to be permanently installed or built in.

Included are new construction work, repair of damage, demolition or moving of buildings on the property, installation of heating systems, rewiring or plumbing improvements.

They can cover the entire cost of built-in ranges, refrigerators, and garbage disposal units, but not home laundry equipment.

They include wall-to-wall carpets, painting and decorating, awnings and insulating glass windows.

A home improvement loan can even be obtained to cover the cost of site improvements . . . such things as blacktop driveways, fences, septic tanks or public sewer connections, curbs, sidewalks, patios, trees and shrubs and any landscaping of a permanent nature.

Such loans are available today without difficulty from any bank at 6 per cent interest, the same rate charged for NHA mortgages. The procedure, however, is a lot simpler.

Inspections are not normally required and there is rarely more than a few days' delay.

NHA home improvement loans are secured by personal promissory note, a loan arranged strictly between the home owner and the bank.

At the time of making an NHA home improvement loan the lender is required to collect from the borrower an insurance fee equal to 1 per cent of the amount of the loan. The fee is remitted to CMHC by the lender.

EASY TERMS

Loans are repayable in monthly installments, together with interest, in not more than 10 years.

Existing mortgages or other home improvement loans on the property do not interfere with the granting of a new loan, provided the total amount of these obligations will not exceed the estimated value of the property.

When the bank has approved an application for an NHA improvement loan, the owner receives the amount of the loan in full . . . either before, during, or after the work is completed, depending on the arrangements made.

Blue Entices Flying Pests

Night flying insects are normally attracted to bright light sources.

Research has proved that it is the blue part of the light that attracts these insects, but now colored filters built into these light sources absorb the blues and make the light almost invisible to insects.

Yellow lamps are used for this purpose because they eliminate most of the light the insects see.

If floodlighting is used, the floodlamps should be placed far enough away from where people congregate so the bugs will not fall where there are people. Where fluorscent lighting is used outdoors, gold fluorescent tubes are least attractive to night-flying insects.

He Could Have Victoria —But Wanted Potatoes

Most of the land around Victoria was turned down by a settler because he thought the land was not good enough to grow potatoes.

Settler John Coles told the Royal Colonial Institute in London in 1887:

"To show . . . how foolish some people are who get opportunities, when I landed I was offered the option of taking up the greater part of the land of Fort Victoria. But I refused it because I did not think the ground good enough for growing potatoes."

Artists's drawing shows part of new $1,000,000 subdivision now under construction on old Copley property in Saanich.

Copley Estate — Own Sewage Plant

Old Saanich Property To House 300 Families

A $1,000,000 subdivision, which will include 300 lots and a four-acre artificial lake which may be stocked with fish, is now under construction on the old Copley property in Saanich.

It will be the first subdivision in Saanich with its own sewage disposal plant to take care of the entire area.

SCHOOLS, SHOPS

The new subdivision to be named Northridge Terrace will include a site for a school to include all grades and a shopping area as well as two children's playgrounds in zoned areas.

Subdividers are Dick Lipsey and Gordon Rolston of Lipsey-Rolston Development Co. Ltd. of Victoria and agent is Frank A. Martin Agencies Ltd., which will offer a complete real estate, drafting and building plan.

OFF DRAWING BOARD

Plans for the 115-acre development are now off the drawing boards and half of the proposed roadwork is now under construction.

Sale of lots at a price from $1,200 up is expected to start almost immediately. The property is beautifully treed and nearly all the lots will have a gentle slope and view. Waterfront lots will be available on the lake and there will also be a public swimming and boating beach on the lake.

DORMANT LAND

The property is now dormant land adjacent to Wilkinson Road and runs from Carey Road between Mann Avenue and Judah Avenue on the south.

It is the biggest subdivision now underway in Greater Victoria and will include storm sewers, sewers, curbs and gutters.

EASIER TAXES

The developers point out that although prices for the lots may appear to be excessive in comparison to less attractive areas, all improvements will be paid for in the price of the lot so taxes should be more favorable than anywhere else in the Greater Victoria area.

There will be a completely surfaced road in from the Patricia Bay Highway across Vanalman to the centre of the subdivision and there will also be access from Wilkinson Road, Carey Road, West Saanich Road and Mann Ave.

Colquitz Creek runs through the subdivision and although it has recently been found pure enough to drink, a filter plant will be installed as a safety precaution.

DIFFERENT DESIGNS

All homes to be built in the new subdivision will have to be of an approved type and no house of similar design will be allowed within four houses of another. Houses must have at least 1,000 square feet of floor space.

Frank Martin Agencies reports it has hundreds of house designs to choose from and unlimited National Housing Act and other conventional loan money available.

STREET LIGHTING

Controlled street lighting will be installed throughout the subdivision.

It is expected it will take about three years to complete the subdivision.

Phones, Meters, Licences —Numbers in Thousands!

In Greater Victoria there are 43,906 telephones, 38,968 of them residential and 4,938 business phones. There are 52,463 electric meters and 45,137 of them are residential and 7,326 commercial. Gas meters number 8,923, 6,885 residential and 2,038 commercial.

Automobile registrations number 85,247.

Change to Oil Heat High in Desirability

Living modern today means many things, but one of the first things in the minds of homeowners is a change to automatic home heating.

In Victoria the predominate trend in automatic home heating is to oil heat. Gas in natural and economic form has not yet reached the Island, so only a moderate amount is sold for home heating.

When considering a change to automatic heating a good deal of thought must be given to the size, structure, age and location of the home.

SURVEY FIRST

Proper installation depends on a competent heating engineer first making a complete survey of the heating requirements.

The furnace must be of correct heat output to suit the BTU requirements of the home. In modern well-insulated homes where the heat requirement is down, one must consider the size of the fan used so that a proper amount of air will be moved over the furnace up into the house and thereby carry enough heat to required areas.

Biggest oil user in an automatic system is not the burner, but the filter system of the return air. If filters are allowed to clog up, the air for carrying heat away from the furnace cannot pass through and this causes the furnace to get too hot and the heat passes up the chimney instead of into the home.

Just Like Another Room

Show Place At Little Cost

Garden Lights 'Enlarge' Home

Mere Flick of Switch Turns Night Into Day

Outdoor lighting can double or triple the size of a a home—and with small expense and effort.

With outdoor lighting a family can enjoy a whole new range of outdoor activities in evening when the family is together and a yard, garden or terrace can be made just like another room in the home.

It helps make a home and garden the show place of the neighborhood after dark and helps a family get more living value out of the home and land in which it has invested.

ANY AMOUNT

With an increasing choice of equipment, garden lighting can be done economically, generously, or in a don't-spare-the-cheque-book fashion.

One of the most important reasons for lighting a garden is the safety and protection such lighting can give. There is no reason for stumbling around in the dark, and by snapping on garden lights one can make a quick inspection of the grounds.

Usually if there are any prowlers, a floodlight is enough to send them on their way.

Outdoor lighting provides the opportunity to enjoy favorite garden spots and the blessing of the darkness is that less attractive areas can be concealed by shadows.

Aside from lighting advantages, outdoor weatherproof convenience outlets make it easy to connect hedge-trimmers or any other electrical equipment such as barbecue rotisseries.

It is better for the circuit serving the outdoor lighting to be exclusively for that purpose, but if only a small amount of seasonal lighting is required it is possible to plug into the existing circuits in the garage or house, being careful not to overload any household circuit. The average lighting circuit can carry only about 1,500 watts.

CORD CARE

Do not lead cords through window or door openings where they are subject to damage from closing doors or windows.

One way to overcome this problem is to insert a wood panel the width of a window and about two or three inches high and then bring the cord through a hole in the board. Indoor-type extension cords should never be used for garden lighting. Cords for garden lighting must be weatherproof and all the connections moistureproof.

BEWARE DEW

Experiment with garden fixtures only in a dry garden. Dew or any other moisture must be guarded against in handling electrical equipment.

Remember to turn off the electricity when replacing a bulb.

No matter what kind of light is planned, remember a neighbor's right to privacy. See that the light is confined to your own area.

DON'T OVERDO

Avoid whitewashing an entire area with light. The result may be flat and monotonous.

Results will be made more pleasant and satisfying by highlighting or silhouette lighting of trees and choice parts of the garden.

Always remember that the garden by night is not supposed to duplicate the garden by day, but should rather present a completely different, but very alluring, appearance at night.

WHAT COLOR?

All types of bulbs may be used, depending on where and what it is sought to light.

Usually white light looks best in flower beds. Nature does the color to perfection there. On the other hand, sometimes fountains, pools and trellises look entrancing with colored lights.

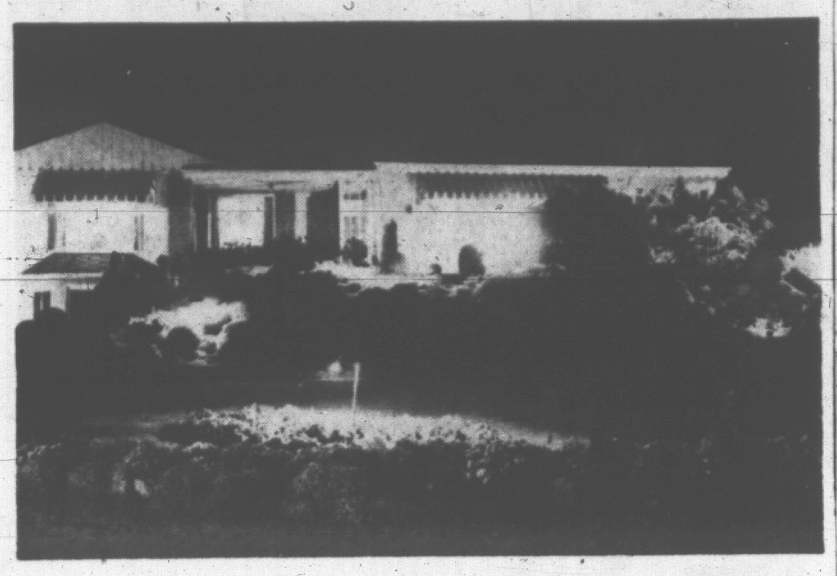
Anything from a Christmas-tree-size bulb to a 150-watt projector-type lamp may be appropriate The projector light with the built-in reflector is ideal for garden use and the brackets are adjustable to different angles.

WON'T BREAK

It is made of heavy glass and won't break when exposed to rain or other inclement weather, and it is available in five colors.

Green can be attractive, yellow is very pleasing directed up through willow trees, pink can create a soft warm atmosphere, and red is extremely effective on red brick or on arbutus trees. The blue lamp can be used to simulate a moonlight atmosphere in the garden.

In planning garden lighting the prime rule is to keep the light out of the viewer's eyes and the neighbor's, too.



Garden lighting is becoming increasingly popular in Victoria. Typical of beautiful effects obtained is the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Torrance, 120 King George Terrace.

Hide the bulbs by using shielding reflectors, but do not set up blinding, tiring lights if it is desired to keep the atmosphere of the garden restful and inviting.

Although a beam of light may be projected on any area it is desired to emphasize, subtle lighting around a particular plot can achieve intriguing compositions of light and shadow.

FIVE LEVELS

In planting light bulbs in a garden there are five levels of lighting to consider.

A five dimensional effect may be created by co-ordinating garden planting and garden lighting.

At ground level there are garden flowers to consider. The second level of planting is that of the smaller shrubs. If the flower beds get denuded by the weather or picked for bouquets, raise the lights to the smaller shrubs—the flowering quince, the azalea, the spirea, the shrub rose, the abelia, the red chokeberry, the mountain laurel or viburnum carlesi.

CHANGE CENTRE

Sometimes a slight shift in garden lighting will make the flowering shrubs the centre of attraction.

Third level is that of the larger shrubs — spice bush, lilac, wiegels, honeysuckle, mock orange, trumpet vine or bittersweet.

Smaller trees are in the fourth dimension. A single apple, plum or double cherry makes a lovely blossoming centre for the garden.

WITHIN, BELOW

Large trees, such as maple, oak, hickory, ash or locust make the fifth dimension in planting and lighting.

A big tree can be lighted from a number of vantage points, within the tree or below it. Downlights among the branches spread a glow over the four levels of planting below it.

There is a rock light which can be placed unobtrusively in a rock garden or near a clump of bushes.

Land Registry Keeps Details Of All Deals

The whole history of land development on Vancouver Island since the colonial days of the province may be found at the provincial government's land registry office in the old Bastion Street courthouse.

The land office is the clearing house for the real estate business and keeps complete records of all land transactions.

In its vaults, old title deeds are stored in rows of filing boxes, stacked 12 feet high. The boxes, numbering in the thousands, each contain records of names of former owners and purchasers of private property as well as wills dealing with the conveyance of land.

In addition, the office keeps more than 30,000 maps of individual properties showing their boundaries, easements if any, and other technical details.

Painting's Job For All Family

Nothing can make a house more livable than a good slick painting job, and today painting the home has become a job for the whole family.

And any reliable paint firm is ever ready with free advice on materials and color schemes.

When painting exteriors do not expect good results unless all surfaces to be painted are thoroughly prepared.

If the surface is in paintable condition, thoroughly wash. Where alligatoring or cracking is present the paint should be removed back to the wood by the use of paint and varnish remover, or burning with a blowtorch, and scraping.

It is best to call on the paint dealer for free advice if there is any doubt whatsoever that the surface is in the best condition for painting. It will save you and him trouble later on.

All major paint companies are today making better paint than ever before and rarely, if ever, is a paint failure caused by poor-quality paints, if the painter is dealing with a well-known paint product.

Too few people read the directions on a can of paint. If directions are followed to the letter, there will be no difficulty.

Swimming Pools For Summer Fun

People exist much more pleasantly in Victoria than in any other place in North America and one of the big reasons is the delightful climate here.

And because of the pleasant climate more and more Victorians are seeking the outdoor life right in their own home yards.

Homes in metropolitan Victoria and in fact anywhere on Vancouver Island are built on larger lots than in most other cities and the sites usually have a pleasant atmosphere and surroundings.

That is why Victoria is more than anywhere else keeping up with the recent popularity of home patios, barbecues and swimming pools.

Architects and home planners report that most people building a new home these days seek a patio as part of the design. Some seek an outdoor barbecue, but many prefer the mobile-type portable barbecues which have become the craze.

Swimming pools, which may be installed for as little as $2,500 in a backyard, are just becoming popular here.

Many types of easy-to-install and even do-it-yourself pools are on the market in Victoria, ranging from fibreglass pools which come in four sections to be bolted together with rubber gaskets, vinyl-lined pools to the ordinary concrete type are available on the market in Victoria from $1,150 up.

COME WITH KITS

A heating unit and a filter plant are almost a must for a swimming pool, but these usually come with the kits. Heating can often be provided by connecting with the home hot water furnace or installation of a small heater.

With a filter plant the water becomes self-cleansing and never needs to be changed.

A cover over the swimming pool when not in use is an essential safety factor.

In 1958 in the United States and Canada, the pool business mushroomed and this year it is predicted the popularity will continue with attention focussed on the built-up or living pool because of its great variety of shapes and adaptabilities.

Cost of the living pools range from $3,500 for a bungalow type to $8,000 for a pool for a motel. Operational costs are practically nil.

JUST ONE POUND AN ACRE —WITH STRING ATTACHED

Prospective Victoria home-builders who look with favor on choice Hudson's Bay Company land, some of which is now being subdivided in the Shelbourne-Cedar Hill Cross Road area, are just about a century too late to buy it at a real bargain—one pound an acre.

The land was offered to colonists at that price after the company was granted Vancouver Island with the provision it encourage colonization.

But there was another "price" upon the property that would discourage buyers today. For every 100 acres purchased, a colonist had to bring five single men or three married couples to the Island at his own expense.

Chalets in Alps

Would you like to buy Bing Crosby's home on Hayden Lake in Idaho for $95,000? Or maybe your tastes lean more to Craigrownie Castle in the British Isles which can be purchased at a fraction of its value, or to 18,000 acres and a completely equipped dude ranch in Wyoming.

Maybe you are interested in a Japanese imperial palace or an alpine chalet.

You name it and Pemberton Holmes Ltd. in Victoria, as agents for Previews Inc., can turn it up for you in a matter of minutes.

"We can deal in any real estate anywhere in the world so long as it is outside the Iron Curtain," Philip Holmes said.

He said main features of the Victoria company as agent for Previews Inc. is to encourage other agents to list with Previews, so in fact all Victoria firms have some connection with this giant world-wide clearing house for real estate.

And Vancouver Island has not been left out of the listings, full details of which are listed with 20,000 co-operating brokers in almost every country in the world.

A few of the Vancouver Island listings include a 174-acre hunting and fishing paradise near Tofino for $90,000; a $36,500 delightful waterfront home near Metchosin; acreage on Barkley Sound for $27,000, and a 12-room residence on Saanich Inlet for $110,000.

These Island properties, through Previews Inc., are attractively pictured and described in brochures which are sent to agents all over the world. They are regularly advertised in leading publications and appear in the special Previews catalogue.

Previews does not exactly sell the houses, castles, palaces and other properties. It promotes them through its wide-scale advertising mediums and branch offices in many parts of the world.

Once a customer is located he is referred to some local real estate operator who arranges the sale. Previews accepts a proportionate share of the sales fee. Thus it provides a national or international field of public promotion for the small operator with a piece of property requiring more than the local advertising scope.

Previews frankly isn't interested in the penny stocks of the real estate market. Only residences and other properties in the out-of-the-ordinary field can justify the generous treatment it gives them.

Average asking price for Previews properties is about $47,500, but it has properties from several thousand dollars to $1,500,000.

Sprawl Development Builds Trouble for Future Years

Real estate men in Victoria have gone on record against the sprawl type of subdivision and in favor of orderly subdivision development spreading out from the city as sewers, roads, schools and other facilities become available.

"The owner of a sprawl development home is not a rural-minded owner," the real estate boards say. "Rather he is a misplaced urbanite. He doesn't want land to care for, but he may like to have fields and woods close by — who wouldn't?

"In fact, the sprawl development owner is leeching on his truly rural neighbors," the board points out.

QUICK PROFIT

Realtors describe sprawl as an entirely selfish subdivision —the indiscriminate, wanton use of land to meet the demand of a building lot shortage for a quick profit.

They point out the danger is that rural areas become infested with isolated urban lot groups, the owners of which, though originally content with the minimum of services, soon become discontented with the lack of roads, sidewalks, sewers, infrequency of garbage collection and so on.

This, realtors point out, is the point where municipal financial trouble begins, and the cost is, of course, passed on to the taxpayers — not just the offenders but to all.

The Real Estate Board of Victoria, representing more than 90 per cent of the licenced real estate agents in Greater Victoria, recently said an emphatic "yes" to the control of subdivision.

But the board didn't say precisely what kind of control it favored, believing that was an administrative problem of the area involved.

Actually sprawl is a country-wide problem. It is not just a little local storm in a teacup.

RESOLUTION CITED

At the 1958 national conference of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards, the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas the association is apprehensive of the high costs of extending urban services, including schools, particularly when such costs become excessive as a result of proper planning; and whereas the preamble of the Code of Ethics of the association says: 'Under all is the land.' Upon its wise utilization the widely allocated ownership depend the survival and the growth of free institutions and of our civilization . . ."

SAANICH PROBLEM

The sprawl problem is country-wide, but in this area it is particularly worrisome in outer Saanich and in the unorganized districts outside the four-mile circle.

LOGICAL CENTRES

All this does not mean that new centres cannot develop in the meantime, logical centres with a commercial and school core, perhaps like Royal Oak and Cordova Bay in which development is planned and zealously cared for by the occupants, one realtor explained.

"Nor does it mean prohibition for those who wish to live rural, with reasonable acreage and privacy.

Wins Regional Awards

City Designer Honored

Victoria home builder Bruce A. Cooke, who also designs the homes he builds, has won two 1959 awards in the regional contest of the Canadian Housing Design Council.

He won a similar award last year.

This year, Mr. Cooke took top honors in the 1,150 to 1,500-square-foot class for a three-level home overlooking Cordova Bay at 5069 Lochside Drive and selling in the $14,000 to $15,000 range.

He also won top honors in the under-1,150 square-foot class with a unique split level home at 1081 McBriar, which is in the $11,000 to $12,000 price range.

Mr. Cooke was the only winner on Vancouver Island this year, with the other four B.C. awards going to mainland home builders.

Judges said they were particularly pleased to note the variety and excellent quality of plans submitted, and the number of types of houses put forward for judging, the total including two-storey, tri-level, split level, slab on grade and houses with full basements.

In reaching their conclusions, the judges considered siting, good proportions, simplicity in treatment of appropriate materials, general shape of the buildings, efficient use of space, convenience in relationship of rooms and the placing of furniture.

The Canadian Housing Design Council was formed three years ago by a group of industrialists, architects, builders and consumers for the purpose of promoting better design in the field of small and moderate-sized homes.

Through a program of regional and national awards, CHDC gave builders for the first time the incentive of official recognition for any efforts they might make to improve the lagging design standards of speculative housing.

Judges considered the home at 1081 McBriar a good solution to the standard form of plan. Split level entrance lifts house out of ground and makes basement a well-lighted area. Simplicity and restraint of elevation, with only emphasis on carport and covered entrance helped gain award for Victorian designer.

Hemlock Has Many Uses

Pacific Coast hemlock possesses characteristics which rank it among the foremost of commercial woods. Bought and sold as Pacific Coast hemlock, it is also known as Western hemlock or West Coast hemlock.

Since the wood is fine textured, straight grained, stiff and easily worked, it is readily adapted to many different uses. Distinguished for its strength, it possesses exceptionally good gluing properties.

Do This Don't Do That

When purchasing a home DO make sure you understand the full meaning of everything you sign; DO consult your solicitor with a copy of your offer to purchase before you sign it; DO obtain a copy of the plans and specifications if you are buying a house prior to completion; DO arrange for architectural or other professional advice in checking on the quality of materials and work as construction is carried out.

DON'T rely on oral agreement on any point affecting the purchase or construction of the house; DON'T sign any document which is incomplete or which you do not fully understand; DON'T commit yourself to payment of the entire price until the house is finished and free from possible liens.

Sidney, North Saanich Offers Beauty, Low Taxes

When it comes to residential sites, in a relaxing and pleasant atmosphere, all eyes turn to Sidney and the North Saanich Peninsula.

Here is a district of solitude and beauty, a district that appeals to the hard-working businessman and those in the sunset years of life. A relaxing place where one may rest and play.

This scenic tip of the Saanich Peninsula, with its scores of little bays, peninsulas and unlimited seascapes, has in recent years been a magnet for people from all walks of life—those with big incomes and those who have to commute to work in Victoria or Vancouver.

Recently the trend has been to the expansion of residential properties and there has been great activity in the buying of land for housing sites and in buying already established homes.

There is very little waterfront property available, and what there is is expensive.

There is a 100-home VLA subdivision under construction on Beacon Avenue in Sidney and a 58-home subdivision is now being developed south of Sidney.

Taxes are comparatively low in the Sidney and North Saanich area and transportation is adequate by bus or car, just 30 minutes from the heart of Victoria, and by air just 30 minutes from the mainland.

There is a good water system in Sidney and the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce is now investigating every possible avenue to speed up a water supply for the whole North Saanich peninsula.

Sidney district provides several good yachting basins which make ideal takeoff points for a holiday in the Gulf Islands.

Next year the Sidney district will get a big lift when the government starts operating its fast Saanich Peninsula-mainland ferry service from the Sidney docks which are now used by Washington State ferries for its Sidney-Anacortes service.

With the adjacent Patricia Bay airport, Sidney will undoubtedly become the transportation hub of Vancouver Island and can look for many more prosperous years.

Careful Planning Pays Off in Kitchen

By MRS. NOVA GRAHAM
Home Services Supervisor, B.C. Electric

The efficiency of the small kitchen and the homey companionship of grandmother's large workshop are being combined in many of today's attractive modern kitchens.

For example, space for a "family centre" may be provided next to the kitchen proper — where it seems like part of the kitchen, yet allows Mother to work without having the children or Dad underfoot. Or a laundry area may be combined with a kitchen where automatic laundry equipment does these chores with the minimum of attention and without Mother disappearing into the basement for a day.

JOB FOR SPECIALIST

The planning of an inviting, efficient kitchen should be delegated to a specialist—dealers who sell kitchen cabinets, some lumber companies and your utility company are all sources of information. However, the homemaker should understand the basic principles of kitchen planning so she will know what conveniences are available and can decide which ones are most important to her.

STORAGE DISPERSAL

A basic principle of good kitchen planning is store things where you use them first. In your present kitchen, you probably keep the three parts of your double boiler neatly stacked in one place. Wouldn't it make more sense to keep the bottom near the sink, where you add the water, the top near your mixing or preparation counter, and the lid near the range? If you start thinking this way you will find it makes a big difference in your storage arrangements — and your work so much easier.

OLD RULES STILL APPLY

The old rules for kitchens that the refrigerator must be near the service door, and the range must be near the dining room are still as good today as ever, though not always possible. However, one rule that is important regardless of kitchen size or shape is that the work centres — which really mean the appliances—must be grouped together so you take as few steps as possible in preparing meals.

This doesn't mean they should be jammed together, because each appliance needs storage and counter space around it, but careful planning can do wonders, even in a small area.

CLUTTERED COUNTERS

Lack of counter space is bound to bring confusion and a pileup when a meal is being prepared or cleared away.

You should have counters on both sides of the sink, each at least 24 inches, if possible. A pull-out cutting board, or one built into the counter is needed for preparations here, also a drawer for cutlery, and storage for saucepans, cleaners and so on. You may also consider a deep vented drawer for vegetable storage.

ASK, THEN CHOOSE

A good kitchen is built around good appliances. Get as much information as possible before making your choice, and always buy from a dealer with a reputation for good service. With careful planning of every detail, you can have a kitchen that is not just a dream but a reality—a kitchen that will repay you many times over by the ease and convenience with which you can accomplish your household tasks.

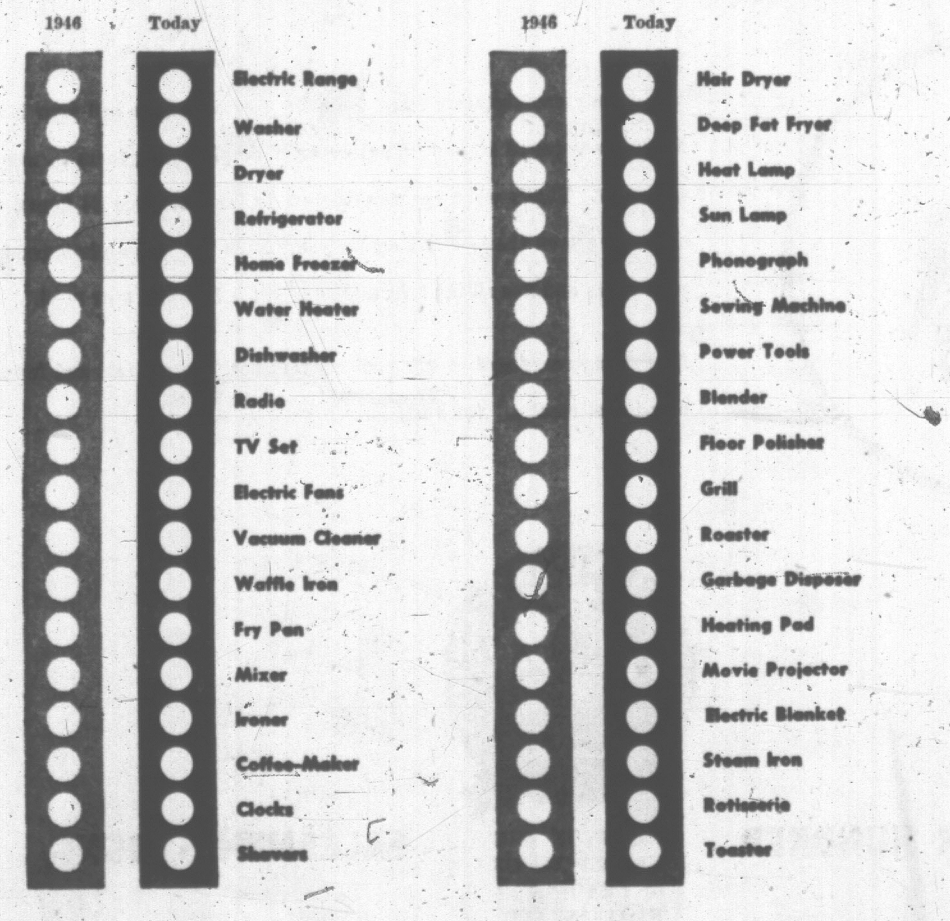
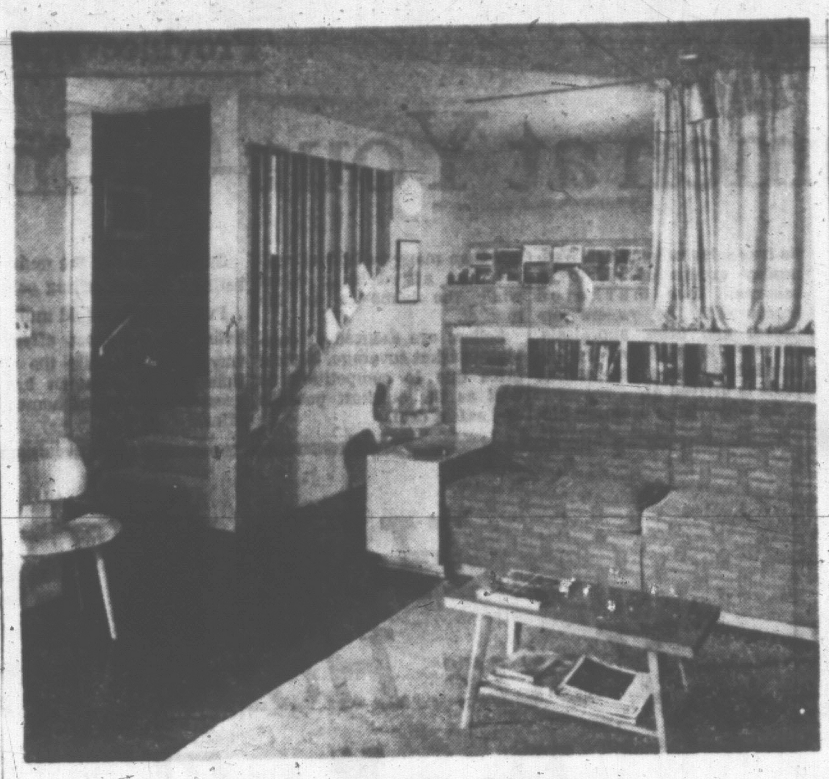
WHICH APPLIANCES DID YOU HAVE IN 1946?
WHICH DO YOU HAVE TODAY?



You may not have all the electric appliances listed here, but no doubt you have more now than you did in 1946. When you've checked the list, and you see how much electricity is doing in your home, we think you'll agree that no part of your household dollar is giving better value.

The average B.C. Electric residential customer now uses nearly three times as much electricity as in 1946, but is paying less per kilowatt hour. The average price per kilowatt hour for residential service in 1946 was 2.4 cents. In 1958 it was 2.1 cents.



Jungle Becomes Playroom

Jungle of furnace pipes, washtubs and cold basement walls was transformed into this cosy playroom through intelligent use of fir plywood—just one of a thousand uses for this popular B.C. product.

Telephone Planning Makes Easy Living

Modern living — British Columbia style — is becoming increasingly easy living, thanks to telephone planning in home design.

The fact that most modern families need more than one telephone has been recognized by the thousands of home builders who have taken advantage of B.C. Telephone Company's free prewiring service.

Thanks to prewiring—the installation of all necessary wiring for two or more telephone outlets at any early stage of construction—the home owner doesn't have to worry about present or future telephone needs. Outlets for bedrooms, den, recreation room, kitchen, workshop, garage, patio and even bathroom are provided free on the expert recommendations of telephone people.

ALL CONCEALED

One of the big advantages of prewiring is that all wiring is concealed before the interior walls are finished, and holes don't have to be bored in finished surfaces. Outlets not required for immediate use are covered with an inconspicious wall plate.

The telephone company can save home owners much time and expense by ensuring that all details of telephone wiring are correctly installed at the time of construction. Because of this, it is important that the company be approached during early construction.

Victoria and Vancouver offer many examples of well-planned homes equipped for telephone convenience.

IN FROM GARDEN

A residence near Victoria has a party line for general family use, and an individual line for the owner's personal use. At a point 500 yards from the house the telephone lines go underground in a two-inch fiber duct to a special aluminum terminal box set in a granite wall of the sunken gardens, and from there in plastic cable to protectors in the basement. Serving the house are four classic ivory telephones.

In Vancouver, a recently-built home has 20 telephone outlets, including a "hands-free" loud-speaking sunlight yellow instrument in the kitchen, matching the decor. A sand beige portable serves the living room, and a weather-proof jack provides an outlet for a portable on the terrace beyond.

With the approach of summer, telephone officials are advising home builders how to make best use of outdoor locations, with portable extensions for sundecks and patios.

Extension telephones are available in many different decorator shades, including classic ivory, turquoise, gardenia white, sand beige, camellia pink, forget-me-not blue and sunlight yellow.

NO HIDDEN COSTS

Home owners often ask if there are "hidden" costs associated with prewiring. The answer is "no". There is no charge for the prewiring itself.

Modern Trend

Modern trend, says Esquimalt building inspector, is toward larger, split-level and ranch-style homes.

Water Like Gold

Most valued property on Vancouver Island is waterfront land, but it is now almost as scarce as hens' teeth.

Urban waterfront around the Saanich Peninsula is selling for around $50 a front foot and in the Ten Mile Point and Queenswood areas water frontage sells at up to $1,000 a front foot.

In Victoria one must now buy a waterfront home to obtain water frontage.

ONLY ONE FOUND

One real estate firm has obtained a 50-foot lot at Brentwood to sell—the only one it could find — and the asking price is $5,500.

All up and down the Island the rush is on for waterfront property, realtors report.

Forty acres of waterfront adjacent to Long Beach is going for $35,000. Twenty acres in Tofino are for sale at $20,000. There is very little, if any, waterfront left at Long Beach.

EAST SOOKE

Pemberton Holmes Ltd. has a proposed development of 40 acres of sheltered waterfront at East Sooke which will sell at about $20 a waterfront foot, with a minimum of 200-foot frontages.

But this subdivision will be confined to the professional summer home type.

Multiple Listings Spreads Wings

Province-Wide Link-Up Soon

2,500 Salesmen at Your Command

Victoria Joins In

Flushed with the thrill of a record $10,000,000 real estate year, the Multiple Listings Bureau of the Real Estate Board of Victoria embarks on a new era next month when it joins in the new province-wide B.C. Multiple Listings Service.

A central office is now being established in Vancouver to act as a clearing house for more than 2,500 brokers and salesmen from every nook and cranny of British Columbia.

All of them are members of the B.C. Association of Real Estate Boards, whose members account for 80 per cent of all real estate sold in the province.

ALL WILL JUMP

It now means that when a Victorian wants to sell or buy a house anywhere in British Columbia he need only snap his fingers and 2,500 salesmen will jump.

And the Victoria Multiple Listings Bureau ranks third in all Canada with a record of 42.8 per cent on the ratio of sales to listings.

Last year the Victoria bureau hit an all-time sales high of $10,000,000 and this year is well on its way to establishing that figure at $1,000,000 a month in sales.

UP, UP, UP

With its 52 member firms and 407 salesmen the Victoria bureau has handled 8,500 different listings since it was organized Feb. 14, 1955. In that first year its sales amounted to $2,000,000 and have steadily increased since.

Mrs. Real Estate of Victoria is Mrs. Catherine Godfrey who has managed the bureau since its inception and is also secretary of the Real Estate Board of Victoria.

L. M. Corke is president of the Multiple Listings Bureau, and E. Frank Burton is vice-president. Directors are F. N. Cabeldu, L. E. Kirk, C. F. Campbell and B. Russell Ker.

Key to the bureau's operation is swift, efficient blanketing of the market.

Within 48 hours of the listing of a property for sale a card with a picture of the property and all particulars has been distributed to every one of the 407 salesmen connected with the bureau, and that figure will be more than 2,500 salesmen when the B.C. service starts operation.

CATHERINE GODFREY
... Mrs. Real Estate

The Multiple Listings Bureau tells vendors they may still list property with a realtor of their choice and all negotiations and appointments will be arranged through his office only.

A careful evaluation of the property is made to establish its true sales value. Each Wednesday groups of six to 15 salesmen tour marketed homes with the owners' approval and offer appraisals. Through joint study a recommendation for a fair selling price is arrived at.

An advertising program bigger than many individual realtors can afford is in effect while the home is on the market.

Sellers are assured of complete market coverage, highest price due to competition as well as the quickest possible and safest deal.

Speed is one of the multiple listing's biggest selling points.

Purchasers are told multiple listing is the most effective way to buy because the multiple listing salesman has a greater selection of homes to offer.

From the point of view of a real estate board such as the one that operates in Victoria, multiple listing service promotes co-operation and goodwill among member firms through the necessity to work together on the same properties.

Three Receptions to Mark Opening of B.C.'s Top Residence

British Columbia's No. 1 residence, the $1,500,000 new Government House, became a home this week as Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross moved in and today announced plans for their "housewarming" parties. First will be a reception May 19 for the premier, cabinet members and MLAs and their wives. Next will be May 20 when members of the weekly and daily press, radio and television will be invited to view the mansion and attend a reception. And then on May 24 afternoon there will be a reception for the architects, contractors, sub-contractors and works department officials. West to Offer Reds Berlin 'Package Plan'

Ministers End Paris Meeting

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four foreign ministers announced complete agreement today on a package plan they will deliver to the Geneva conference next month. They then unexpectedly ended their session.

The foreign ministers, however, later arranged a brief new informal meeting late today to clear up some unsettled questions of strategy, raising the question whether their claimed unity was in fact complete.

A final communique gave no details of the plan. The foreign ministers opened their meeting Wednesday to unify their positions for the East-West foreign ministers conference at Geneva May 11.

The ministers said they stood four-square behind the West's pledge to hold firm in Berlin and to refuse to abandon the 2,500,000 residents of that city.

Though the communique did not say so, official sources reported the ministers had agreed to negotiate a separate Berlin settlement if the Soviet Union rejects the over-all package deal on Berlin, German unity and European security they plan to propose at Geneva.

This allied agreement on a fall-back position was disclosed before the British, U.S., French and West German foreign ministers began their closing discussion of Britain's project for a zone of limited, controlled arms and armies in central Europe.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan has advocated establishment of such a zone as the first step in a cold war settlement with the Russians.

The four-power meeting, which opened here Wednesday morning with tentative plans for a three-day stand, was adjourned shortly after noon.

U.K. Proposal Fitted Into Scheme

The last snag was cleared away this morning when the British proposal for a central European security zone was modified. The United States, France and West Germany had objected to the original British proposal, fearing the West would be put at a disadvantage militarily.

Officials said the British proposal will be fitted into the allied program for unification of East and West Germany. In other words, its fulfilment would depend on progress toward a German political settlement.

The British idea as originally conceived calls for controls, inspection and limitation of armed forces in a tension-ridden area of Europe roughly embracing the two Germanys, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Critics expressed fear a pullback in that particular area would put the West at a military disadvantage. It was understood that one of the things Britain agreed to was extension of this area. But how far it would run was not disclosed.

Qualified sources gave this outline of the new allied plan of negotiations:

The Western package will cover the Berlin dispute, the reunification of Germany in four phases and a plan-European security system.

If, as expected, the Soviets reject this package, the Western allies have agreed to fall back on a new position that would allow a separate arrangement on threatened Berlin.

FOR MACMILLAN

Monty's Mum On K's Message

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery announced today that Nikita Khrushchev has given him a "friendly message" to deliver to Prime Minister Macmillan.

Montgomery refused to disclose any details of the message and said it was a verbal one. "It's up here," he said, pointing to his head.

He was addressing a press conference a few hours after his second meeting in two days with the Russian premier on his self-appointed mission to Moscow.

BETTER INFORMED NOW

Montgomery said he now has "certainly a much better idea" of Soviet aims.

"I had heard a lot about it before, but now I know it from the horse's mouth," said Montgomery, who personally arranged the meeting with Khrushchev for the purpose, as he described it, of improving East-West relations.

Montgomery said that during their meeting today, lasting just under an hour, Khrushchev had invited him to return to Russia for a holiday but that he had no plans in the foreseeable future to return to Russia. He himself had asked Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Soviet defence minister, to visit him in England.

Asked about future plans, Montgomery said he plans to go to South Africa to visit his wartime chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Sir Francis Guingand. He said he also plans to visit Canada next spring.

Montgomery made a hit with the Kremlin leaders on his first full day in Moscow Wednesday. At the Briton's request, Khrushchev invited him back for another talk this morning. Western diplomats could not recall any other private visitor accorded interviews on successive days.

"There is so much to talk about, so much of interest," said the retired British soldier, who is here "to improve East-West mutual understanding" despite strong disapproval of British newspapers and most politicians.

ARTHUR GODFREY

TV Star Has Tumor Removed

NEW YORK (AP)—Part of Arthur Godfrey's left lung was removed today along with a malignant tumor there.

A statement said of the radio-TV star:

"Mr. Godfrey was operated on this morning for removal of a tumor in his left lung. The upper lobe of the lung was successfully removed with the contained tumor.

"He withstood the operation well. His general condition immediately post-operative is good."

The statement was issued by Alvin J. Binkert, executive vice-president of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, where the operation was performed.

The surgery lasted five hours. Godfrey was then taken to a recovery room. He will remain there until attending physicians feel he has recovered sufficiently to be returned to his own room.

Decision Reserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The president of the Exchequer Court of Canada said today he is "inclined" to allow a damage action by Newfoundland against the federal government to go to trial. Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson said, however, that he would reserve formal decision until June.

U.S. Lifts Canadian Oil Curbs

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States is lifting its import restrictions on Canadian oil, effective June 1, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today in the Commons.

Removal of the restrictions, subject of several formal protests by the Canadian government, was announced in Washington at the same time.

The exemption from the restrictions is worded so that it can apply only to Canada and Mexico, but Mexico ships virtually no oil into the U.S. The move removes barriers to oil entering the U.S. by pipeline, truck or rail.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the United States decision is "of significance in terms of our general relations with the United States in that it removes a distressing source of irritation, and reflects a degree development of resources which is so necessary for the economic prosperity and mutual defence of our two countries".

The import controls—a form of quota went into effect on a voluntary basis in July, 1957, and since last March 10 have been in the form of mandatory government controls.

SECURITY ANGLE

The United States justified the controls on the grounds of national security and defence.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker repeated the gist of the several protests sent to Washington: That the controls were not consistent with the mutual security interest of the two countries in North American defence.

He expressed the government's "satisfaction" at the move.

Oils Soar

Oils jumped and then tapered off today after President Eisenhower exempted Canadian oil from mandatory restrictions on imports of foreign petroleum products.

In Victoria Home Oil soared to $20 before the president's announcement and then closed at $19 in a burst of profit-taking. Medallion went up to $2.90, closed at $2.85.

U.S. PLANES, TROOPS ON GUARD IN PANAMA

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Planes and troops from the United States and three Latin American nations stood by today to meet the threat of a new landing attempt by invaders from Cuba.

Informed sources said U.S. planes based in the canal zone were expected to start patrolling the Panamanian coast today.

A highly placed source said that at least one more invasion ship was on the way from Cuba.

"We have it spotted," he said. "We are watching."

Big Tanker Ship Planned for Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — A $16,000,000 tanker supply ship will be built for the Canadian Navy, the government disclosed today in a white paper on defence.

Informants said no contract has yet been let on the 22,000-ton vessel.

The tanker will also carry helicopters, giving it a limited anti-submarine role. Naval helicopters carry torpedoes and devices which are lowered into the water to listen for submarines.

The tanker will enable destroyers to remain at sea for greatly extended periods of time. It will be able to refuel three ships at one time and will have a carrying capacity of 12,000 tons of fuel oil, 1,200 tons of diesel fuel, 1,000 tons of aviation fuel, 250 tons of food and stores and torpedoes.

Informants said further tankers may be built and suggested they might be nuclear-powered. Because the tankers could remain at sea almost indefinitely to replenish destroyers, this might obviate the need for building atomic-powered submarines.

'TEACH CHINESE IN SCHOOLS'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senior high school students should get lessons in Chinese and Japanese, the Chant Royal Commission was told Wednesday.

The committee on Asian studies from the University of B.C. said in a brief that by any standards—economic, political or cultural—"Japan is as influential a country in the present world as Spain and has more direct links with B.C. than Spain and Spanish America together."

Yet, while Spanish was taught in B.C. schools, Japanese was not.

Chinese should also be taught now so the western world won't be "caught napping a second time" when China, like Russia, emerges as a world power, the brief said.

Bribe Case Judgment Reserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment in the Sommers-Gray bribery and conspiracy appeal case.

The court gave no indication when it will announce its decision.

However, a court official said there would be no delay in view of the fact that Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray have started to serve five-year prison sentences.

Their appeal was put at the head of the list of cases to be heard at the spring session of the court to expedite a decision.

Sommers, a former British Columbia minister of lands and forests, and Gray, Vancouver timber executive, were convicted and sentenced to five years each—Sommers for having accepted bribes from Gray in 1953-54 and Gray for having bribed Sommers in return for special treatment in obtaining forest management licences.

Civil Defence Role For Canada's Militia

OTTAWA (CP)—The 41,000-member militia will be converted almost exclusively into a Civil Defence force, it was indicated in a defence white paper published today by the government.

"The equipment not needed for survival operations will be withdrawn gradually from the militia as equipment for these Civil Defence operations is introduced," the 51-page white paper said at one point.

Informants said all artillery, tanks and mortars will be taken away from the militia though the reserve army will retain small arms such as rifles and transport and communications.

There are 28 armored units in the militia, including 22 regiments, and 52 artillery units, including 17 field regiments and six medium regiments. They will not be disbanded.

"All the regular and reserve forces in Canada not directly engaged in activities against an aggressor will be available for survival operations," the paper said.

'Believe Briggs' Plea Made, Lawyer Mourns 'B.C.'s Loss'

"The province of British Columbia is poorer for not having Lee Briggs as general manager of the B.C. Power Commisson."

With these words, Hugh McGivern, counsel for Briggs, Wednesday completed his summation of the contribution the former PC general manager had made to public power development in B.C.

In a summation which even opposing counsel described as "extremely well done" Mr. McGivern traced Briggs' role before the Shrum Royal Commission. This is the body set up to investigate Power Commission operations.

For four months it has heard evidence from a steady flow of witnesses, and studied 113 exhibits. From now until mid-July, when it will bring down its report, chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum, commissioners William Anderson and John Dunsmuir will pour over a bulky transcript of nearly 1,000,000 words.

Few of the words were more eloquently delivered than those of McGivern. Of Briggs, the man whose outbursts against the proposed refinancing of Power Commission borrowings led to the setting up of the Royal Commission, McGivern said:

"I ask you to believe in his submissions.

"Lee Briggs was motivated by only one thought—to bring in all the facets of the public utility (the PC) before this commission.

"He never wished to make unfair comments. If he made any which were unfair they should be accepted as expressions of opinion."

Mr. McGivern dealt at length with the government's refinancing proposal of government advances to the power body.

As general manager of the commission Briggs attempted "to arrange a solution."

"At no time," said Mr. Mc-

U.S. SENATORS PROPOSE MEMORIAL TO 'FRIENDSHIP BORDER'

Pig-on-a-Pedestal Peace Shrine Backed for San Juan Island

Victoria historians are all in favor of establishing a monument on San Juan Island to commemmorate the "pig war" of June 15, 1859 one of the lesser border disputes between Canada and the United States.

They reacted enthusiastically today to a report from Washington that Senators Warren G. Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson had proposed such a momument in congress.

The two senators, both Democrats from Washington State, suggested the monument include land on San Juan Island which was made famous when a British-owned pig became entangled in the disputed Canada-U.S. border and died at the hands of an angered American rifleman.

Although troops of both countries marched into the area, no further shooting developed.

"The joint occupation of San Juan Island by British and U.S. troops is certainly worth commemmorating," Provincial Archivist Willard Ireland said.

"The pig story is just an incident. What really matters is the fact that this confined area was occupied by two opposing armies for 12 years without any major armed clash.

"And the peaceful settlement of the quarrel set an example which has been followed in Canadian-American relations ever since."

Mr. Ireland suggested the monument should take the form of an international park on San Juan Island to include the English cemetery at the north end and the American cemetery at the south.

C. T. W. Hyslop, president of Victoria Historical Society, said it would be an excellent idea if the English cemetery, now part of a private property, could be purchased for use as a memorial.

"It could be made into international monument similar to the Peace Arch at White Rock," he said.

Eight or nine marines, who died from illness or accident during the 12-year occupation, are buried in this cemetery.

Mrs. James H. Hamilton, former B.C. assistant archivist, said she visited San Juan Island a few years ago, and suggested the English cemetery, on top of a hill, should be purchased as a memorial.

"The Washington State Historical Society has already erected several monuments in the American cemetery at the south end.

"I think we in B.C. should do something about the English cemetery," she said. "It would certainly attract tourists to the island, and the 1,500-odd San Juan Islanders would welcome it."

A spokesman for the B.C. parks branch said it had been suggested the provincial government should contribute to a memorial on the island, but the matter would have to be raised in the legislature.

In Washington Senator Magnuson said the amicable settlement of the controversy both by area residents and the 1871 Treaty of Washington, which established the boundary, "stands as a milestone in peaceful Canada-U.S. relations and should be commemorated."

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1959 17

PORTRAIT OF VICTORIA GIFT FOR CITY HALL

The City of Victoria is to be presented with a specially-commissioned portrait of the monarch for whom it was named.

Major H. C. Holmes commissioned the British artist Bernard Dunstan to make a copy of the famous portrait of Queen Victoria by Winterhalter.

The painting arrived here this week, and will be on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria from Tuesday until May 24.

It will then be presented to the city, and hung in the council chamber at City Hall.

Something new in the line of softball is in store this summer when Premier Bennett and his cabinet take on a team of scribes from the legislative press gallery.

After saying he wanted to encourage "genuine amateur sport," the premier readily accepted a challenge from the boys who regularly invade his sanctum with pads and pencils.

When asked if he minded the gallery recruiting extra players from their offices to make up a team, the premier replied:

"Not at all—we shall probably raid the civil service for ours."

This gives him a pretty wide choice since there are approximately 14,000 civil serants in B.C.!

Glorious exception is W. A. (Bill) McAdam, our former agent general in the United Kingdom. Genial Mr. Mac says he wouldn't change anything.

Born in Manchester, he came to B.C. in 1910 and spent '14 years here as bank clerk, commissioner of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and civil servant. Then he returned to England as assistant to the then agent general.

Now he is back in Victoria—for good!

All is not lost as far as Victoria's well-known flower welcome mat at the Inner Harbor is concerned.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce had decided to drop the project, but Wednesday they changed their minds and said they would keep it alive "for a while longer at least".

The Jaycees voted $600 for the project, pending further talks with deputy works minister Arnold Webb to persuade his department to take over the welcome mat.

The meeting also discussed plans for the Jaycee Vancouver Island district meeting to be held here May 17, when the club's oratorical contest will be decided.

Rain Over, Record Set For April

Clearing-Up Forecast After Five-Day Deluge

The deluge is over, and a new April rain record has been set.

Weatherman William Mackie said the series of storms which gave rain here for five continuous days is ended, and that sunny skies can be expected once more.

There will be some clearing tonight, then some cloud again Friday morning, but it will break up to give a "mostly sunny" day.

"The outlook for Saturday is good, too," he said.

Up to last Saturday, only .34 inches of rain had fallen here during April. From then on there was rain daily as follows for a total of 2.70 inches: Saturday, .14; Sunday, .03; Monday, .60; Tuesday, .76; Wednesday, 1.17.

SOME FLOODING

"Actually, 2.70 inches isn't much—only a good half-day's rain for a place like Tofino—but it was enough to push our total for the month to 3.04 inches," Mr. Mackie said. "The previous Victoria record was 3.01 inches, set in April, 1901."

It also was enough to cause flooding on Sooke Road at Dewdney Flats, west of Luxton, and to swell all the creeks along the West Coast Road to flood levels.

The flooding will delay work on the big Dewdney Flats market garden, and other truck gardeners will have to wait for their ground to dry before working it over.

GARDEN WOES

A good many amateur gardeners who had their seeds in early now have neat rows of green shoots, while latecomers who complained last Friday that the ground was "too dry" now bemoan the fact that the ground is "too wet."

Temperatures will range between 42 and 56 degrees tonight and Friday, Mr. Mackie said. Wind will diminish overnight, but will be up to southwesterly at 20 miles per hour by Friday afternoon.

RCN GUNNERS ORDER TOTEM FOR 'EXPORT'

B.C.'s famed totem carver Chief Mungo Martin has been commissioned to do another totem pole for "export."

Graduates of the Royal Navy Gunnery school at Whale Island, England, now serving with the Pacific Command, have arranged for Mungo to carve a pole for their "alma mater."

All RCN gunnery specialists were trained at HMS Excellent, Whale Island, and the pole is intended for the gunnery school there.

Work will start Friday at the Thunderbird Park carving shed. First cut will be made by Capt. E. T. Madgwick, Pacific Command chief of staff, who is the senior officer here among those who trained at HMS Excellent.

Welfare Aid Fraud Brings Jail Sentence

A young man on crutches was sentenced in city police court today to six months in jail for defrauding the city of Victoria of $45 in welfare cheques.

Douglas M. Shipley, no fixed address, told Magistrate William Ostler he knew he would have to account for his actions "some day" and "still didn't know what to say." He acknowledge his record was had and said he had been destitute most of the winter.

"The assistance you received was spent on alcohol instead of any attempt to rehabilitate yourself," the magistrate told Shipley.

He said the accused obviously suffered malnutrition and hadn't cared properly for his leg, which had been broken.

Shipley asked the magistrate to consider his leg by not sending him to jail.

"I think the very best thing you can do is go to jail and straighten yourself up," Magistrate Ostler told the man.

The charge was laid when it was discovered Shipley was already in receipt of other welfare funds.

Big U.S. Ferry 'Evergreen State' In Service Early

One of the largest ferries in the Pacific Northwest, the 125-car Evergreen State, will go into service Friday on the Sidney-Anacortes run of Washington State Ferries.

The big ship was originally slated to enter service in June, but starting date was moved up in view of brisk travel business on the route.

The service has provided the only water link between Vancouver Island and the U.S. mainland during the winter.

UNDER-STREET 'CAVERN TRAP' FINALLY CATCHES SOMETHING

It finally happened . . .

One of the fleet of trucks being used in the excavation of Victoria's business district for placement of electrical wiring underground experienced the inevitable at View and Douglas at 12 noon today.

It tipped into one of the "caverns" of the beautification project.

Workmen immediately started the task of getting it out of the pitfall.

'Bobbie Hat' Vital For Local Color

The tall English-style policeman's helmet is as synonymous with Victoria's history as the Mountie's uniform, Sam Lane, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group, said today.

"It was worn here until about 11 years ago and it is neither ridiculous nor out of place," he declared.

Mr. Lane was replying to a statement by Lorne Shandley, president of Victoria City Policemen's Union, who said local policemen would "dress up and act like damn fools" in bobbies' helmets if members of the tourist trade group walked the streets in "three-cornered hats, knee-breeks and wigs."

Mr. Shandley made this statement when advised that the group may ask the police commission to put the men back in bobbies' helmets.

ONLY ON BEAT

Mr. Lane said there was no suggestion that motorcycle or police car patrolmen should wear the tall helmet.

"We are concerned only with the policeman on the beat. If necessary, we could compromise by having the tall helmet worn only in historical areas, such as the Legislative Buildings and the Inner Harbor."

He believed the tall helmet would help counter criticism that Victoria is losing its individuality and becoming "just another American city."

"I have had many letters to this effect from both Victorians and American tourists," Mr. Lane said. "And just recently there was an article in a Bellingham newspaper saying that our city is losing its distinctive character.

LOSE TOURISTS

"If we don't stop this trend, our American tourists will stay away. They don't come up here to see a replica of what they have at home."

Police Commissioner William J. Hamilton said he had no objection to the tall helmet "if it is a decent helmet, but we aren't going to push it down anyone's throat."

He said policemen might be willing to wear the helmet on the streets if they were given some additional honorarium.

"But no one has offered to pay them and we certainly cannot afford to."

Mr. Lane, who recently revisited his native England, said the tall helmet there is worn only by the policeman on the beat—not by motorcycle or car police.

"Another point," he said, "is that commissionaires and postmen are often mistaken for policemen in Victoria. The tall helmet would prevent this confusion."

Brothers Buy Grandpa's Handiwork

The third generation of a pioneer Victoria family today acquired four downtown buildings built with bricks made here nearly 75 years ago by the grandfather.

Humber Brothers Furniture Ltd. has purchased buildings at 1102, 1106, 1112 and 1118 Langley. Together with its present building at 531 Bastion, the company now owns all the property in the block between Fort and Langley, through to Bastion Street.

Maurice Humber, operator of the firm with brothers Bruce and Barley, says the properties were acquired to give the company badly needed display and warehouse space.

The building at 1102 and 1106 Langley was built with bricks made and stamped by his grandfather, Maurice Humber, the third generation Maurice Humber said.

The building housed the first steam electric plant serving Victoria. Later it was occupied by doctors, lawyers and an auctioneer. Sold to British interests some years ago it has been rented by Humber Brothers.

Amount of the sale was not disclosed.

B.C. Land and Investments Ltd. handled the deal.

$700,000 Plan For 'Bachelor' Apartment Block

Proposed construction of a $700,000 apartment block in the James Bay area was disclosed by Mayor Percy Scurrah at a city finance committee meeting today.

He did not give the site.

The apartment would consist of about 100 bachelor suites, he said.

"It's an apartment designed for bachelors or young married couples," he said.

The mayor said the proposed project would require an amendment to the zoning by-law which required requiring off-street parking for each suite.

He suggested that apartments be required to provide parking space for 65 per cent of suites instead of 100 per cent.

The committee agreed to recommend the mayor's proposal to council.

'EVERYONE' IN AREA SHOULD BACK IT

Arboretum Championed By 150-Member Society

The 150-member Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society has thrown its support behind a movement to establish a national arboretum in the Greater Victoria area.

A. V. Ahier, president, said the society has joined "en bloc" the Victoria Arboretum Society which is seeking to establish a large botanical garden to feature trees and shrubs from all parts of the world.

Everyone, regardless of whether he lives in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay or Colwood, should support this project," he said. "An arboretum would not only enhance the prestige of this area but would attract nation-wide attention.

To prove his point, the 59-year-old gardener noted that in a recent issue of the New York Times Victoria was described as a North American "plant mecca."

The article described Victoria gardens as "outstanding and some unequalled on this continent."

The gardens of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edgell and Mr. Ahier were singled out as examples where some of the world's most unusual shrubs and plants can be found growing.

2,000 SPECIES

Mr. Ahier has more than 2,000 species and varieties of plants growing in his 100x420-foot garden.

"I don't believe Victorians realize yet how many people come to Victoria just to see our gardens and plants," said Mr. Ahier. "I know several Americans who plan to retire here because of our gardens."

A national arboretum would assure Victoria's position for all time as the plant mecca of this continent," he added.

Three Receptions to Mark Opening of B.C.'s Top Residence

British Columbia's No. 1 residence, the $1,500,000 new Government House, became a home this week as Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross moved in and today announced plans for their "housewarming" parties. First will be a reception May 19 for the premier, cabinet members and MLAs and their wives. Next will be May 20 when members of the weekly and daily press, radio and television will be invited to view the mansion and attend a reception. And then on May 24 afternoon there will be a reception for the architects, contractors, sub-contractors and works department officials. Times photographer Bill Halkett's aerial photos taken from a helicopter, show, left, the southern side of the mansion overlooking Juan de Fuca Strait, and right, the northern exposure which is the main entrance. Stone archway incorporated in entrance was all that remained when old Government House burned to the ground in the early morning of April 15, 1957.

West to Offer 'Package Plan'

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four foreign ministers announced complete agreement today on a package plan they will deliver to the Geneva conference next month. They then unexpectedly ended their session.

The foreign ministers, however, later arranged a brief new informal meeting late today to clear up some unsettled questions of strategy, raising the question whether their claimed unity was in fact complete.

A final communique gave no details of the plan. The foreign ministers opened their meeting Wednesday to unify their positions for the East-West foreign ministers conference at Geneva May 11.

The ministers said they stood four-square behind the West's pledge to hold firm in Berlin and to refuse to abandon the 2,500,000 residents of that city.

Though the communique did not say so, official sources reported the ministers had agreed to negotiate a separate Berlin settlement if the Soviet Union rejects the over-all package deal on Berlin, German unity and European security they plan to propose at Geneva.

This allied agreement on a fall-back position was disclosed before the British, U.S., French and West German foreign ministers began their closing discussion of Britain's project for a zone of limited, controlled arms and armies in central Europe.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan has advocated establishment of such a zone as the first step in a cold war settlement with the Russians.

The four-power meeting, which opened here Wednesday morning with tentative plans for a three-day stand, was adjourned shortly after noon.

The last snag was cleared away this morning when the British proposal for a central European security zone was modified. The United States, France and West Germany had objected to the original British proposal, fearing the West would be put at a disadvantage militarily.

Officials said the British proposal will be fitted into the allied program for unification of East and West Germany. In other words, its fulfilment would depend on progress to-

A statement said of the radio-TV star:

"Mr. Godfrey was operated on this morning for removal of a tumor in his left lung. The upper lobe of the lung was successfully removed with the contained tumor.

"He withstood the operation well. His general condition immediately post-operative is good."

The statement was issued by Alvin J. Binkert, executive vice-president of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, where the operation was performed.

The surgery lasted five hours. Godfrey was then taken to a recovery room. He will remain there until attending physicians feel he has recovered sufficiently to be returned to his own room.

Bribe Case Judgment Reserved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment in the Sommers-Gray bribery and conspiracy appeal case.

The court gave no indication when it will announce its decision.

However, a court official said there would be no delay in view of the fact that Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray have started to serve five-year prison sentences.

Their appeal was put at the head of the list of cases to be heard at the spring session of the court to expedite a decision.

Sommers, a former British Columbia minister of lands and forests, and Gray, Vancouver timber executive, were convicted and sentenced to five years each—Sommers for having accepted bribes from Gray in 1953-54 and Gray for having bribed Sommers in return for special treatment in obtaining forest management licences.

Canada Freed From Curbs

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States is lifting its import restrictions on Canadian oil, effective June 1, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today in the Commons.

Removal of the restrictions, subject of several formal protests by the Canadian government, was announced in Washington at the same time.

The exemption from the restrictions is worded so that it can apply only to Canada and Mexico, but Mexico ships virtually no oil into the U.S. The move removes barriers to oil entering the U.S. by pipeline, truck or rail.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the United States decision is "of significance in terms of our general relations with the United States in that it removes a distressing source of irritation, and reflects a degree development of resources which is so necessary for the economic prosperity and mutual defence of our two countries."

The import controls—a form of quota went into effect on a voluntary basis in July, 1957, and since last March 10 have been in the form of mandatory government controls.

The United States justified the controls on the grounds of national security and defence.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker repeated the gist of the several protests sent to Washington: That the controls were not consistent with the mutual security interest of the two countries in North American defence.

He expressed the government's "satisfaction" at the move.

'TEACH CHINESE IN SCHOOLS'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senior high school students should get lessons in Chinese and Japanese, the Chant Royal Commission was told Wednesday.

The committee on Asian studies from the University of B.C. said in a brief that by any standards—economic, political or cultural—"Japan is as influential a country in the present world as Spain and has more direct links with B.C. than Spain and Spanish America together."

Yet, while Spanish was taught in B.C. schools, Japanese was not.

Chinese should also be taught now so the western world won't be "caught napping a second time" when China, like Russia, emerges as a world power, the brief said.

Decision Reserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The president of the Exchequer Court of Canada said today he is "inclined" to allow a damage action by Newfoundland against the federal government to go to trial. Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson said, however, that he would reserve formal decision until June.

FOR MACMILLAN

Monty's Mum On K's Message

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery announced today that Nikita Khrushchev has given him a "friendly message" to deliver to Prime Minister Macmillan.

Montgomery refused to disclose any details of the message and said it was a verbal one. "It's up here," he said, pointing to his head.

He was addressing a press conference a few hours after his second meeting in two days with the Russian premier on his self-appointed mission to Moscow.

Montgomery said he now has "certainly a much better idea" of Soviet aims.

"I had heard a lot about it before, but now I know it from the horse's mouth," said Montgomery, who personally arranged the meeting with Khrushchev for the purpose, as he described it, of improving East-West relations.

Montgomery said that during their meeting today, lasting just under an hour, Khrushchev had invited him to return to Russia for a holiday but that he had no plans in the foreseeable future to return to Russia. He himself had asked Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Soviet defence minister, to visit him in England.

Asked about future plans, Montgomery said he plans to go to South Africa to visit his wartime chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Sir Francis Guingand. He said he also plans to visit Canada next spring.

Big Tanker Ship Planned for Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — A $16,000,000 tanker supply ship will be built for the Canadian Navy, the government disclosed today in a white paper on defence.

Informants said no contract has yet been let on the 22,000-ton vessel.

The tanker will also carry helicopters, giving it a limited anti-submarine role. Naval helicopters carry torpedoes and devices which are lowered into the water to listen for submarines.

The tanker will enable destroyers to remain at sea for greatly extended periods of time. It will be able to refuel three ships at one time and will have a carrying capacity of 12,000 tons of fuel oil, 1,200 tons of diesel fuel, 1,000 tons of aviation fuel, 250 tons of food and stores and torpedoes.

Informants said further tankers may be built and suggested they might be nuclear-powered. Because the tankers could remain at sea almost indefinitely to replenish destroyers, this might obviate the need for building atomic-powered submarines.

Seems th' conference has bin a success. Now fer th' conference!

'Believe Briggs' Plea Made, Lawyer Mourns 'B.C.'s Loss'

"The province of British Columbia is poorer for not having Lee Briggs as general manager of the B.C. Power Commisson."

With these words, Hugh McGivern, counsel for Briggs, Wednesday completed his summation of the contribution the former PC general manager had made to public power development in B.C.

In a summation which even opposing counsel described as "extremely well done" Mr. McGivern traced Briggs' role before the Shrum Royal Commission. This is the body set up to investigate Power Commission operations.

For four months it has heard evidence from a steady flow of witnesses, and studied 113 exhibits. From now until mid-July, when it will bring down its report, chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum, commissioners William Anderson and John Dunsmuir will pour over a bulky transcript of nearly 1,000,000 words.

Few of the words were more eloquently delivered than those of McGivern. Of Briggs, the man whose outbursts against the proposed refinancing of Power Commission borrowings led to the setting up of the Royal Commission, McGivern said:

"I ask you to believe in his submissions.

"Lee Briggs was motivated by only one thought—to bring in all the facets of the public utility (the PCP before this commission.

"He never wished to make unfair comments. If he made any which were unfair they should be accepted as expressions of opinion."

Mr. McGivern dealt at length with the government's refinancing proposal of government advances to the power body.

As general manager of the commission Briggs attempted "to arrange a solution."

"At no time," said Mr. McGivern said:

LUXTON — Directors of the annual Luxton Fair have abandoned plans for formation of a Southwest Vancouver Island Agricultural Society to stage a two-day Class C fair this year.

The society was formed in the hope that Sooke, Colwood, Langford, and Metchosin would join forces to hold an expanded two-day fair here. It was dissolved by unanimous vote when Stan Hiscock, chairman, announced there were not sufficient members present to make the new society practical.

Luxton fair directors and their duties are as follows: R. Proudfoot, fair manager; T. Money and John Williams, construction; William McDowell, refreshments; W. Robertson, advertising; Mrs. W. Christy, entry secretary; Mrs. A. Lacroix and F. Staverman, exhibits; Mrs. P. Colclough, secretary; Douglas Price, public relations.

Sponsor of the fair is Metchosin Farmers' Institute.

GRADUAL PLAN

Civil Defence Role For Canada's Militia

OTTAWA (CP)—The 41,000-member militia will be converted almost exclusively into a Civil Defence force, it was indicated in a defence white paper published today by the government.

"The equipment not needed for survival operations will be withdrawn gradually from the militia as equipment for these Civil Defence operations is introduced," the 51-page white paper said at one point.

Informants said all artillery, tanks and mortars will be taken away from the militia though the reserve army will retain small arms such as rifles and transport and communications.

There are 26 armored units in the militia, including 22 regiments, and 52 artillery units, including 17 field regiments and six medium regiments. They will not be disbanded.

"All the regular and reserve forces in Canada not directly engaged in activities against an aggressor will be available for survival operations," the paper said.

with the Kremlin leaders on his first full day in Moscow Wednesday. At the Briton's request, Khrushchev invited him back for another talk this morning. Western diplomats could not recall any other private visitor accorded interviews on successive days.

"There is so much to talk about, so much of interest," said the retired British soldier, who is here "to improve East-West mutual understanding" despite strong disapproval of British newspapers and most politicians.

ward a German political settlement.

The British idea as originally conceived calls for controls, inspection and limitation of armed forces in a tension-ridden area of Europe roughly embracing the two Germanys, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Critics expressed fear a pullback in that particular area would put the West at a military disadvantage. It was understood that one of the things Britain agreed to was extension of this area. But how far it would run was not disclosed.

Qualified sources gave this outline of the new allied plan of negotiations:

The Western package will cover the Berlin dispute, the reunification of Germany in four phases and a plan Europe security system.

If, as expected, the Soviets reject this package, the Western allies have agreed to fall back on a new position that would allow a separate arrangement on threatened Berlin.
